VOL. 2. NO 18 $1 PER YEAR

LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB

THE ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING WAS HELD DURING THE FORENOON.

ALL OF OLD OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

A Balance of $450 at End of the Year, Together With $1,050 On Interest—Committee to Arrange a Picnic.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The Ladies' Musical club held its annual business meeting at the Elks' club rooms this morning, with an excellent attendance.

Mrs. W. D. Steele, who is the life president, made a little talk to the club, reviewing the work of the year, which she pronounced the most delightful in the existence of the club.

The annual election of officers was held, and all of the old officers were re-elected by acclamation, viz:

Mrs. E. F. Yancey—Vice president.
Mrs. Nannie G. Estill—Treasurer.
Miss Jessie Blair—Secretary.
Miss Lucille Hill—Librarian.
Miss Jessie Smith—Accompanist.
Miss Sara Payne—Assistant accompanist.

The office of second vice president was created, and Mrs. Charles Bard was elected to fill it.

Mrs. Steele appointed as the executive committee for the following year Mrs. Oscar H. Ott, Mrs. J. H. Rodes, and Mrs. John T. Baxter.

The reports of the various officers were presented and approved.

Mrs. Ott, chairman of the executive committee, made a report on the financial results of the recent concert.

Mrs. Estill's report showed that, including the concert money, the club at the end of its year's work will have on hand almost $450, aside from its $1,050 interest-bearing note.

The annual picnic was discussed and the following committee appointed: Mrs. W. F. Keyser, Miss Gertrude Brandt, Mrs. E. E. Codding and Mrs. C. C. Evans.

It was decided to have a picture taken of the chorus, and Mrs. Ott, Miss Campbell, Miss Camp and Mrs. Harris were named as the committee to arrange for the same.

A committee on resolutions, consisting of Miss Blair, Mrs. Bard and Mrs. Estill was appointed.

The meeting adjourned, the members declaring this to have been the most satisfactory and profitable year of the club's work.

POSSIBLY FATALLY HURT

Mrs. Fred Long Was Injured in Runaway Accident.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Mrs. Fred Long, wife of a farmer near Longwood, was possibly fatally injured in a runaway accident on North Summit street at 10 o'clock this morning, and late this afternoon she was lying in an unconscious condition at the home of a friend with the outcome of her case gravely considered by her attending physician, Dr. H. B. Cole.

In company with another lady and a gentleman, Mrs. Long was riding in a two-seated vehicle, pulled by a team of horses. In the vicinity of Boonville and Engineer avenue the team took fright and started to run away.

Mrs. Long jumped from the vehicle and was rendered unconscious and sustained dangerous wounds. She was taken to the home of Mr. Taylor, on Summit street, and Dr. H. B. Cole was summoned. He pronounced her injuries dangerous, to say the least.

The team was stopped before either of the other occupants was injured.

IS BRYAN'S FRIEND

Governor Johnson Says He Isn't Trying to Defeat the Nebraskan.

Detroit, April 29.—JGovernor Johnson, of Minnesota, in an interview given here today vehemently denied that his candidacy for the presidential nomination has any connection with Wall street or Tammany. He said he is Bryan's friend and is not in the race to defeat Bryan. The tariff, he thought, will be the real issue of the campaign. He will be a guest at a banquet here tonight.

Prohibition in Platform.

Hot Springs, Ark., April 29.—The republican state convention yesterday instructed the Arkansas delegates to the Chicago convention to vote for Secretary Taft, and declared in favor of prohibition. Gen. Powell Clayton heads the delegation to Chicago.

Died at the City Hospital

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Felix Brownsky, a Russian machinist, died from brain and typhoid fever at the city hospital at 7 o'clock last night, aged 28 years.

He had been an inmate of the institution over a week. A wife and two children in the old country survive.

The body is lying in state at McLaughlin's Undertaking company rooms and burial will likely be made in the potter's field.

DEATH FOLLOWS LOSSES

NEW YORK SOCIETY MAN KILLS HIMSELF ARTER DISASTROUS SPECULATIONS.

COOLY ARRANGED DEATH'S DETAILS

Called Physician Over Phone, Then Shot Himself Through the Head—Was Supposed to Be a Millionaire.

New York, April 29.—Following the suicide last night of Charles Coster, a prominent broker and millionaire society man, of this city, the stock exchange firm of Coster, Knapp & Co., of which the dead man was a member, announced its suspension today on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange. The firm is prominent and had an extensive business.

Coster had lost heavily in speculation lately and prepared for his voluntary death with neat coolness. While Mrs. Coster was at a reception, he telephoned the family physician that Mrs. Coster had a severe cold, and asked him to come to the house at once, and soon afterward sent a bullet through his brain. When the physician arrived he found him dead.

TRUSTED CASHIER TOO LONG

Checked Up After Seventeen Years; $10,000 Shortage Alleged.

St. Paul, Minn., April 29.—A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Thomas W. Frankham, cashier of the St. Paul and Western Coal company, who has been missing for a week. He is charged with embezzlement, and a $10,000 shortage in his accounts.

Frankham has had unrestricted control of about 500,000 tons of coal, owing to the confidence imposed in him by reason of seventeen years of faithful service. His transactions were never thoroughly checked up.

It is reported that when the books of the company are thoroughly checked up the shortage may be much greater, possibly as high as $50,000 or $75,000. Extravagant living is given as the cause of Mr. Frankham's shortage.

KILLED SIX SEAMEN

German Sailors Experimenting With Submarine Mine Are Blown Up.

Kiel, April 29.—Two seamen of the German battleship Elsass were killed and six others wounded here today, as the result of an explosion of a submarine mine. A launch from the battleship was experimenting in blowing up obstructions in the water and during the maneuvers one of the mines exploded prematurely.

SHOT UP THE TOWN

Robbers Loot Bank of $7,000 and Get Safely Away.

Crookston, Minn., April 29.—Robbers burglarized the Scandia State bank early today and secured $7,000. After the robbery they terrorized the inhabitants by shooting up the town and escaped.

The Alleged Negro Rapist.

The preliminary examination of Lloyd Cannon, a negro, charged with having ravished Miss Sophia Schwensen, also with having made an assault with the same intent on the same victim, will be held before Judge Clark at 2 p. m. Friday.

SEER DROVE HIM INSANE

DEATH MAY RESULT TO WISCONSIN DANE FROM TRULY WIERD PROPHESY.

THE END EXPECTED IN FEW HOURS

A Fortune Told in the Old Country May Result in the Death of Nels Christensen Before Day Ends.

Kenosha, Wis., April 29.—Nels Christensen, a well educated Dane 26 years old, is in jail here, waiting for his death, which he believes will occur some time today. He has said his last farewell to his friends.

Christensen came to Kenosha from Copenhagen last June. Before he left his native country a Danish fortune teller told him he would be arrested on April 27 and that he would die two days later.

He also told him he would find in the jail a one-legged man, a Dane and a cross-eyed man. He was picked up in a Kenosha street talking incoherently.

Awaiting him at the door of the jail was Harry Hanson, a Dane; Charles Hanson, who has only one leg, and Ole Hertzberger, who is cross-eyed. When Christensen saw the three he threw up his hands and cried:

"It's no use."

Then he fell in a faint on the floor. Since that time he has been preparing for death.

Physicians attending him say his condition is such that he may not survive.

LOCKED IN A VAULT

The Broker Was By a Robber and Almost Suffocated.

Chicago, April 29.—Held up in his private office, locked in a vault and robbed of $100, directly across the street from the office of Chief of Police Shippey and Mayor Busse, and within 50 feet of the detective bureau, William G. Garrett, a LaSalle street broker, with offices in the Oxford building, was rescued from death by suffocation last afternoon.

A daring hold-up man, entering the office while Garrett's employes were at lunch, forced the broker into a vault and then locked the iron door upon him.

After locking Mr. Garrett in the vault the lone hold-up man ransacked drawers, breaking into closets, desks and finally finding a strong box in the broker's private desk, ran off with it and $100.

Mr. Garrett was almost suffocated when William H. Jackson, janitor of the building, entered the office and with the help of a locksmith released Garrett.

WAS MERELY A PIMPLE

But It Killed the Noted Bacteriologist, a Martyr to Science.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 29.—Dr. James Curtis Ralston, a bacteriologist, died at his home in this city yesterday, a victim of his devotion to his profession and love of research.

Three times within six months Dr. Ralston has suffered an infection as a result of laboratory experiments, but finally succumbed to the last. The case that ended in his death was caused by a small pimple that appeared on the left hand early in April.

Soon it began to swell and all that science could do was resorted to to save the arm. Finally it was necessary to operate in the hope of saving his life, but all efforts were futile.

WALKED AROUND NAKED

Patients on the Roof of a Sanitarium in Chicago.

Chicago, April 29.—Dr. H. E. Lane, head of the Kosmos Hygienic Institute, at 765 North Clark street, was arrested yesterday because men and women patients parade the roof of the sanitarium clad only in pure air.

Arthur R. Rockett, 767 North Clark street, is the complainant. He declares he feared to have guests because, should they glance at the sky line above the hospital, they were liable to see a man, or perchance a woman, outlined against the sky dressed even as a small boy who gambols about and plunges recklessly in the swimming hole in the summer time.

Others whose dress was almost equally as scarce paraded about the yard, and Rockett asserted he had lapsed into a state of constant nervousness for fear that what transparent garments hung loosely from shoulders might, in a moment of carelessness, be allowed to fall to the ground. He concluded that he could stand it no longer and appealed to the police.

Will Entertain the Ladies.

Sedalia council No. 831, Knights of Columbus, will give an entertainment for ladies at the lodge hall on the night of May 14. Lecturer Pat Shea has the affair in hand. Ice cream, strawberries and cake will be served.

MR. KNOX IS ENDORSED

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION INSTRUCTS FOR HER FAVORITE SON.

RESOLUTIONS DEMAND NOMINATION

Platform Praises Roosevelt and His Administration and Favors Tariff Revision, but Only by Republicans.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 29.—The republican state convention met here today to name the delegates at large to the national convention, and not in years has there been such a quiet state political gatherings.

State Senator Joseph A. Langfitt, of Pittsburg, was chosen temporary chairman, and the convention burst into cheers when he, in a brief speech, mentioned the name of Philander C. Knox as the favorite son of Pennsylvania in the presidential race.

The platform, after indorsing President Roosevelt and his administration in glowing terms, and declaring especially for a revision of the tariff, but only by republicans, says:

"Pennsylvania having not only continuously and consistently contributed to the greatness of the republic and the republican party, we believe she is pre-eminently qualified by tradition and purpose to name the next president of the United States. We therefore instruct our delegates to work and vote for Philander Chase Knox as long as he shall consent to stand for the cause of Pennsylvania and until he becomes the chosen candidate of the national convention."

The following were selected as delegates at large: James Elverson, Philadelphia; Charles A. Rook, Pittsburg; Governor Edwin S. Stuart and obert P. Hapgood, of Bradford. The delegates applauded that part of the platform indorsing Roosevelt vigorously.

GUESTS AT A LUNCHEON

It Was Given at the Huckins by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lawrence.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The officers of the executive committee of the Civic Improvement league of Sedalia and a few invited guests were entertained in a delightful luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lawrence at the parlors of the Huckins hotel at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Roses furnished the decoration.

The affair was merely a social gathering, the outside guests being Mayor J. L. Babcock, ex-Mayor John A. Collins, Dr. H. B. Cole, Prof. G. V. Buchanan, W. H. Barnett, W. H. Ramsey, E. W. Shultz and J. W. Mellor.

The guests, constituting the executive committees of the four ladies' clubs of the Civic Improvement league follow:

Sorosis—Mrs. John Montgomery, Mrs. C. E. Caine, Mrs. D. H. Smith.

D. A. R.—Mrs. E. A. Wood. Mrs. D. T. Abell, Mrs. O. M. Barnett.

U. D. C.—Mrs. C. C. Lawson, Mrs. J. A. Collins, Mrs. H. W. Harris.

Chautauqua—Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Mrs. H. E. Carpenter, Mrs. T. H. Johnson.

The officers of the league are as follows:

W. H. Ramsey—President.
E. W. Shultz—Vice president.
Mrs. Charles Evans—Second vice president.
Mrs. A. J. Tucker—Third vice president.
J. W. Mellor—Secretary.
Mrs. H. B. Cole—Treasurer.
Mrs. W. J. Letts—Assistant treasurer.

OPERA IN COREY'S HOME

WIFE OF THE STEEL MAGNATE WILL SING WITH JEAN DE RESZKE.

MABELLE IS HAPPY IN NEW STUDY

Before Sailing for Paris the Former Actress Tells What She Will Do for Unfortunate American Composers.

New York, April 29.—Mrs. W. E. Corey, formerly Mabelle Gilman, will build a private theater in this city to produce operas by American composers who have no means of procuring a hearing for their work.

Mrs. Corey made this statement yesterday before she sailed on the steamship Deutschland with her husband for Paris. In Paris she will study for the operatic stage.

"I am happy in the thought of resuming my studies with Jean de Reszke," said Mrs. Corey. "I expect to be at work within a few days after our arrival. No time will be wasted on details. I have several roles entirely learned—every word, every measure perfect. With De Reszke I expect to appear in grand opera this season."

Mrs. Corey has told her intention to have a theater in her own home, as she has in her chateau near Paris. Mrs. Corey said she would engage the best singers available for each production and would appear herself.

She plans to give three performances of each opera, the first a dress rehearsal for the inner circle of her friends, the second for critics, managers and musicians, and the third to create a fund to develop the talent of those who do not have the means to pursue their studies properly.

Speaking of her study and contemplated appearance with De Reszke, Mrs. Corey said:

"I hope to sing with him either in 'Aida' or 'Carmen.' The dramatic conception and interpretation probably will be my own, as Mr. De Reszke has always been most complimentary about this side of my work, and frequently asked me to pose or gesture for the class. He certainly does not take the individuality out of his pupils, and for this I am very thankful, as that is one phase I love."

FOR LOSS OF LEG, $32,500

Woman Teacher Was Given a Verdict for That Sum.

White Plains, N. Y., April 29.—A verdict for $32,500 damages against the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, and in favor of Miss Annie Mahoney, one of the passengers injured in a wreck of the Brewster Express in February of last year, was returned by a jury in the supreme court here yesterday.

Miss Mahoney sued for $100,000. One of her legs was amputated as a result of the injuries she sustained in the wreck. At the time she met her injuries she was a school teacher and the sole support of her mother.

Counsel for the railroad moved that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the weight of evidence. Decision on the motion was reserved.

WITH THE DOOR NAILED SHUT

Six Italians Who Feared Thieves Are Asphyxiated.

New York, April 29.—The bodies of six unknown Italians, supposed to be miners from Midvale, Pa., were found in a room on the third floor of a Greenwich street house late yesterday.

The gas in the room was turned on, and the coroner stated that the men had been dead several hours.

After the Italians had closed the door for the night they had nailed it shut from the inside and had fastened the window tight, evidently in fear of thieves.

A FORTUNE OF $500,000

Possessed By a Fair Rider in a Wild West Show.

Chicago, April 29.—Miss Ruth Stokes, a beautiful young girl worth half a million dollars, is traveling with a wild west show, and cowboys, Mexicans, Cossacks and ranchmen are jealously striving for her smiles.

Miss Stokes owns a valuable ranch and 20 oil wells near Sapulpa, Okla. Her income is $100 a day.

Asked why she preferred the wild show life to the drawing room, the young equestrienne replied in her breezy western way:

"I just got tired of civilization. I was educated in music, art and other things till I rebelled. I knew a lot of the girls riding with the show and the proprietor said he would look after me. I would rather ride a horse than dance a cotillion or attend the opera. This is real life. Lordy, what will my eastern friends say if they ever hear of this?"

Miss Stokes is a brunette, 5 feet 9 inches in height, strong and graceful as a fawn, and decidedly pretty. She was educated in New York.

MR. HAMLIN HUMOROUS

HE READS NOTICE OF THE SALE OF THE "G. O. P." ON NOVEMBER 4, NEXT.

BIG ELEPHANT AND ALL ARE TO GO

This Includes the "Big Stick" We Have Heard So Much About—Wants the Tariff on Wood Pulp Removed.

Washington, April 29.—Representative Courtney W. Hamlin, of Missouri, added life to the proceedings in the house yesterday by reading a notice of a public sale which appeared in a paper published in his congressional district.

The sale, according to the notice, is to take place at the capitol in Washington, beginning November 4, next, and it indicates to Mr. Hamlin that the republicans are preparing to vacate Washington for the democrats.

The sale is to be by auction, and the bargains include one elephant, branded on the side "G. O. P.," about 45 years old; one financial panic, old enough to be weaned, sired by Wall street and damned by everybody; one big stick, slightly impaired by overwork, and 5,000,000 Teddy bears. Roast crow will be served free on the grounds by the Young Republican clubs.

Mr. Hamlin read the notice in a speech in which he discussed the proposition to remove the tariff on wood pulp and print paper. He asserted that 90 per cent of the republicans, if compelled to vote, would vote to remove the duty.

A DISTRICT CONVENTION

Of Knights and Ladies of Security Held Here Today.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The district convention for the Seventh district of the Knights and Ladies of Security was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning in the hall of the Royal Tribe of Joseph building by John Gold, of Sedalia. Mr. Gold was elected chairman and Harry Noftsker, also of Sedalia, was elected secretary.

Dr. O. L. Peak and Jacob Marx, both of Springfield and O. P. Hurry, of New Franklin, were appointed committeemen on credentials, while Dr. Peak, J. R. Ervine, of Slater, and Harry Noftsker, of Sedalia, were appointed a committee on resolutions, after which the meeting adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chairman Gold called the afternoon session to order, at which time Dr. Peak, of Springfield, and L. F. Ritchie, of Sedalia, were elected delegates to the national convention of the order to be held at Philadelphia in June, while Jacob Marx, of Springfield, and John Gold, of Sedalia, were elected alternates.

Delegates from the following places were present at the convention: Slater, Odessa, Lexington, Marshall, Springfield, New Franklin and Sedalia.

The convention will adjourn tonight, after which a social time will be indulged in by the delegates and local lodge members.

May Open Up a Hall Here.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Frank George, a coal operator at Higginsville, who this month was elected a member of the council there for the eighth consecutive year, is figuring on putting in a first-class bowling alley in Sedalia, provided he can secure a suitable location. Mr. George is a model citizen in every respect and Sedalia would be glad to welcome him and his family. He went to Boonville last night after a day's visit here.

WAS SLAIN IN A FRENZY

PENNSYLVANA FANATIC MURDERS HIS NIECE IN COLD BLOOD.

TAKEN IN CUSTODY ON TUESDAY

"God Killed the Child," Said Wife of the Slayer After the Crime—First He Smashed the Furniture.

Allentown, Pa., April 29.—The report of a murder by a religious fanatic in the borough of Alliance, near here, reached this city yesterday. The little daughter of Henry Smith, a councilman, was killed by Smith's brother-in-law, Robert Bachman, of Nazareth, Pa., while on a visit at the Bachman home. At the time of the killing Bachman was in a frenzy. He drove everybody except the little girl out of the house.

Bachman was the head of a new praying band and last week he interested the Smiths. They went to Bachman's house last Saturday, prayed and held services and then decided to remain until the spirit told them to leave.

Late Monday night under Bachman's direction, Smith, in fighting the devil, broke three doors, kicked in the footboard of a bed and jumped on the bed, smashing it.

Meanwhile Bachman was in an adjoining room with the Smiths' only child, May Irene, who would have been 5 years old today. When Mrs. Smith entered that room she found her daughter dead on the floor and Bachman on his knees. The mother picked up the body of her child and ran from the house. Later the father and mother took the body to their home, eight miles distant.

Last afternoon Bachman was arrested. His wife told the coroner that God had killed the child and that her husband was a God.

SEDALIAN ON COMMITTEE

Missouri Bar Association Would Amend Constitution.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 29.—Members of the Missouri Bar association will push the pending constitutional amendment to increase the number of supreme court judges from seven to nine and to increase their salaries from $4,500 to $5,500.

R. T. Bailey, of Harrisonville, president of the Bar association, has announced the appointment of J. M. Atkinson, Doniphan; Sanford B. Ladd, Kansas City; W. M. Williams, Boonville; D. W. Hill, Poplar Bluff; O. M. Spencer, St. Joseph; J. H. Bothwell, Sedalia; Seldon P. Spencer, St. Louis; Edwin Silver, Jefferson City; John W. Hilliburton, Carthage, and James T. Neville, Springfield, as a committee to draft an address to the people, calling attention to the changed conditions in Missouri.

"WET" MAYOR STEPS DOWN

Resignation Recently Presented Took Effect Today.

Mattoon, Ill., April 29.—Because Mattoon was voted "dry" in the recent local option election, Mayor Lewis Lehman recently resigned and today retired from office.

The retiring mayor is a bank president. He is a believer in temperance, but declares that he cannot consistently continue to head the city government, because of the alleged fact that the loss of the $19,000 yearly revenue from the nineteen ousted saloons will so cripple the municipal finances as to render the city bankrupt.

ARE NOT FOR BRYAN

Delegates to Connecticut Convention Refuse to Endorse Nebraskan.

New Haven, Conn., April 29.—The committee on resolutions of the democratic state convention today refused to adopt a platform that would place the convention on record in favor of Bryan, and also refused to accept a resolution expressing continued confidence in Bryan's leadership.

Succeeds Mrs. Hansberger.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The Pettis county court today appointed Mrs. Eula Cole, widow of Dr. W. M. Cole, secretary of the Associated Board of Charities.

LOOK TO THEIR SAFETY

Moving picture shows, known generally as nickelodeons, have grown in numbers during the past few months, until now in every large city they are familiar sights in almost every business block. The smaller towns, too, have them, their number being limited only by the size of the city in which they are located.

Sedalia has two of them, both doubtless doing a profitable business, if one may judge by the crowds that are seen going in and coming out during the hours that performances are given.

The shows themselves are harmless and innocent amusements, and do not when proper pictures are shown injure the morals of the spectators in the slightest and owing to the small price of admission charged, can not seriously affect the pocket book of even the poorest.

They perhaps fill a long felt want, in that they provide a means where those who, not overburdened with money, may spend an hour or so during the week in enjoyment that relieves the monotony of every day toil and takes from the mind, for the time being, the ever present problems of existence.

But the charge is made by authorities in some of the large cities that by reason of the arrangement of these places, the location of the picture machine in reference to the exits, the danger of explosions, which, if they should occur, would necessarily be between the audience and the doors, the shows are a menace to the lives and limbs of those attending.

In consequence of this, active steps are being taken everywhere to remedy the evil complained of and to compel those operating the places to do away with all dangerous features and to make them absolutely safe for even the women and children, who are generally the best patrons.

Sedalia authorities should follow the example set by the larger cities and thoroughly inspect both the houses operated here, and if they are not now perfectly safe compel them to be made so before permitting any further performances.

DEMOCRATIC OPPORTUNITY.

The stars in their courses fight against the republicans this year. For twelve long years democracy has been torn with strife and pilloried with jeers, sneers and mockery. These twelve years are passed and gone. These twelve years of trouble are just now opening for the opposition. Witness their condition in national, state and local affairs. With the presidential candidate it is anything to beat Taft. If Taft is beaten, how will they conjure with the name of Roosevelt, who has made Taft his heir apparent?

Yates and Deneen are at each other's throats in Illinois. Foraker, the firebrand, is going up and down in Ohio, applying the torch, and saying what fun it is.

The Missouri situation needs no comment. With dissension, distrust, ruin and defeat staring them in the face, it is no wonder that they refuse to grow jubilant at the beating of the tom-toms and the weird gyrations of the paid dancers, who fling to the breeze banners clouded with broken promises and false issues.

REVISING THE TARIFF.

The republicans, if they control the next congress, will not need the advice and assistance of a tariff commission; for all they need to do is to call in the experts and attorneys of the trusts. That is what they did in 1897, when the present tariff law was fixed up. What is the use of deceiving the taxpayers, as Congressman Payne does, by declaring that "tariffs have always been made without anything like adequate information." Mr. Payne and the other members of the ways and means committee were fully advised when they were considering the Dingley tariff law, that high rates demanded by Mr. Carnegie and the steel trust people would breed monopoly. When they allowed the Standard Oil trust attorney to write the proviso to the oil schedule, they knew they were protecting the trust and adding at least 50 per cent to the price of kerosene to the American people, and to the poorest people at that.

When they accepted the beef trust schedule on hides they pretended to be protecting the American farmer, but they knew they were helping the leather and beef trusts. When they accepted the wool schedule of the Wool Growers' association, they knew they were adding at least 75 per cent to the cost of woolen goods to the people of the northern states, who from necessity have to buy them, and instead of helping the farmers it was the flock masters of the great western plains that were mostly benefitted. When they wrote the schedule that protects the paper trust they must have known that the newspaper publishers would have to pay the tariff duty in increased profit to the trust. Not a scredule but was carefully considered and all with the same intent and purpose of adding to the burdens of the people for the benefit of the trusts.

The trusts were well acquainted with the facts and in return have been most liberal contributors to the campaign funds of not only the republican national committee, but also to the committee which manages the election of congressmen. Millions have been paid by the trusts and protected monopolies to secure the election of presidents and congressmen, both of the senate and the house, who are "sound on the tariff."

And now the same old show is to be played again with a different title and the excuse that there must be added maximum schedule rates to protect us from the pauper labor of Europe, whose working men are now in better condition than our own workmen are because the cost of living is less.

The English workingman has lower wages, but the world to draw upon for his necessities, for every country, including the United States, sells him its surplus products in competition with each other, with no tariff duties to speak of to add to the price. Here everything imported that is manufactured is taxed, and the trust profits by adding the tariff rate to their own natural profits, the only difference being that the government collects the tariff tax on the goods imported and the trust collects the tariff tax on the goods produced here, while the tariff protects them from foreign competition.

It is now proposed to promise the people to revise the tariff "after election," but whether the tariff is to be revised higher or lower is left to the imagination of the voter. As the republican leaders now declare they must enact a maximum tariff as well as a minimum tariff, it is evident that some of the trusts want still higher rates and no doubt they will be accommodated by their friends, the republican politicians.

THE SOCIAL SWIM.

Precedent with its thousand graduations is more discussed in Washington than in Vienna or Madrid, and in the capital of democracy, where such things are ostensibly decried, snobbishness and struggle for social place are marked by the abandonment of all ideas of democracy and even decency.

Senators and representatives laugh at our "Vanity Fair," says the Boston Traveler, but the question of social precedence seems a serious one to their wives, many of whom are obsessed with the idea that as each one climbs the social ladder it is her imperative duty to put obstacles in the path of the one just below. The game is cruel and heartless. It has nothing in it of morals or the brotherhood of man.

The new and stronge standards of royal etiquette which have been established at Washington mean strange and unmilitary duties for army and navy officers, which are not only foolish, but abhorrent to old fashioned democratic ideas.

SOCIALISTS AND UTOPIA.

If the parlor socialists would tell us just what they wish the community to do it would be easier for us to distinguish between them and communists, anarchists and miscellaneous undesirable citizens.

Of course, they wish every one to be perfectly comfortable, if not rich. They may not go as far as a labor member of the English parliament, who predicts champagne and turtle soup for all, but they wish all to have plenty of food and clothes and nice houses, with gardens around them; not more than eight and preferaly six hours work a day; Saturdays as well as Sundays off; two weeks' vacation a year, and means enough to spend them at Atlantic City or Palm Beach, and a nice little competence to retire on when about 60 years old.

But we all wish everybody to have this amount of comfort and more also. We are all trying to reach that point. More of us are attaining it now than ever before. Still, we are all dissatisfied that the community advances so slowly to a state of universal comfort.

The parlor socialists, says the Philadelphia Record, are abusive of society, the church, modern civilization and the industrial system for not having achieved the beautification of humanity, and we ask them just what should be done, in their opinion, to accelerate the coming of the millenium.

Some of them advocate the public ownership of land. The substitution of the state for private land owning would substitute rent for taxes and might do a great deal for the producing class. But how is the land to be acquired? By confiscation or purchase? And the railroads and the factories and all other instruments of production—how is it proposed that the state shall acquire them, and is any governmental business carried on better than private business is, so that we may look forward to honest and efficient administration of all the public utilities and instruments of production when the socialist program shal have been established?

Let the socialists give us a definite program or confess that they are visionaries, or admit that they are practicably indistinguishable from the communists and anarchists with whom they are often confused.

USELESS COMMISSIONS.

It is stated that President Roosevelt has become disgusted at last with government by commission, and well he may be. The appetite for commissions, like other unwholesome appetites, seems to grow with what it feeds upon. How many government commissions are now in process of incubation in congress it is hard to say without searching the files of the two houses; but how many will be hatched is another thing. All these commissions provide fat salaries for politicians and friends or members of congress, else they would have no attraction for anybody.

Besides, their creation implies that congress is incapable of attending to its own business, and that in most important cases it has to let out the job. Yet, experience has shown that nine times out of ten the dropsical reports of these commissions, issuing from the government printing office, receive no consideration from congress and merely go to the waste basket.

BOY ENSLAVED, HE SAYS

Memphis Lad in Omaha Tells Tale of Kidnaping.

Omaha, Neb., April 28.—William McDuffy, 13 years old, of Memphis, Tenn., who is now in the matron's department at the city jail, told the police a tale of kidnaping and slavery.

McDuffy says that some time ago a number of horse traders were passing through Memphis and they kidnaped him. The boy says that they beat him, made him work hard and threatened to kill him. They came north from Tennessee and are now in camp near South Omaha. They told the boy, he said, that if he went into a city he would be hanged.

Yesterday be became desperate and ran away early, coming to Omaha, where the police picked him up.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

ROBERT NORRIS, SECRETARY KANSAS STATE TEMPERANCE UNION.

JUDGE GILLPATRICK HOLDS HIM

Alleged That Norris Made Affidavit That Bar Existed in Leavenworth, Kas., When Such Was Not the Case.

Leavenworth, Kas., April 28.—The case of Robert Norris, secretary of the State Temperance union, who was arrested here on a charge of perjury last summer, was called up in the district court last afternoon. After long arguments Judge Gilpatrick decided to hold him for trial.

Norris was here gathering testimony against "jointkeepers" and it is alleged that he made affidavit in writing that a bar existed in a place where none could be found.

Attorneys for the "jointkeepers" insisted on a trial, while lawyers from the office of the attorney general and county attorney asked for a dismissal.

F. S. Jackson, attorney general, will be here today, when the case will be taken up again and considered along with several cases against "jointkeepers."

TOM JOHNSON WINS FIGHT

All Cleveland Lines on Three-Cent Fare Basis.

Cleveland, O., April 28.—Victory crowned the seven-year battle of Mayor Tom L. Johnson for operation of all the city's electric lines at 3-cent fare when a lease was signed just before midnight last night transferring operation of all the lines in the city to the Municipal Traction company, fostered by the mayor.

The Cleveland Electric Railway company, the 5-cent fare road, which had acquired the Forest City Railway company, and with it the Low Fare company and the Neutral company, Johnson corporations, paying $5 for them, leased the merged lines to the municipal company, a holding corporation, and accepted a security franchise voted by the city council earlier in the evening.

By this grant, the old company may resume operation, selling six tickets for a quarter, its blanket franchise covering the city and enduring twenty-five years, if the municipal forfeits its lease.

Three-cent fare is promised ten days from midnight when the new company assumed control.

NEW ENGLAND DRY GAIN

MASSACHUSETTS TO PUT 210 SALOONS OUT OF BUSINESS ON MAY 1.

CITY OF WORCESTER TO CLOSE 128

In Vermont There Will Be Only 27 Wet Cities and Towns Against 92 Five Years Ago—Movement is Growing.

Boston, Mass., Apriy 27.—Conditions governing the traffic in intoxicating liquors in many portions of the New England states become seriously disturbed on the first of May, when changes in the local option take effect, and temperance workers are pointing to the general situation as an index of spreading sentiment against the saloon. In Massachusetts, by changes in six cities and thirty-six towns, 210 licensed places, or 10 per cent of the total number, must abandon the liquor business at 11 o'clock Thursday night.

In Vermont only twenty-seven cities and towns will legalize the sale of liquor this year, as compared with ninety-two license cities and towns five years ago, when local option took the place of state prohibition.

In New Hampshire an important ruling of the state license commissioner takes effect on May 1, whereby druggists' licenses throughout the state will be abolished, and in Rhode Island, the temperance interests have just succeeded in forcing restrictive liquor legislation through the house of representatives.

A more radical upsetting of the liquor policy of Massachusetts has not occurred in fifteen years than will be brought about on May 1, when three of the largest manufacturing cities of the state and a number of smaller places, after long periods of license, give up the liquor traffic, in accordance with the will of the people, as expressed at the polls during the recent months. One of these cities—Worcester, with its population of 130,000—is shown by statistics to be the largest municipality in the country, if not in the world, under a no-liquor license regime. When this decision takes effect on Thursday night, the licenses of 128 places, including seventeen hotels, will be rendered void.

The second largest of the Massachusetts cities to enter upon a period of no license this year is Lynn, which showed its opposition to the saloon for the first time in twelve years. The saloons of the city have paid annually $93,591 in license fees.

The "no license" vote throughout the state, as shown by returns from all but four towns, and a majority at the recent elections of 18,085. A year ago, according to the Massachusetts Total Abstinence society, there was a "yes" majority of 6722, making the year's net gain for no license 24,807.

Two cities and thirteen towns, changed to license, while four cities and twenty-three towns changed to no license. It is estimated that about 2,000 men were employed in the places, which will have to close for the ensuing year.

A NEGRO WAS INSULTING

And Was Thrown From a Platform in South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., April 29.—Captain John G. Capers, United States collector of internal revenue, and national committeeman from South Carolina, hurled a threatening negro from a platform in the state republican convention hall here last afternoon. The negro landed on his head and was not hurt.

Just before the convention was called to order for the afternoon session, E. B. Thompson, a negro, took charge of the chair, and was presiding over a recess meeting, at which various delegates were speaking.

Capt. Capers stepped upon the platform and was introduced by Mr. Thompson as "a good democrat." After this the two men faced each other, and Thompson brandishes a large hickory stick which he was using as a gavel, in the face of Capers.

Seeing that the negro was bent on a row, Capt. Capers hurled him from the platform, the negro falling upon his head. By this time the hall had filled up with delegates and visitors, and there was a rush for the platform, as if to do Capers harm. Friends of Capers came to his assistance.

For ten or fifteen minutes pandemonium reigned. Chairman Deas finally restored a semblance of order and the convention proceeded to do business.

YOUNG GIRLS ATTACKED

IDA TAYLOR, 13, AND PEARL TAYLOR, 17, SISTERS, AT HOME IN NEBRASKA.

POSSE LOOKING FOR BERT TAYLOR

He's Brother-in-Law of the Girls, Who Were Terribly Mistreated, After Which the Dwelling Was Set on Fire.

Minden, Neb., April 28.—Shortly after midnight last night a man entered a house here where Ida Taylor, aged 13, and her sister, Pearl, aged 17, were sleeping and attacked them.

The man dragged Pearl into the kitchen and beat her until she was insensible, set fire to the house and then fled.

Ida managed to drag herself from the house and give an alarm. The elder girl was still unconscious this morning.

The girls had been attending school nearby and lived alone in a house which was provided by their parents.

A posse is looking for Bert Taylor, the girls' brother-in-law.

STOLE FOR SICK BROTHER

In Consequence, Judge Pollock Was Lenient.

Kansas City, Mo., April 29.—It was sentencing day in the United States district court yesterday. Judge Pollock, of Kansas, was on the bench. Alfred Friend, formerly a clerk in the New England National bank, had stolen out-of-town remittances by means of juggling accounts in the bank. The government prosecuted him for getting only $5, but he was supposed to have got about $2,000. After everything in the case was told Judge Pollock undertook to examine the prisoner on his own account.

"What made you do it?" he inquired.

"This made me do it, sir," Friend replied, displayng a packet of letters and holdng them out toward the bench. "Would your honor read them, please?"

Judge Pollock scanned some of them, interrupting his perusal to ask:

"And did you send the money to this sick brother of yours?"

"I have the money order receipt for it," Friend then said, at the same time producing another paper and handing it to the judge.

After reflecting a minute, the court announced that as Friend had been confined to jail for six months, had lost his employment and had not profited by his thievery, he would be let off with a fine of $500, which means only thirty days in jail. The United States government never holds a prisoner longer than thirty days in liquidaton of a fine, no matter how big it may be.

ROBBED IN HER HOME

MRS. EUGENE HUGENSCHMIDT HAD TERRIFYING EXPERIENCE SATURDAY NIGHT.

INTRUDER TIED HANDS AND FEET

Then Secured Her to a Sewing Machine—Fearing for Her Life the Terrified Woman Gave the Assailant $75.00.

Mrs. Eugene Hugenschmidt, wife of a salesman for Peter Pehl, was tied and threatened with her life and then robbed of $75 between 10 and 11 o'clock Saturday night at her home, 721 West Fourth street.

The money stolen was all in the house and was secreted in one of Mrs. Hugenschmidt's stockings. Threatened that she would be killed if she refused to give up the money, she complied with the robber's request.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Mrs. Hugenschmidt, who had been up town in company with Mrs. Will DeBold and Mrs. Dan Byard and little daughter, returned home, making the trip a portion of the way by herself.

She noticed a stranger who appeared to be following her, but paid little attention to the man, thinking that perhaps he was returning to his home on that street.

After entering her residence Mrs. Hugenschmidt prepared to retire, and, attired in her night garb, started out the rear door to get a pitcher of water.

As she opened the door and put one foot on the back porch she was confronted by a tall man of slender build, with a red bandana handkerchief shielding his face, who shoved her back into the house, at the same time remarking that he wanted all the money on the place.

Mrs. Hugenschmidt attempted to close the door, but the stranger had succeeded in gaining entrance. The man requested her again to give up her money, to which she replied a second time that she had none.

This angered the stranger, who in the meantime had ransacked the bureau drawers, and seizing hold of Mrs. Hugenschmidt he securely tied both feet with a string necktie, lying on the floor.

He then tied both hands with a similar cord and tied both hands to a sewing machine in the sitting room. The stranger then made a third request for money and, fearing that her life would be endangered if she refused, she extracted the foregoing sum from her hose and handed it to the man, who made a cool but hurried exit through the front door and disappeared.

Mrs. Hugenschmidt was unable to release herself, and after a strenuous effort she managed to drag herself to the telephone and with the receiver taken from the hook with her mouth notified "central" of the robbery and called for the police.

Officer Farmer was first on the scene and cut the cords, which bound Mrs. Hugenschmidt's hands and feet to the machine. Later Officers Baley and Bryant and Deputy Constable Phalings were on the scene, but a vigilant search for the man failed to locate him.

Mrs. Hugenschmidt described the stranger as tall and slender, with light trousers and dark coat and dark slouch hat. On acount of the handkerchief over his face she was unable to say whether he was white or black. He also wore gloves.

Mrs. Hugenschmidt was badly frightened by reason of her experience, while her wrists were badly swollen on account of being tied so tight.

W. R. PAINTER IN SEDALIA

Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Lieutenant Governor Here.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

W. R. Painter, of Carrollton, Mo., editor of the Democrat, of that city, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, was in the city today looking after his political interests.

Mr. Painter is a good democrat, and possessing many friends throughout the state, stands a good chance of winning the place he seeks. It is certain that if nominated he will make a good race, and if elected, of which there can be little doubt, a splendid state official.

Bring a $5 bill and get a suit worth two or three or four times as much. Suit sale Saturday morning.—St. Louis Clothing Co.

A Former Sedalia Divine.

The capture of the Rev. E. A. Neville, former pastor of Calvary Episcopal church here, by cannibals of New Guinea, Africa, a few years ago, was made the subject of almost a full page article in Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The substance of the story has heretofore appeared in these columns.

Rev. Neville is now in charge of the New Albany, Ind., Episcopal church and has been elected the Indiana delegate to the Pan-Anglican church conference which meets at Webster Abbey next June.

Sutton Bests Hoppe in Exhibition.

St. Paul, April 29.—In an exhibition game of 18.2 balk line billiards last afternoon George Sutton defeated Willie Hoppe, 400 to 225. Sutton's first score was a run of 249. Hoppe's high run was 132. The game lasted thirteen innings.

SAW SON STABBED IN DREAM

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Killion Go to St. Louis to Visit Injured Boy.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Killion left this morning for St. Louis, where their son, Frank, was severely stabbed Sunday by Augustus Minisch, as chronicled in yesterday's Democrat-Sentinel.

"I saw Frank in a dream Saturday night," said Mrs. Killion to the Democrat-Sentinel, "and witnessed the stabbing, just as if I had been on the scene where it occurred. Oh, it was something awful, but I said nothing about it at home until after we had been advised of the assault, as I did not want to create needless alarm.

"People need never tell me there is nothing in presentiment in future. Oh, my poor boy! We had a letter from him a few days ago, in which he stated that he was to be appointed assistant engineer at a big plant in St. Louis today (Monday), and he would come home for a two days' visit before he entered upon his duties. Instead, however, we are called to what may prove his death bed."

Mrs. Killion this afternoon wired a friend from St. Louis that her son's condition is critical, but hope of his recovery has not been abandoned.

A FATAL INCENDIARY FIRE

Mother and Three Children Believed to Have Perished.

Laporte, Ind., April 28.—Mrs. Belle Cummerson and her three children are believed to have perished today in an incendiary fire which destroyed their home in the country north of here.

Mrs. Cummerson has had trouble for several months with a young man who annoyed her. He cannot be found.

DIES AT SISTER'S FUNERAL

Pana Man Stricken, Like Relative, With Heart Disease.

Pana, Ill., April 28.—Jerry Millhon, of Owane county, fell dead yesterday while at the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Lida Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens died in the same manner Saturday from heart disease.

TO CLEAN THE STREETS

CITY ENTERS INTO CONTRACT WITH MESSRS. BALL & BOSSERMAN.

IT WENT INTO EFFECT LAST NIGHT

Will Continue Until January 1, 1909, With a Special Provision for Winter if It Is So Desired.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Mayor J. L. Babcock and Aldermen DeJarnette, Johns and Olmsted, the latter three constituting the street and alley committee of the city council, and Alderman Andler and Clerk Baker met at the mayor's office Friday night and took the initiative for a thorough and regular cleaning of the principal public streets of the city.

A contract, which went into effect Saturday night, was formulated between the gentlemen and Messrs. Ball & Bosserman, street cleaners and sweepers, whereby the following streets are to be swept on three nights of each week:

Ohio avenue, from Main to Broadway.

Lamine avenue, from Main to Fifth street.

Osage avenue, from Missouri Pacific tracks to Fifth street.

Main street, from Lamine avenue to Moniteau avenue.

Third, Fourth and Fifth streets, from Lamine avenue to Osage avenue.

According to the terms of the contract, it will continue in effect until January 1, 1909, with a special provision to be continued through the winter, should the city council so desire.

The terms of the contract were not made public on acount of the papers not yet having been signed.

Messrs. Ball & Bosserman began street sweeping last night.

TEN BUILDINGS BURNED

A $50,000 Fire at La Plata, Missouri, Last Night.

La Plata, Mo., April 28.—Fire here last night that for a time threatened to destroy the town destroyed ten business buildings and caused a total loss of $50,000.

The flames were not placed under control until morning.

MR. E. T. OREAR TO RETIRE

Gentleman Who Is Well and Favorably Known in Sedalia.

Kansas City, Mo., April 29.—Edward T. Orear will retire as president of the Gate City bank May 1. He will be succeeded by Addison M. Clark, to whom Mr. Orear has sold part of his stock. Mr. Orear will continue as a director. Mr. Clark is an early resident of Kansas City. He has large real estate holdings here and has a real estate and loan office in the R. A. Long building.

"We organized the bank in 1906," Mr. Orear said, "at its present location, Twelfth and McGee streets. The business has grown steadily until we now have $600,000 in deposits. I am retiring as an active officer because I feel the need of more outdoor life. I will spend the summer at my farm at Sweet Springs, Mo., and devote my time to looking after my various business interests. I will make my headquarters at the bank."

BULLETS AT EXCELSIOR

Dr. C. F. Simmons and a Former Employee in Gun Fight.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 29.—Dr. C. F. Simmons and Norman H. Chamberlain, a former employe, engaged in a revolver fight on Broadway near Siloam spring at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Dr. Simmons stood behind a telephone pole and Chamberlain behind a tree. Just how many shots were fired is not known, but none of the bullets took effect. The trouble resulted from a controversy while Chamberlain worked for Dr. Simmons, Chamberlain said he could not get along with a sister-in-law of the doctor.

While the men had each other covered Chamberlain shouted, "Come out in the open and I will. You take three paces and I will."

Dr. Simmons made no reply, but kept his aim. Afterwards he said that was no time to talk. It was time for action, he said.

Too Free Speech.

The allegations made during a trial for "blasphemy" raises the whole question of courtesy and kindliness in public discussion. Ridicule and sarcasm are permissible, and effective weapons in debate, but mere vulgarity and abuse or irreverence in dealing with subjects that are sacred to others, are not to be confounded with free speech and cannot be tolerated.—Lloyd's (Eng.) News.

H. W. KNIGHT, SR., IS DEAD

HE DIED OF PARALYSIS OF THE HEART AT EARLY HOUR THIS MORNING.

AT ELKS MINSTRELS LAST NIGHT

Funeral Services at the Residence on West Fifth Street Thursday Afternoon—Good Man Goes to His Reward.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Harry W. Knight, Sr., president of the Knight-Marshall Hardware Co., and commercially and socially one of Sedalia's representative citizens, expired very suddenly at his home, 709 West Fifth street, at 4:30 o'clock this morning, the attending physicians assigning as the cause of death paralysis of the heart.

Mr. Knight was a few weeks over 50 years old, and no death in this community has caused more universal surprise than did his.

In company with his family, he attended the Elks' minstrels last evening and after the rendition of the program he returned home.

Standing in the dining room of his residence, about 11:30 o'clock, Mr. Knight was suddenly seized with a severe pain about his heart. He staggered to one side and fell into the arms of his wife, at the same time uttering the words, "Angeline, I'm going to die."

The immediate members of his family were summoned and Mr. Knight was carried into an adjoining room and placed upon a sofa. Drs. C. A. Wood, W. J. Ferguson, W. G. Cowan and M. T. Collins were summoned at once, and diagnosed the case as acute paralysis of the heart.

Opiates and hydrogen were administered to the patient by the physicians, and, apparently, he rallied. An hour after the attack he seemed to be better, and Drs. Ferguson, Collins and Cowan left, leaving the patient in the care of Dr. Wood.

On the latter's advice, Mr. Knight was removed to his apartments on the second floor of the residence where hot water bags were applied to all parts of his body. He appeared to be suffering from paralysis of his arms and legs, and, assisted by his children, was lifted about his bed.

Mr. Knight remained in that condition until a little after 4 o'clock this morning, when a second attack manifested itself, and expanding his chest he gave one gasp and passed into the unknown beyond.

He was conscious to the last, but evinced little interest in his surroundings, although his wife, two sons, daughter and daughters-in-law were at his bedside at the time of death.

Mr. Knight was born in Germantown, Pa., on Feb. 10, 1848. In his youth he entered a preparatory school at Lawrenceville, N. J., and after a five years' course was graduated. Immediately secured a position as a traveling salesman for the Biddle Hardware Co., of Philadelphia, his father, William W. Knight, being the founder and one of the principal owners.

After two years with that firm, Mr. Knight came west to St. Louis where on Nov. 14, 1872, he was united in marriage to Miss Angeline Marr, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Marr, of Port Dover, Canada. The two went to Denver, Col., at once and Mr. Knight purchased a sheep ranch, disposing of it a little more than a year afterward.

He then purchased an interest in a hardware business in Denver, and after a year sold out, when, accompanied by his wife, he went to Harrisburg, Pa., to accept a position as traveling salesman for the Biddle Hardware Co.

For thirty years Mr. Knight remained with that company in the capacity of traveling salesman, and his reputation with the management was firmly established when the company presented him with an expensive gold watch in appreciation of his services for selling over $1,000,000 worth of hardware in the time that he had been with the company.

Less than three years ago, after speculating in the Alaska gold fields, Mr. Knight decided to locate in the west, and after visiting several towns came to Sedalia and soon negotiated for the purchase of D. H. Smith's interest in the Smith-Marshall-Howe Hardware Co.

The sale was consummated in July, and in September Mr. Knight assumed charge, later purchasing a controlling interest in the business. His ability and integrity were far above the average, and no man in Sedalia was held in higher esteem.

As a husband and father, Mr. Knight commanded the esteem and respect of every acquaintance, while in his social duties, as well as in business affairs, he was looked upon as a model to pattern after.

Mr. Knight in infancy was a member of the Episcopalian church, but later affiliated with the Presbyterian church. He was an esteemed member of the Masons, also held membership in the Elks and Royal Arcanum.

Besides his wife, he leaves four children, as follows: Horace, Joseph, Mrs. Josephine Baldwin and Harry. He also leaves a brother, W. A. Knight, of Germantown, Pa., and two sisters, as follows: Mrs. Edward Christman, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. James Marr, of El Paso, Texas.

Rev. D. M. Clagett, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Douglass Atwill, will conduct funeral services at the family residence at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and burial will be made in the city cemetery.

The following will serve as active pall bearers:

R. D. Marshall, W. A. Latimer, Jas. F. Montgomery, C. C. Evans, W. H. Powell and H. W. Harris.

The honorary pall bearers will be as follows:

J. West Goodwin, Harry H. Hawkins, D. H. Smith, John Montgomery, Jr., H. H. Fleming, W. J. Crouch, W. S. Bard and W. D. Steele.

Mr. Knight was a man whose word was as good as his bond. His friendship was esteemed by every acquaintance, and in his death legions of friends will join the Democrat-Sentinel in extending sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

CHILLICOTHE TO BE DARK

Closing of Saloons Cuts Down Revenue of Missouri Town.

Chillicothe, Mo., April 28.—C. D. Jones, of Centerville, Ia., president of the Peoples' Gas and Electric company, last evening notified the city council that the street lights of the city would be turned off Thursday night, April 30. The general revenue fund of the city is exhausted and there is no prospect of getting additional funds for eight months to come.

The council notified the light company two months ago that it would not be responsible for service furnished the municipality, and the company agreed to take chances for a few weeks until some arrangement could be made to raise additional revenue or vote a light levy.

There is no prospect for an early settlement of the revenue shortage, resulting from the closing of thirteen saloons at the recent local option election.

THE CHILLICOTHE CONDITIONS

Denial That the City Was Darkened By Saloons Closing.

A statement is being published in the daily papers that the light plant at Chillicothe is shut down on account of voting the saloons out. The saloons have not closed yet, so that could not effect the situation.

The following is a statement from two tax-paying citizens of Chillicothe, D. B. Hollidoy and J. F. Smith:

"Our city is in financial trouble of 20 years' standing. We owe now $12,000.00 debt, which has accumulated the last two years while we had from 12 to 17 saloons. Our lights are not shut off; but they have been in the past closed for months at a time, when we had 17 saloons paying license. The saloon revenue has always consumed itself in our city.

Business prospects in our city were never better."

$5 for a suit worth $10 to $20 is an investment that should appeal to you.—St. Louis Clothing Co.

The Odd Fellows' Celebration.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Sedalia Monday night celebrated the eighty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the order. The entertainment program consisted of addresses, short talks, responses to toasts and music.

The address of the evening was made by the Rev. A. Sterling, of Smithton, grand chaplain of the grand lodge of Missouri Odd Fellows. Mrs. Nellie Eiseman, of Sedalia, made an address in behalf of the Rebekahs.

At the conclusion of the principal addresses delicious refreshments were served.

A BOAT WAS CUT IN TWO

BRITISH TORPEDO VESSEL DESTROYER WAS SUNK IN THE NORTH SEA.

COLLIDED WITH THE "ATTENTIVE"

Another Torpedo Boat Destroyer, the "Ribble," Was Also Involved, and Two Compartments Filled With Water.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Hardwich, Eng., April 28.—The British torpedo boat destroyer Gala was cut in two and sunk early today off Kentish Knock in the North Sea, by the scout Attentive.

The torpedo boat destroyer "Ribble" was also involved in the collision and returned to Sheerness with two compartments full of water.

The flotilla was engaged in night maneuvers when the accident occurred.

Engineer Lieutenant Frank A. Fletcher, of the Gala, went down with the boat. There was no other loss of life.

MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT

THE SENATE ADJOURNED DURING READING LAST EVENING.

'TIS PRECEDENT OF DISCOURTESY

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, Who Has No Use for Mr. Roosevelt, Moved to Adjourn and the Motion Prevailed.

Washington, April 28.—When another special message from President Roosevelt urging action upon his legislative program reached the senate last last evening that body refused to listen to it. The action involves startling, if not unprecedented discourtesy to the president.

Before three lines of the message had been read, a motion to adjourn, made by Senator Foraker, was adopted amid so much turmoil and confusion that few persons knew what had been done. It has been a practice heretofore to have special messages read immediately upon receipt by the senate.

The message was delivered to the senate directly after the final vote on the naval bill. The secretary who brought the document from the White House waited around the senate chamber for more than four hours. He had been instructed that it should not be handed in until the battleship vote was taken.

In the noise following the passage of the naval bill, the vice president laid the special messaeg before the senate. The clerk was in the second sentence when Senator Aldrich arose and said:

"It is very late, and I suggest that the reading of the message be delayed until tomorrow."

Foraker followed this immediately with his motion to adjourn.

The message is longer than the similar outburst of last month. It again asks for action upon all the subjects treated in the message of Jan. 31, though the chapter on battleships is eliminated.

The keyed-up house rules to meet the democratic filibuster reacted to shut out the message.

It was found impossible to untangle the snarl of motions to get the house out of committee of the whole and back into the same committee today, and also to take a recess until that time, and finally to cover the point of no-quorum long enough to have the president's message received, much less read.

His secretary, Mr. Latta, who had waited for an hour in the corridor, was turned away with the message under his arm, and made his way to the senate. Some of the salient features of the message follow:

The American people have definitely made up their minds that the days of the reign of the great law-defying and law-evading corporations are over.

The employers' liability law comes short of what ought to have been done, although it represents a real advance.

One feature of the financial legislation of this session should be the establishment of postal savings banks.

Ample appropriation should be made to enable the interstate commerce commission to carry out the Hepburn law.

Forest reserves should be established throughout the Appalachian mountain region, wherever it can be shown that they will have a direct and real connection with the conservation and improvement of navigable rivers.

They are blind to fail to realize the extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use that has been made of the power of injunction in labor disputes. It is unquestionably true that in a number of cases this power has been used to the grave injury of the rights of laboring men.

The demagogue, who strives to arouse the feeling of class-consciousness among our working people forfeits his right to stand on a footing of entire equality with other citizens.

Anything is better than anarchy and complete absence of regulation.

A dual control of national commerce is impossible. The states can not control it. The nation should have the control both of the business and the agent by which the business is done, for any attempt to separate this control must result in grotesque absurdity.

An Engineer for Congress.

If was announced at Columbia Monday that Charles S. Blackmar, of Boone county, has decided to enter the race for congress in the Eighth district as a republican candidate. Mr. Blackmar is a locomotive engineer.

STRANGER FOUND DEAD

Body Lying Only Few Feet From Missouri Pacific Track.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The body of a well dressed man apparently 43 years old, was found yesterday three and one-half miles east of Herman, a few feet from the Missouri Pacific tracks.

He was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, wore a suit of dark cloth, blue black trousers and a Fedora hat. His hair is black, slightly tinged with gray, and he had a sandy mustache.

The only thing that could lead to his identification was a slip of paper on which was written the name and address of Gordon Haynie, Bois D'Arc, Mo.

IN A BLAZE OF GLORY

THE ELKS PULLED OFF THEIR MINSTREL SHOW LAST NIGHT.

ANOTHER GREAT SUCCESS SCORED

Entire Company Did Most Excellently and Songs and Jokes and Jests Went With a Vim—House Was Crowded.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Sedalia Elks again scored an artistic and financial success last night when they presented to an absolutely crowded house at the Sedalia theater their much heralded and eagerly awaited 1908 minstrel aggregation.

Always in the past these entertainments by all star local talent have been received with hearty approval by the public and each one has been pronounced superior to any of the preceding ones, but last night—well, to say that it was the best ever, is putting it mildly in the extreme.

On time—something seldom known in amateur productions—the curtain rolled swiftly up, exposing to full view the entire aggregation of Sedalia prodigies—excepting two who appeared later—seated tier upon tier in gorgeous array.

In the center, immaculate and dignified and seeming to appreciate to the full the importance of the position he occupied as the one around whom all the fun and jests and melody would splash and whirl, was W. E. Powell, long famed as an interlocutor par excellence. On either side were the white-faced soloists in full dress suits and on the ends the six chief fun producers of the evening, with of course the two exceptions above noted.

These six were Cog Easton, Ed Bosserman, Charlie Menefee, Pit Stanley, June Harris and "Bill" Riley.

First came several chorus numbers grandly sung by the entire company, then the fun began, with merry jest and quip, all with local touch and color, and each bringing forth a laugh.

Charlie Menefee's song was the first. It was, "All I Get Is Much Obliged to You," and was given with a true imitation of how an anxious negro flunky would act when tips were few and far between. Mr. Menefee's voice was good—as it always is—but his artistic manipulation of his feet was where his real success shone most brightly.

Mr. Bosserman's "Somebody Lied" was a gem, and like everything else he did brought down the house, not once but many times.

"Won't You Be My Honey," sung by O. W. Wood, was a gem. Mr. Wood has a most pleasing voice, a graceful carriage and rendered his number with an ease and finish very seldom displayed by those not making the stage a profession.

W. J. Riley's contribution was "Ching-a-Ling," and Mr. Riley being an Irishman naturally enacted the part of a Chinaman to perfection, even to his singing. He was there for comedy and it was comedy he gave them, pure and simple.

June Harris was next to sacrifice himself and right royally did he do it. He contributed "If the World Don't Treat You Right, Come Home," and spread himself out into the audience and made them know he was there "with the goods." He pleased everybody, of course, and pleased himself more, so much so that he reached right over the footlights, grasped the conductor's hand and said, "You're all right; when anyone can make me sing as you have he certainly is onto his job."

One of the best rendered numbers of the evening was John W. Menefee, Jr.'s, "That's What the Rose Said to Me." Mr. Menefee's voice is a beautiful one and he sang naturally and in perfect sympathy with the spirit of the ballad.

"Brother Noah Gave Out Checks for Rain," by Cog Easton, was good, more than usually so, the singer having a pleasing voice and acting out each line of the song very gracefully. This number terminated with a burlesque on a ball game, participated in by all the end men, which was very funny.

Pitkin Stanley gave "Just Because He Couldn't Sing Love Me and the World Is Mine," and in portraying the woes of one who lost his lady love because he couldn't warble her favorite melody was inimitable. Whether he had ever "been there" or not was the question in many minds, so accurately did he simulate the emotions of the disappointed lover.

That old favorite, C. C. Lawson, added more laurels to his already full sheaf when he gave "Any Old Port in a Storm." He is a success every time he appears in public and this time was no exception, unless he was even better than ever before.

Just here the two missing comedians, styled in the program the premiers, who were Bob Combs and Roy Barker, made their grand entry. Accompanying them were two real little darkey boys, garbed to all appearances almost as nature intended. These four sailed majestically down the center of the stage and the little fellows sang two or three pretty songs, much to the delight of the audience.

Then Mr. Barker gave "I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark," as only he can sing and portray such funny things. He was ably assisted by Mr. Harris, who enacted the part of the early milkman as the singer was zigzagging his way home to Mabel.

The only disappointment of the evening came when it was announced that owing to a bad cold Mr. Leist would be unable to render his number, "Here's to Our Absent Brothers." This regret was compensated for though by the substitute selected to take his place, Mr. Gearge Ware, whom every person in Sedalia knows, but very few of who knew possessed such a splendid voice and such a graceful stage presence. Taking the song as he did on such short notice and rendering it in such a truly perfect manner was indeed a triumph for him, of which he may well feel proud.

The effect of the song was added to by the darkening of the house and stage, from the back of which was the famed clock, illuminated, with the hands pointing to the mystic hour of eleven, known and revered by all Elks in all the land.

Bob Combs' "Wouldn't That Be a Dream" was a funny thing sung by a funny man in a funny way. Local hits abounded and Bob didn't quit responding to the audience's call for more until his entire "Dope Book" was exhausted and he had nothing more he could hand out.

About this time a controversy occurred between Bob on the stage and Manager Olendorf from the back of the house, which many thought was a real quarrel, until the denouement came, showing it to be but another one of the amusing things of the evening.

The finale of the first part was brought about by Charles M. O'Connor, who sang in sweet tenor "Here Comes That Georgia Minstrel Band." Mr. O'Connor was garbed in regulation drum major costume and brought the act to a close by leading on Sedalia's justly famous colored band, to the strains of whose music the curtain fell.

Arthur Payne, with his musical rattlers, opened the second part of the program and demonstrated very fully that this young man is entitled to the fame he possesses as a musical genius.

Then Combs again. This time he had a real actor with him. "Bunch," the only canine Elk in the United States and one who counts more friends in Sedalia among both young and old than any dog ever known in local history.

This stunt of the Disinfectant Monarch was in monologue shape and consisted of cracks at those who, unable to get at him, were compelled to sit still and listen in glowering silence. He created roars of laughter by his witty sallies and covered himself again with much glory.

Barker, the Wonderful, followed in several song and piano specialties, all of which were given as only he can, the most striking being "Harrigan," in which he was assisted by Elks in the audience.

Messrs. Pit Stanley and Cog Easton did a black face song and dance, the first as Andy and the latter at Mandy. In this they scored another hit, their dancing being especially noticeable for ease and grace.

The end of the evening's entertainment came in a representation of a Commencement day celebration at George R. Smith college, in which the entire company, together with the colored band, took part.

Wareham Baldwin, dressed as a colored gentleman of dignity, introduced the act with a song reciting the great career of Booker Washington, following which Booker himself, impersonated by Mr. Combs, entered in Will Crouch's automobile and was received with cheers. He made a grandiloquent speech and then all joined in a cake walk, thus ending the greatest show ever given anywhere on earth.

Everyone left the house thoroughly pleased with the evening's pleasure and laughing with each other at the comical things that were said and done.

Too much praise cannot be given Mr. and Mrs. Roy Conant for the able way in which they directed and trained those who participated. They exhibited wonderful patience and good nature and entered heartily and with exceptional zest into the spirit of the occasion, aiding those needing it and enthusing the entire cast with the desire to excel. Mr. Conant is a splendid director, and Mrs. Conant a musician of rare acomplishments, and they both have won the hearty good will and friendship of every Elk by their unfailing courtesy and careful attention to detail exhibited during the three weeks they have been in Sedalia.

Those participating in the entertainment, including stars and chorus, were: Edward R. Andler, Roy P. Barker, W. H. Barnett, George Bichsel, Leo Bloess, Ed Bosserman, Chas. O. Botz, Otto C. Botz, George Bredeman, D. B. Bulkley, A. J. Campbell, Wm. Cloney, J. Collins, jr., R. C. Combs, A. Cordes, Wm. Crouch Earl Cundiff, H. D. Dow, Cog Easton, Jesse England, W. J. Ferguson, C. W. Shields, N. C. Smith, Pitkin Stanley, W. Waldman, Gus Werner, O. W. Wood.

A beautiful souvenir program in regulation Elk colors was given each auditor. This program was not only a finished product of the printer's art, but carried a great amount of advertising secured by the program committee, Dr. W. J. Ferguson and H. V. Leist.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

WAS SUNG FOR "THE KENTUCKIANS," ORGANIZED HERE ON SATURDAY.

JUDGE M'ANINCH IS THE PRESIDENT

Were 125 Present at Meeting at the Court House—Total Membership Is Over 200—Woman's Auxiliary to Follow.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Over one hundred and twenty-five natives of the Blue Grass state assembled, subject to call, at the criminal court room at the court house Saturday and assisted in perfecting a permanent organization known as "The Kentuckians."

C. W. McAninch was elected president of the association, with the following list of officers:

Peter Courtney—Vice president.

Charles A. Thomas, Second vice president.

C. C. Lawson—Secretary.

A women's auxiliary is to be organized at once.

Mr. Lawson presided and Rev. R. C. Miller opened the meeting with prayer, immediately after which a negro quartette, secreted in an anteroom, harmoniously chimed the old song, "My Old Kentucky Home."

John Montgomery, Van Gorrell and R. N. Lower made talks, and after an enthusiastic session the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the president.

The preliminary arrangements were made for a barbecue to be held in September, the time and place to be selected later.

Arrangements were also made to have a Kentucky day at the Missouri state fair in 1909.

The total membership of the organization now reaches over two hundred.

Secretary Lawson distributed among those in attendance a large quantity of Old Burley tobacco, which was greatly appreciated by the recipients.

THE MEETING OF SOROSIS

What Was Done at the Session Held Monday Afternoon.

At the annual meeting of Sorosis Monday afternoon the old officers were re-elected, with one exception, as follows:

President—Mrs. John Montgomery.

Vice Presidents—Mesdames Sallie Potter Sneed, W. D. Steele and C. C. Evans.

Secretary—Mrs. James S. Rogers.

Treasurer—Mrs. A. J. Tucker, vice Mrs. F. M. Fulkerson, who declined re-election.

The constitution was thus amended: It was decided to increase the membership dues from $2 to $2.50 a year. The associate membership was raised from ten to a limit of twenty-five members, and it was voted to have an initiation fee of $1 for new active members.

The reports of the secretary, treasurer and various chairmen were presented and approved.

Of the papers read during the year, it was decided that Mrs. E. A. Wood's production, "Nutritive Food Values," should be preserved by the Fifth district federation.

Miss Anna Lou Clark, of Boonville, president of the Fifth district federation, recently wrote to Mrs. Sallie Potter Sneed, offering to come to Sedalia on May 9, the only day at her disposal, to speak in favor of a permanent woman's building at the Missouri state fair.

It was voted to request Miss Clark to come and she will speak in the art room at the library at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, May 9. This address will be of interest to all women. The members of the various women's clubs of Sedalia and the women of the city generally are cordially invited to hear her. There will be no charge for admission.

On motion of Mrs. A. J. Tucker, it was voted to select for Sorosis a club color and club flower. The choice was left with a committee composed of Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. C. C. Evans and Mrs. H. A. Pratt.

The next meeting of Sorosis will be a social one. It will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, May 5, at the home of Mrs. A. J. Tucker, on West Broadway, instead of Monday, as previously announced.

VOL. 2. NO 18 $1 PER YEAR

WILL ASK FOR ELECTION

THE PETTIS COUNTY LOCAL OPTION LEAGUE SO DECIDED THIS MORNING.

SAID THE VOTE WAS UNANIMIOUS

Will Present Petitions to City Council Next Monday Night—Possible to Have Election as Early as June 8.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Sedalia is to have an opportunity to pass upon the local option question at an early date, most likely in June.

At a meeting of the Pettis county Local Option league, held this morning, with twenty-one members present, it was unanimously decided to petition the city council to call a special election at the earliest date possible, to vote whether Sedalia shall banish her neary thirty saloons for the next four years, after their present licenses expire.

Rev. James Parsons, pastor of the First Congregational church, chairman of the league, presided, and the Rev. Dudley M. Clagett, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, officiated as secretary, in the absence of the regular secretary.

The question was discussed in all of its bearings, and the unanimous sentiment was in favor of settling the question without further delay.

The council will hold its semi-monthly meeting next Monday night, when the petitions asking for the election will be presented.

According to law, the election must be called within forty days, provided the petitions presented contain the required number of signatures.

There can be no doubt on this score, as already more than twice as many signatures as are necessary have been obtained.

It is possible for the council to call an election as early as Monday, June 8, and it is likely the date will be fixed for some time before the middle of June, some think June 11.

The Pettis County league expects to have the co-operation of the State Anti-Saloon league in the coming battle, and it is said some of the ablest temperance advocates in the entire country will be heard during the campaign.

Of course, the "wets" will also put their best foot forward, and when the date is once fixed it is assured that there will be "something doing" in Sedalia every minute until the hour that the polls close.

SLIGHT CLUE TO ROBBER

There May Be an Arrest in the Hugenschmidt Case.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Chief Boulit today detailed police to work on the robbery of Mrs. Eugene Hugenschmidt, 721 West Fourth street, who was tied and then robbed of $75 while alone at her home late Saturday night.

Assistant Chief of Police Card made a personal investigation of the robbery Sunday, and immediately began working on the case. A slight clue was obtained today, and it is not improbable that an arrest will be made soon.

Mrs. Hugenschmidt, in spite of the shock, recovered soon afterward. The money which she had in her stocking had been saved from her husband's salary, with the intention of keeping it until she had saved $100, which she intended depositing in a bank.

After having both feet and hands securely tied, Mrs. Hugenschmidt, whose hands were tied tightly about the wrists, but about a foot apart, was compelled to extract the sum of $75 from her stocking, which she gave to the robber, who then left.

SNOW FELL THIS MORNING

It Began at 5:45 O'clock and Continued Five Minutes.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Fred Koyl, the street car motorman, is authority for the statement that for a period of five minutes, shortly before 6 o'clock this morning, there was a light fall of snow in Sedalia.

Judge O. E. Parsons, who lives three miles south of the city, says the exact time that the "beautiful" began to fall was 5:45 o'clock a. m. He and Walter Reynolds were out feeding the stock at that hour. Judge Parsons corroborates Mr. Koyl as to the duration of the "storm," which was just about five minutes. The snow melted as fast as it fell.

Fifteen minutes earlier, at 5:30 a. m., Judge Parsons says there was a beautiful rainbow visible in the west, although there had not been any rain during the night.

Ed J. Evans reports that at 6 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 36 degrees above zero, or only four degrees above freezing point.

Mr. Steele Is Retained.

W. D. Steele has been employed to assist the prosecution in the case of Lloyd Cannon, charged with rape and assault with intent to rape.

MAD KING 60 YEARS OLD

CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY IN CASTLE FURSTENRIED PRISON.

HE HAS SPENT 38 YEARS THERE

Amuses Himself Year in and Year Out by Smashing Furniture, Breaking Up Statuary and Other Things.

Munich, Bavaria, April 27.—King Otto, the mad monarch of Bavaria, is today 60 years of age, and is celebrating the anniversary immured in the gorgeous prison of Castle Furstenried, where he has spent thirty-eight years.

King Otto was born April 27, 1848, and succeeded his brother, Ludwig II., June 13, 1886, when that monarch committed suicide by drowning himself in the Starnberg lake. At that time he was insane, and the real monarch is Prince Luitpold, Otto's uncle, who rules Bavaria as regent.

Of King Otto's sixty years, thirty-eight have been passed as a madman, although for twenty two years he has ostensibly occupied Bavaria's throne. Physicians are of the opinion that Otto's robust constitution will enable him to "reign" many more years.

Since 1878 Otto has not left the house and park of Castle Fursterried, which is on the outskirts of Munich.

Fifteen gorgeously appointed parlors, connected by mighty folding doors, are at the exclusive disposal of the royal madman, who amuses himself year in and year out by smashing furniture, breaking up statuary and smearing mud over paintings and wall hangings.

CANNON GRANTS "FAVOR"

Speaker Says Republican Members Can Discuss Print Paper Tariff.

Washington, April 27.—As a result of the representations of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, Speaker Cannon has agreed that the subject of the removal of the duty on wood pulp and print paper shall be discussed in a caucus of republican members to be held this week.

In a speech in the house today Minority Leader Williams said that the democratic filibuster would continue until the house decided to consider the campaign publicity bill, a bill putting wood pulp and print paper on the free list and an anti-injunction bill.

NOW ITS A FLOOD

Georgia, Recovered From Wind Devastation, Faces High Waters.

Atlanta, Ga., April 27.—The devastation by wind was followed today by reports of serious flood conditions in parts of Georgia. At Columbus the Chattahooche river is rising at the rate of a foot an hour. The power house supplying the city with light is submerged and the factories located near the river have been forced to suspend. All the street cars are at a standstill. Many houses have been swept down the river.

THE CANNON RAPE CASE

IT DID NOT GO TO TRIAL IN PETTIS COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT TODAY.

DELAY CAUSED BY TECHNICALITY

Applied for a Change of Venue When Arraigned Before Justice R. G. Leaming, but Refused, Hence the Action Today.

(From Monday's Daily.)

On a legal technicality, C. C. Kelly, attorney for Lloyd Cannon, a negro, charged with having ravished Miss Sophia Schwensen, a domestic employed by Font Meriwether, also charged with having made an assault with intent to ravish the same victim, today secured a continuance in the famous rape case before Judge Hoffman in the circuit court.

The case was set for trial this morning, and all the witnesses appeared to testify. Shortly after the opening of court, the defendant, through his attorney, withdrew his plea of not guilty and filed a motion to quash the indictment.

In the motion Mr. Kelly stated that Cannon had been given no legal preliminary examination, for at the time set for the preliminary examination he filed a motion before the presiding justice of the peace for a change of venue, contending that a fair and impartial hearing could not be had before that particular justice.

Judge Leaming, the presiding judge, refused to grant the change of venue, and Mr. Kelly refused to take part in the preliminary, neither placing any of the defendant's witnesses on the stand nor questioning any of the state's witnesses.

Judge Hoffman sustained the motion to quash the information on the ground that the defendant was entitled to a change of venue, and in accordance the court remanded the prisoner to the custody of the sheriff until such time as the prosecuting attorney could hold a preliminary examination.

Cannon, as charged in the information, ravished Miss Schwensen at the home of Font Meriwether on Sept. 26, last. At the examination it developed that on Oct. 14 Cannon had attempted another assault with the same intent.

Cannon, after committing the crime, letf Sedalia and for several weeks evaded arrest, being finally located in Kansas, where he was arrested and returned to Sedalia.

WHERE IS MR. M. A. NEWTON?

And Who Is to Pay $500 Debts It Is Alleged That He Owes?

(From Monday's Daily.)

M. A. Newton, owner and manager of a general poultry commission house at 307-309 West Main street, is alleged to have left the city, leaving an indebtedness in excess of $500. No one appears to know where he has gone.

Newton came to Sedalia less than a month ago. He opened up his business in the store room adjoining Henry Laupheimer's hide house. At the beginning he paid a better price, by a small margin, for eggs, poultry, etc., than his competitors, and naturally he secured the good will of farmers who were in the habit of sending their produce to Sedalia for sale.

Newton made cash payments at first, and contracted for large shipments on ten days' time payment. Securing the shipments, he is said to have disposed of the poultry and skipped.

BROTHER WEDS SISTER

They Have Been Married Eight Years and Have Children.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 27.—So that their babies might not be taken from them, August Reschke and his wife, who is also his sister, swore stoutly in the probate court that the wife before her marriage was not Augusta Reschke, but Lena Roebuck.

As the court closed a grueling examination it was developed from both that Lena Roebuck is a myth, and that the husband and wife are really brother and sister. Their marriage is illegal because of the consanguinity law, and Probate Judge Haddon, acting with the Associated Charities, ordered the children taken away.

The couple have been married eight years. When they were babies the brother and sister were separated, Augusta being taken to Sheboygan, Wis., by Mrs. Wilhelmina Wolf, to whom her mother gave her. They met again after twenty years' separation. They justified their marriage at Canton because they were practically strangers to each other.

Sedalia Chautauqua July 20.

The annual Chautauqua, under the direct management of Fred W. Bartell, of Siloam Springs, Ark., will be given at Liberty park in this city beginning on July 20, to continue for a period of twelve days. The program as arranged is on the usual plan. Sedalia is one of seventeen towns included in the Chautauqua circuit.

GAMBLER LOST $36,000

"WINNIE" HOYT, OF NEW YORK, IN ILL LUCK IN PARIS PLAYING BACCARAT.

LIMIT OF $2,000 WAS TAKEN OFF

Usually Cautious Player and Quits When Things Are Not Coming His Way, but Was Spiked to Chair This Night.

Paris, April 27.—There was an epic baccarat battle in the Circle des Capucines last Friday night. This is the well known gaming club where John W. Gates, Capt. William H. Wheeler, Charles Singer, Charles M. Schwab and other daring players are trying their luck in Paris.

There is usually a $2,000 limit, but they took the limit off that night when Winfield Hoyt, of New York, known to his friends as "Winnie," called for "an open bank."

Mr. Hoyt, who is secretary, friend and adviser of William K. Vanderbilt, is not known as an unconscious player. Usually he gets up when luck runs against him, but Friday night he seemed to be spiked to the chair.

Earlier in the week he had won some big bets on Vanderbilt's horses and had a large roll in the beginning. It lasted well on until towards daylight, by which time, it is said, he had lost precisely $36,000.

Hoyt looked a trifle dazed when he finally left the table and his friends believed it best to walk home with him.

GAS TO MISSOURI TOWNS

Chicago Capitalists to Pipe the Fuel to Pleasanton, Butler and Clinton.

Butler, Mo., April 27.—George C. Danforth, of Kansas City, a business man, representing Chicago capitalists, is preparing to make an inspection of the territory from Pleasanton, Kas., to Clinton, Mo., and east with a view of piping natural gas from Pleasanton to Butler and Clinton, about 2,000 acres of gas land near Pleasanton, and will begin the work of putting in wells and laying mains soon.

A committee of business men of this city probably will act in conjunction with these men to get the gas to Butler, as it is on a direct line with Clinton and points east.

George C. Danforth is in the real estate business with offices in the Scarritt building, Kansas City. He says that the inspection will start in a few days. Will this interfere with Mr. Cundiff and his associates piping gas from Pleasanton to Sedalia?

MAY RESUME COMMAND

Chance for "Fighting Bob" to Sail Fleet Through Golden Gate.

Paso Robles, Cal., April 27.—It has been announced that if Rear Admiral Evans continues to improve as rapidly as he has during the past two weeks, he will join his fleet at Monterey and be in command when the big fighting ships pass through the Golden Gate. The admiral's fondest wish is that he may direct the fleet into San Francisco bay.

Judge Gresham Seriously Ill.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Police Judge H. M. Gresham is critically ill with congestion of the lungs and heart trouble at his home on North Grand avenue. His condition today was pronounced alarming. Dr. W. C. Overstreet is attending him.

STABS A FRIEND OF WIFE

FRANK KILLION, A SEDALIA RAILROAD MAN, WAS THE VICTIM.

THERE WAS A WOMAN IN THE CASE

The Sedalian Is Said to Have Been Too Attentive to Mrs. Augustus Minisch and Her Husband Used Knife Sunday.

(Monday's Daily.)

Frank Killion, a son of Engineer Thomas Killion, of the Missouri Pacific at this point, is written of as follows in the St. Louis Republic of this morning:

Frank Killion was stabbed and perhaps fatally wounded at 5:30 p. m. yesterday by Augustus Minisch in the latter's home, No. 4288 Finney avenue, in an encounter following an old grudge between the two men.

Minisch, who is 49 years old, accuses Killion of having caused an estrangement between him and his family by his attentions to Mrs. Minisch.

Killion is in the city hospital with a wound in the abdomen, a cut in the thigh and a slash across the hand. Minisch is a prisoner at the Deer street police station.

Killion is 32 years old, and is a locomotive engineer, formerly working for the M. K. & T. system out of Sedalia, Mo., where his father resides. He has not been employed for several months.

Mrs. Minisch and her husband formerly lived in Jefferson City and Killion boarded with them for a long time. Mrs. Minisch said she and Killion's mother were old friends, and she regarded Frank almost as one of her own children, but her husband grew jealous of him without cause, and there were frequent quarrels about him.

Mrs. Minisch is 45 years old, and has a son, Joseph Roy, 25 years old, and a daughter, Catherine, 20 years old, who live with her at the Finney avenue address.

The Minisch family came to St. Louis last May, but the husband has not been at home much. Last January he went to the house and ordered Killion to leave the house. A row resulted, in which Minisch was assaulted, he says, by his son, Joseph, and ordered to remain away from the house.

Killion then rented a room over Mrs. Minisch's home, and took his meals with the latter. Mrs. Minisch was desirous of keeping a boarding house and yesterday afternoon she and Killion went out to look for a location. Minisch called at the house while they were out, and sat at the front window awaiting his wife's return.

When they returned Mrs. Minisch entered the house first and went to a rear room to change her clothes. Killion entered a moment later and went to his room.

Minisch spoke to his wife as she passed through the rooms. A few moments later someone tried the front door, and Minisch went to open it. He confronted Killion in the hall.

"When I saw him," said Minisch last night, "I said, 'Didn't I tell you to stay away from this house?' He replied with an oath, and reached into his pocket as though to draw a weapon. Just then my wife opened the door and shouted, 'Frank, kill him.' Then he made another move to his pocket, and as he did so, I reached for my knife and beat him to it.

"While we were scuffling my wife ran up and helped him beat me, and I just slashed right and left.

"I had given Killion written notice two weeks ago to stay away from my house, and had also written his father in Sedalia, to see if he could not persuade him to keep away, but it seems to have done no good. There was no trouble in our household until he came there."

Mrs. Minisch is a tall, attractive woman of commanding presence. She is a dressmaker, but of late has been employed by the Laclede Gas Light company as a demonstrator, giving cooking lessons in various downtown stores.

She said she had not seen the beginning of the trouble between her husband and Killion yesterday, but was attracted by the scuffle and ran out in time to prevent her husband inflicting further damage.

Dr. J. L. Day, of No. 4101 Finney avenue, was called in to give Killion temporary treatment before he was taken to the city hospital. The physicians at the latter institution said last night that Killion's wound of the abdomen was very serious.

Mr. Hartshorn Has the Contract.

Contractor D. T. Hartshorn has secured the contract for doing the brick work on the new church building of St. Patrick's church, according to the anouncement made by Rev. Fr. McNamee Sunday.

Work on the new building will begin as soon as the material arrives.

County Court Will Assist.

To make certain that the rest rooms will not be abandoned, the county court has agreed to pay the $12 a month salary of Mrs. Nellons, the matron.

TOOK HIS WIFE'S SISTER

A REMARKABLE CASE OF DUAL LIFE REVEALED IN CALIFORNIA.

WOMAN MISSING FOR SOME TIME

Was Found Living With Her Brother-in-Law as His Wife—Arranging to Maintain Two Separate Households.

San Francisco April 27.—One of the most remarkable and sensational cases of dual life yet recorded came to light Sunday morning, when an injunction was served on Robert L. Johnson, a wealthy farmer at Pismo Beach, near San Luis Obispo, restraining him from disposing of any of his property pending the settlement of the suit for divorce which has been brought by his wife.

This divorce suit was filed ten days ago, but the matter was kept so secret that none of the details leaked out.

Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of James Metcalf, a wealthy ranch owner living near Marysville, and she names as co-respondent in the suit her own young and beautiful sister, Marian Metcalf.

About a year ago Marian suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from her home near Marysville and was not heard of by her parents until a few weeks ago, in spite of the fact that her father had been scouring the country in search of her since she ran away.

A friend of the family sent the news that Marian had been seen at Angiola, and this made the father renew the search. He failed to find his child at Angiola, but went on to Pismo Beach, where his son-in-law was, and found that Johnson was building a home there and visited frequently with his young bride to superintend the work.

Further inquiry brought to light the fact that the "young bride" was no other than his lost daughter. Marian, who had been living with Johnson at intervals ever since she left home at Marysville nearly a year ago. It evidently had been the intention of Johnson to maintain two households, and his wife's sister had been a willing helper in the perpetration of this scheme.

Metcalf returned to his eldest daughter and as gently as he could broke the terrible news of the perfidy of her husband and her sister. Mrs. Johnson was stunned with surprise and grief, and the father was stricken down so that he now lies in a critical condition at his home. The daughter, Marian, was left behind.

IS RAISULI DEAD?

Rumor That Noted Bandit Has Been Assassinated Seems Well Founded.

Tangier, April 27.—A report is in circulation here that Raisuli, the famous bandit, has been assassinated.

Is Confirmed in Paris.

Paris, April 27.—A news agency here has what purports to be a confirmation of the report of the assassination of Raisuli, according to advices received here that the bandit was ambushed by a number of Leymes tribesmen while he was returning to his home from a native feast given in his honor.

Wed by the Rev. Campbell.

Walter B. Eartham and Miss Elizabeth Sims were married Monday evening by the Rev. Frank Y. Campbell at the parsonage of the First Baptist church, and are at home to their friends at 308 East Third street.

INNOCENT MAN IS FREE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SENT ORDER TO RELEASE HIM ON SUNDAY.

CONVICT WAS SERVING LIFE TERM

Department Investigates and Decides That He Did Not Commit Crime—Conviction Said to Be Result of Feud.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 27.—There was one inmate of the federal penitentiary who laid down Saturday night in his cell bunk with the prospect of spending his life in the prison. Sunday morning he was told that he was free, that President Roosevelt had given him an unconditional pardon, and that he might walk out of the prison walls as soon as he could change his garb of gray to citizens' clothes.

Moreover, he took with him what gave him more pleasure than the mere release from confinement, the knowledge that the officers of justice believe that he is innocent and has already served nine years for a crime of which he is not guilty, a crime which, possibly, did not exist.

Albert L. Worrell, of Ardmore, Okla., is the man to whom executive clemency was extended. He was brought to the penitentiary nine years ago at the age of 17, to serve a life sentence on the charge of assaulting a little girl. It was charged that the crime had been committed in a cotton field near Ardmore, in which were a number of persons at work.

Worrell's pardon follows a searching investigation by Pardon Attorney Finch, of the department of justice, who visited the prison here and the scene where the crime was alleged to have been committed.

A photograph of the cotton field showing that it would have been practically impossible to commit the crime without being observed was sent to the department with Worrell's application for a pardon. It was this that first attracted the attention of the authorities to the case.

Worrell and his friends have always contended that his accusal and conviction was the result of a feud between his family and that of the girl who accused him. The prison authorities say there is grave doubt if the crime was committed.

Worrell has always been a model prisoner. For the first eight years of his imprisonment he was employed in the prison tailor shop, when his health began to fail he was transferred to the kitchen, where his physical condition has greatly improved.

The telegram notifying Warden McClaughry to release Worrell arrived about 8 o'clock Saturday and was sent from Attorney General Bonaparte. It is said that the official pardon has been setn by mail, but that Worrell was to be given his release Sunday morning.

DEATH OF B. B. FERGUSON

Body Will Be Brought to Houstonia for Burial.

B. B. Ferguson, aged about 58 years, died at his home in Lewiston, Idaho, Sunday morning, of anaemia.

He is survived by his wife and four children, viz: James and Charles, who reside at Lewiston, and Mrs. Glenn Robertson and Mrs. A. A. Alexander of Houstonia, who went to Lewiston a short time ago to visit their parents and were with their father when the final summons came.

Mr. Ferguson once owned and lived on the farm near Houstonia that is now owned by Dr. Frank L. Sutton, of Sedalia.

The remains will be brought to Houstonia for burial.

GEN. HADLEY IS HOME

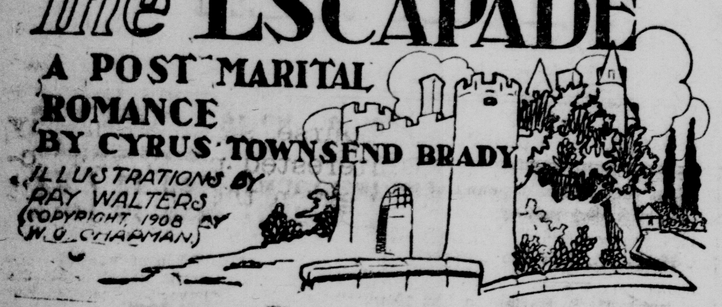
A Possibility That the Attorney General May Yet Be Candidate.

Jefferson City, April 7.—Attorney General Hadley, who reached home yesterday from his trip in New Mexico, says he may have another statement regarding his political intentions within the next few days.

"I find that I have not been understood, or rather it will require a second statement to make myself understood, I may give the same within the next few days," said the attorney general.

The ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY



SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—The Escapade opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington, of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy.

Chapter II.—Lord Carrington and his wife each made charges of faithlessness against the other in continuation of the quarrel.

Chapter III.—First objecting against playing cards with the guests, Lady Carrington agreed to cut cards with Lord Strathgate, whose attentions to Ellen had become a sore point with Carrington. The loss of $100,000 failed to perturb her, and her husband then cut for her I. O. U. and his honor, Carrington winning. The incident closed, except that a liking for each other apparently rose between Lady Carrington and Lord Strathgate.

Chapter IV.—Additional attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecily and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle.

Chapter V.—Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum, Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at 2 a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away.

Chapter VI.—Ellen fled, Strathgate driving. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage meets with an accident. She and Deborah then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America.

Chapter VII.—Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lord Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit.

Chapter VIII.—Seton, locating a fishing village, hit the trail of Ellen and Debbie. He then rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit, Carrington pursuing Strathgate.

Chapter IX—Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Elle nand Seton also were headed by different routes.

Chapter X—Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her.

Chapter XI—Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed.

Chapter XII—Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground just as capture was imminent.

Chapter XIII—Ellen won the chase by boarding an American vessel and foiling her pursuers—Strathgate, Seton and Carrington.

Carrington and Strathgate, thrown together by the former wrecking the latter's vessel, engaged in an impromptu duel, neither being hurt.

Admiral Kephard Joins the Pursuit.

We left Sir Charles Seton hard and fast in his boat on the shoal. Sir Charles had nothing to do but study the ocean and observe that which transpired upon it, for a few moments of hard work convinced worthy Master Whibley that only the rising tide would float his vessel. Sir Charles saw the whole drama enacted before him. He saw Ellen run down the Flying Star; he saw that vessel's way checked; he could see Deborah followed by Ellen clamber aboard. He marked the other two boats chasing down the channel and made a shrewd guess that one carried Carrington and the other Strathgate. He saw the collision, although of course he was too far away to know who was responsible or what was happening. He even saw the smoke from the two pistols which were discharged by the belligerents on the boat and after a time detected the report faintly, but other than that he kuew nothing.

It was some time before the rising tide coupled with their own tremendous exertion got the boat off the shoal. Sir Charles had had plenty of time to mature his plans. He knew that Ellen was on that ship. He guessed that Carrington and Strathgate had gone back to Portsmouth, if one or the other, or both of them had not been killed in that interchange of pistol shots, and he surmised that the first duty to which they would devote themselves would be to see which one could kill the other.

He therefore determined to chase the ship. Not in his own boat, oh, no! He had a better plan than that. A ready and resourceful man was Sir Charles Seton. And while he was deeply in love with Mistress Debbie, the more in love because through Ellen's persistence his sweetheart had been, as it were, dragged out of his arms and therefore added the value of the unattainable to his pursuit of her, yet he was not in addition blinded by passion, jealousy and hatred as were Carrington and Strathgate. He knew that Mistress Debbie despised men of the Strathgate stamp, and although everything in petticoats was fair game for Strathgate, he also knew that the earl was on this occasion bent toward Lady Ellen. Therefore, he was in a saner and brighter mood than the other two.

Not far away lay the great ships of Admiral Kephard. The admiral had announced his intention of posting down to Portsmouth by coach. The first thing he would do when he arrived would be to board his flagship which lay at the head of the line of a dozen little ships several miles away from the place where Sir Charles had taken ground. Sir Charles reasoned that the admiral would be in a hurry to get to Portsmouth and that even if he did not press the post boys, he would probably have reached his ship by the time Sir Charles could get there.

Therefore, he possessed his soul in such patience as he could until his own boat once more got under way. He had bidden Master Whibley to mark well the course of the merchantman upon which Ellen and Deborah had taken refuge. This ship headed steadily eastward and seemed to have settled down for a long voyage.

"I Am Sir Charles Seton."

It took but a short time for Sir Charles to run alongside the Britannia. Bidding the men wait for him, he scrambled up the battens to the gangway and stepped aboard.

An officer met him at once.

"I am Sir Charles Seton," began the soldier, "captain in the Sussex light infantry."

"I am pleased to see you, sir," answered the officer, courteously, extending his hand. "I am Lieutenant Collier of the royal navy."

As Sir Charles shook the sailor's hand he asked:

"Is Admiral Kephard on the ship?"

"Yes, sir. He came aboard a half an hour ago and went immediately to his cabin."

"May I see him?"

"I'll send your name in. Mr. Mortlake," said the officer, turning about.

A smart midshipman ran across the deck and touched his cap.

"My compliments to Admiral Kephard and say to him that Captain Sir Charles Seton of the Sussex light infantry desires the privilege of speech with him."

"Ay, ay, sir," answered the midshipman, saluting again and scurrying aft.

"Might I ask you, Mr. Collier," said Sir Charles, "if the Britannia is ready for instant service?"

The lieutenant smiled.

"All his majesty's ships are ready for service at any time."

"Yes, yes, I know, of course," returned Seton, "but what I mean is, could this ship be got under way at once?"

"On the instant."

"And is she prepared for a cruise?"

"She could go around the world and take her departure within an hour," returned the lieutenant with a pleased sense of demonstrating the efficiency of his majesty's navy beyond peradventure. "May I ask why you wish to know?" he continued turning to Sir Charles.

This was an embarrassing question, but Sir Charles was saved the necessity of answering, for the midshipman came running to the quarterdeck once more and saluted.

"Well?" said the officer to the expectant boy.

"Admiral Kephard's compliments to you, sir, and he begs you will escort Captain Seton to his cabin ot once."

"You're in luck, captain," returned the officer, "the admiral is not always so easy of access. Will you step this way, sir?"

"After you, sir," said Sir Charles, bowing and following the lieutenant until he was ushered past the marine orderly on duty and into the admiral's cabin.

The admiral was just completing his toilet. His body servant was helping him on with his coat. He had evidently just had a bath to refresh him after the fatigues of his journey.

"Oh, Seton," he cried as the other came in, "glad to see you, man. Sit down. John,"—to the servant—"fetch out a decanter of navy sherry. Whisky, Seton, whisky, although perhaps you army men affect port."

"I guess we can follow the navy's lead in something stronger than port," laughed Sir Charles.

"What brought you here, Sir Charles?" continued the admiral as he poured out a liberal glassful for Seton and another for himself. "I left you at Carrington. But, no, I remember you rode away before I did, just after my lord. Have you come on any trace of fugitives?"

"Admiral," said Sir Charles, gravely, "I know where they are."

"And that damned lubberly hound, Strathgate, is he—"

"He isn't with them. They gave him the slip."

"You don't say? Good!" laughed the admiral. "How was that?"

Seton rapidly detailed the circumstances as he had deduced them.

"Well done, that woman has spirit enough," continued the old soldier, "to command a frigate. You will never convince me that she's taken up with a man of Strathgate's caliber."

"She went away with him, though," said Seton thoughtfully.

"Ay ay, but she knows no more of the world than a baby. She simply made use of his proffered assistance to escape from an intolerable situation. You take me, Seton?"

"I do, admiral, and I confess I hardly blame her. How Carrington could tolerate Lady Cecily for a moment beside that splendid woman—"

"To say nothing of that other splendid woman, Mistress Deborah Slocum, eh, Seton?"

"I admit, admiral—"

"Even 'Saints' Rest' becomes heavenly when looked at by the aid of such a pair of black eyes? And the lady, boy?"

"I confess, sir," answered Seton, somewhat abashed by the frank questioning of the old man, "that I have some reason to believe, in short—"

"In short, my boy, you've been chasing her all night, have you?"

"You're right, sir."

"And what now?"

"I told you, admiral, that I knew where they were."

"Well, where are they? Out with it, lad. Disclose your information and come to the point. All these side issues are unworthy of a soldier," laughed the old seaman, well knowing that for most of them he was responsible.

"They're on a merchant ship bound up the channel and going fast when I saw them last."

"What?" cried the admiral. "Give me the particulars."

Sir Charles rapidly ran over the scene of the morning.

The old admiral threw back his head and laughed.

"And she outwitted you all, shook Strathgate off the track, led you ashore, watched Carrington and Strathgate fight it out under her very eyes and got clean away?"

"She hasn't got away yet, admiral."

"What mean you?"

"I came here to make a proposition to you."

"A proposition to me?"

"Yes."

"You have a fast ship at your command, I take it."

"Do you mean the Britannia?" said the admiral, mentioning his flagship.

"I do."

"Of course she's fast. The admiralty know me. I wouldn't take a slow ship."

"Is she as fast as that merchantman, do you think?"

"Why, my boy, there isn't a merchant ship on the seas that she couldn't overhaul in anything like a wind."

"Admiral," said Sir Charles ingenuously, "I lay you a wager."

"What is that?"

"A hundred pounds that you can't overtake that merchant ship."

"What!" roared the admiral. "Me take out one of his majesty's ships to chase after a runaway wife and a foolish girl?"

"I beg your pardon, admiral, if you refer to Mistress Deborah Slocum, I must ask you to moderate your language," protested Sir Charles, warmly, his face flushing.

"Go to! go to!" laughed the admiral. "I'm old enough to be your father. But the idea of an admiral of the white taking a hundred gun ship-of-the-line out to chase a paltry merchantman for—Impossible, my boy, impossible!"

"But," said Sir Charles, "the navy cannot afford to decline a bet, a wager with its sister service. I'll lay you a thousand pounds, admiral, that you can't do it."

"My lad," said the admiral gently, after a moment's reflection, "no wagers are needed. I'll do it because I'm fond of the girl and Carrington, too. I can overhaul them before nightfall without doubt and I'll be glad to do it, although just exactly what warrant I have for stopping an American ship on the high seas and taking from her another man's wife I can hardly say."

"I can help you in that, admiral. As to warrant, if you'll bring to the other ship and give me a boat crew, I'll go aboard the American and do the rest. Mistress Deborah, I am sure, will come willingly."

"Don't be too sure of that," returned the admiral, "don't count upon a woman until she's your own, and don't count too much upon her after that, as Carrington might say."

"Nevertheless, I think I speak by the card," said Sir Charles.

"Very well, you know best. Having been a bachelor all my life, I know more about ships than women. but hark ye, Seton, this one thing. Don't you come back to the ship after I put you aboard that trader, with only Miss Deborah. The two have to come together, or go together, you understand?"

"Yes, sir."

The admiral struck the bell on the table beside him. Instantly the marine orderly popped in the door.

"My compliments to the officer of the deck," said the admiral to the orderly, "and ask him to beg Captain Beatty to favor me with his presence in the cabin."

"Yes, sir," returned the orderly, saluting.

A moment after—an incredibly short time it seemed to Seton, who was unaware of the way in which an admiral's requests are obeyed—Captain Beatty, the officer mentionel, presented himself before the admiral.

"You wish to see me, admiral?"

"Yes, Beatty. By the way, let me present to you Sir Charles Seton of the Sussex light infantry, captain in his majesty's land forces. Seton, this is the Honorable Archibald Beatty, my flag captain. Beatty, will you get the Britannia under way at once?"

"Yes, sir," returned the captain. "Are the rest of the fleet to follow us?"

"No," answered the admiral, "signal to the rest of them to disregard the movements of the commander-in-chief. Then signal to the Renown for Lascelles to take command until we return."

"Very good, sir," returned the captain. "And what course shall we lay?"

"That which will get us into the channel quickest, and then as due east as the wind will let us. I'll be on deck, however, before you're ready for that."

"There are several boat parties ashore, admiral, do you wish me to wait for them?"

"No, sir, you will weigh at once."

"Very good sir," returned the captain, saluting and turning away.

"And Beatty," the admiral called after him, "a drop of navy sherry with me before you go."

"Thank you, admiral," said Beatty, filling his glass.

"I'll give you a toast, Sir Charles," said the admiral.

"Yes," returned the soldier.

"A short cruise and the women at the end of it!"

"I drink to that with all my heart!" returned Sir Charles.

"And I also," said Captain Beatty, greatly mystified, "although I don't understand exactly."

"We're going to chase a Yankee merchant ship, Beatty, and take a couple of ladies in whom Sir Charles is interested off of it."

"A couple!" cried Beatty.

"I'm only interested in one of them," said Sir Charles warmly.

"It's a runaway sweetheart and a runaway wife, Beatty," continued the admiral, "Lady Carrington and Mistress Deborah Slocum."

"And which one is Sir Charles interested in?" asked the sailor, smiling.

"In Mistress Slocum, of course," laughed the admiral. "Now, captain," he continued, assuming his quarterdeck manner; "I want you to get the ship under way in the quickest possible time. Let's show this land lubber here what his mapesty's navy can do when it's in dead earnest. Imagine there are a dozen Frenchmen out there, all boiling for a fight, and bear a hand!"

"Ay, ay, sir," said Beatty, saluting and withdrawing from the cabin.

A moment later there came faintly through the bulkheads the shrill whistling of the boatswain and his mates, followed by a deep cry:

"All hands up anchor!"

A "MERRY WIDOW" STORY

"TICKLE END" OF A FEATHER ALMOST CAUSES RIOT IN A CAB.

THE DRIVER WENT TO THE RESCUE

Miss Josie Cusic, Who Operates a Linotype at Marion, Ohio, Had a Remarkable Experience on Trip Yesterday.

Marion, Ohio, April 25.—Miss Josie Cusic, a pretty Marion linotype operator, claims to possess the champion "Merry Widow" hat. Yesterday Miss Cusic visited Columbus.

She returned home on a late train. By tilting her head, Miss Cusic confesses, she was able to squeeze through the door of a cab, but when she raised her head some of the trimmings on the upper deck scraped against the roof.

She gave a nervous jerk and in doing so jabbed one of the big quills into the eye of a "drummer."

When Miss Cusic was turning to beg the pardon of the unfortunate salesman, the "tickle end" of the feather connected with the ear of another traveling man, who gave a sudden bound and smashed one of the cab windows.

Finally Miss Cusic, who says she is not a bit ashamed of her "Merry Widow," removed half a dozen spikes from among the shrubbery and feathers and passed the hat to the driver, who carried it on the box the remainder of the trip.

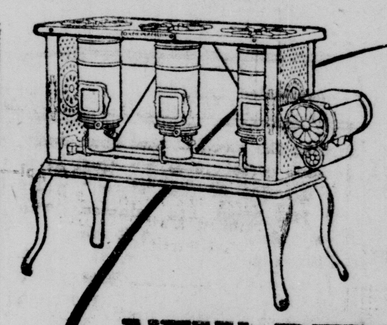
Death of Mrs. Coffman.

Mrs. Adelaide S. Coffman, aged 72 years, died at 12:30 p. m. Friday, April 24, at the home of her son, E. S. Coffman, ten miles south of the city. The remains were taken to Appleton City Saturday for burial.

Mrs. Thomas Seeks Divorce.

W. D. Steele has filed suit in the Pettis county circuit court for Mrs. Amanda Thomas, who asks to be divorced from Charles F. Thomas on the ground of general indignities. The couple was married October 27, 1884, and separated January 3, 1908. The plaintiff has resided with her parents since her separation from her husband.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen



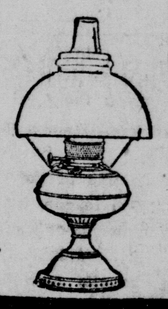
How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.



The Rayo Lamp

a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

A BIG CROP OF BERRIES

This is the News That Comes From the Ozark Country.

Springfield, Mo., April 25.—The first home-grown strawberries of the season have reached the local market. The crop in South Missouri, which embraces the district extending from Springfield to Sarcoxie, will be a bumper one this year. Shipments will be started on a large scale within the next two weeks.

The fields in the vicinity of Logan, Marionville, Monett, Sarcoxie and Anderson promise unusual yields. The management of various berry growers' associations have agreed to pay pickers 1½ cents per box. Hundreds of men and women will be needed for the work.

Were Royally Entertained.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Mr. A. C. Dow, rural carrier on route No. 2, gave his wife a very pleasant surprise on the evening of April 23, the ocasion being Mrs. Dow's thirty-fifth birthday. The guests present were: Eddie Kemp, J. F. Hieronymus, jr., and wife, A. N. Lamm and wife, H. E. Yeager and wife, John Mather and wife and Viola Baer, of Indiana.

Progressive flinch was the diversion. At the close of the game ices, fruits and cake were served. In the wee sma hours the guests departed for their homes, all declaring they had enjoyed themselves hugely that Mr. and Mrs. Dow were royal entertainers and wishing Mrs. Dow one hundred more happy birthdays.

Hatched in Sedalia, Eh?

The Sedalia Democrat-Sentinel accuses Boonville of harboring a $1,000 "hen," which has been three times around the world, spends $1,200 a year for a private valet, takes a bath and has her beak and legs scrubbed every day. Should this be true, it's peanuts to popcorn she was hatched in Sedalia.—Boonville Democrat.

MAKE FIRST COMMUNION

Children of Sacred Heart Church on Sunday Next.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Next Sunday, May 3, the children of Sacred Heart church will receive their first holy communion at 9 a. m. The church decorations for this great event will be the same as on Easter Sunday and the choir will render the same program.

The communicants will be escorted before mass from the school to the church by the altar boys, flower girls and the priests in solemn procession. In the sanctuary they will make an open profession of their faith, and during the mass the pastor will preach a sermon on the meaning of the ceremony. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock the communicants will be enrolled into the confraternity of Mt. Carmel.

The following are the names of the communicants:

Soon to Leave Sedalia.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Grant N. Puntney, the old-time barber, will resign his position at L. E. Johnson's Ohio street shop next Saturday night and soon afterward will depart for Pueblo, Colo.

He goes on a prospecting trip, as it were, and may locate in the Centennial state, but will not engage in the barber business. If he does not find anything to his liking in Colorado, he will extend his trip to the Pacific coast, likely locating in Washington, Idaho or Oregon.

Mrs. Puntney will remain with relatives in Missouri until her husband gets settled. Grant will miss the Airdome and other attractions here, but a legion of friends will wish him well, be his lot cast where it may.

RISING BREAST

And many other painful and serious ailments from which most mothers suffer, can be avoided by the use of "Mother's Friend." This great remedy is a God-send to women, carrying them through their most critical ordeal with safety and no pain. No woman who uses "Mother's Friend" need fear the suffering and danger incident to birth; for it robs the ordeal of its horror and insures safety to life of mother and child, and leaves her in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery. The child is also healthy, strong and good natured. FARMER LOST HIS REASON

Kills Wife, Shoots Daughter, Slays Self in Mississippi.

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—News has just reached here of a horrible tragedy Saturday morning at Clayce Miss., a short distance south of here Wallace Polk, a prosperous farmer in an insane fit, killed his wife, shot his daughter through the arm and then sent two bullets into his own breast and was dead when found in his orchard.

It seems that Polk had had trouble with some of his tenants Saturday and all night he was nervous. He was about 60 years old, a man of good character, and had seven sons and daughters, all grown, and was never known to show any signs of insanity before.

A TORNADO ON SABBATH

STORM IN THE SOUTH DAMAGES BUILDINGS AND INJURES COLORED FOLK.

GROVES ARE REPORTED DESTROYED

Heavy Losses in North Mississippi—The Wires Are Down and It Is a Difficult Matter to Get Full Particulars.

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—A tornado swept over Memphis at 3:45 o'clock last afternoon, blew chimneys from buildings, swept awnings from their fastenings, hurled signs into the streets and smashed immense plate glass windows, but no lives were lost.

The walls of the Gabay building on Main street, gutted by fire several weeks ago, were blown into the street, tearing off the end of a street car and filling the street with debris.

In New South Memphis more than a dozen smokestacks of large manufacturing plants were blown down, the New South Memphis water plant was heavily damaged and several negroes were hurt.

The tornado, after passing over Memphis, took an easterly direction, uprooting trees and blowing off roofs of houses. Immense groves were destroyed.

Heavy losses are reported from North Mississippi. Wires are down, and so far no definite reports have been received from points south.

Death List About 350.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—The totals of death, misery and ruin caused in four southern states by Friday's tornadoes came to hand Sunday in approximately correct form.

Briefly stated, they are: Killed, about 350; injured, painfully or seriously, 1,200; homeless, several thousand.

Towns reporting serious wreckage, 16; habitations and business houses practically complete ruins in these towns, about 2,500.

The above figures do not include the wreckage on plantations and farms, scores of which were struck and damaged.

The number of dead may never be known accurately, for the reason that about 300 of them were negroes, and they were buried in many communities without careful records being made of their numbers.

While some of the first reports, giving apparently reliable death lists have since proved unreliable, nevertheless, remote places, which were late in reporting their dead, have served to hold the total death list uniformly around 350.

The manner in which this death list has grown for two days, in spite of continual subtractions from early reports, has been a melancholy index of the interstate scope of the disaster.

Storm Sweeps Indiana.

Providence, Ind., April 27.—A tornado which swept three townships of Johnson county at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, demolished barns, damaged houses, destroyed telephone and telegraph service, and wrought damages estimated last night at not less than $50,000. The storm swept in a northeasterly direction, and did not appear to be over one-eighth of a mile wide.

Harry Plummer, aged 18, at the Milo Clure home, is the only one known to have been injured.

THE DEFERED CELEBRATION

"Clean-Up Day" Ceremonies Will Take Place Friday, May 1.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

The civic department of the women's club of Sedalia have set Friday, May 1, for the general clean-up of the streets and alleys of the city, which was to have taken place on April 10, but had to be postponed on account of inclement weather.

The exercises, comprising a band concert, singing by the school children and a general celebration, will be carried out as originally planned.

The mayor's proclamation calling for an observance of the occasion follows:

Friday, May 1, is to be the general clean-up day in Sedalia, under the the leading women's clubs of the auspices of the civic department of city.

To the end that it may be a success in every particular, I would urge upon property owners that they see to it that the trash and rubbish in the streets and alleys abutting their respective premises is swept up and carted away.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon it is urged that the citizens assemble at the court house to celebrate the event. There will be addresses appropriate for the occasion, a band concert and singing by the school children, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.—J. L. Babcock, Mayor.

The ladies who are at the head of the project called on Mayor Babcock Saturday and were assured that he would lend a helping hand to make the event a success in every detail.

Meeting of the Park Board.

The park board held its regular monthly meeting Friday night. Besides the usual routine business, Mr. Herman Ludelmann was reappointed park superintendent for the eighth year. He has done splendid work in the seven years that he had had charge of the park, and will no doubt keep up his excellent record.

DEAD, 308; INJURED, 1090

WHOLE TOWNS DESTROYED IN SEVERAL OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.

MANY PLANTATIONS ARE IN RUINS

The Wires Are Down and Full Details Are Not Obtainable—Later Reports May Increase the Fatalities.

New Orleans, La., April 25.— An incomplete list of the dead and injured in yesterday's storm, made up from telegraph reports from various points throughout the south, placed the number of killed at 308 and the injured at 1,090.

The tornado began at daylight yesterday, striking one town after another, rendering death and devastation.

Many hours after the storm struck, trains bearing nearly 200 of the injured came crawling cautiously out of the stricken district, leaving behind them one town, Pervis, Miss., utterly demolished, and a score or more of smaller places partially blown away.

With these wounded came details of the worst wind disaster in the history of the states of Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

Negroes comprised most of the dead. The picturesque darky cabins, noted for their flimsy construction, were converted by the wind into wholesale death traps.

The destruction of Purvis occurred at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and was all over in a few minutes. Of two hundred dwellings only seven are standing.

The court house, the only building in the town to withstand the wind, was immediately packed with the dead and injured.

A witness of the storm said all he could realize was that the air was full of flying timbers, which dealt death to many persons who sought safety in the open air, while falling buildings added greater peril to those who remained indoors.

Mobile, Ala., April 25.—Reports today say that at McCullam, Miss., twenty persons were killed and numbers injured in yesterday's storm.

Fort Deposit, Ala., was almost wiped out of existence.

Atlanta, Ga., April 25.—A severe wind storm struck Griffin, Ga., early today, wrecking part of the town, killing five and injuring many.

Telephone messages from the path of the storm say there were fatalities at Shipley, Harris City, McDonough and Locust Grove, Ga.

Rome, Ga., April 25.—It is reported that twenty persons were killed by a tornado between Cedartown and Cave Springs, Ga.

Birmingham, Ala., April 25.—Twenty-five persons are reported killed at Albertville, Ala., in a tornado yesterday.

Cleveland, Tenn., April 25.— A tornado last night, nine miles east, blew down five houses. Eight persons were injured or killed.

San Francisco, Cal., April 25.—A moderate earthquake shock was felt here this morning. No damage.

Normals Defeated Lee's Summit.

Lee's Summit Mo., April 25.—The Normals, of Warrensburg, met the Lee's Summit team on the local grounds today and won by a score of 10 to 8.

FARMER BATTLES WITH MULE

Is Almost Killed Before Daughter Comes to Rescue.

Rolla, Mo., April 28.—Napoleon Yowell, a farmer, living on Little Piney, southwest of here, is in a critical condition as a result of a fight with a mule last week.

Yowell was unharnessing the mule, when it attacked him. Though Yowell weighs 225 pounds, the mule kicked him to the ground and was stamping him when his daughter arrived on the scene with a revolver and handed it to Yowell, who fired three shots, killing the mule instantly.

Yowell's clothing was torn from his body, he was bitten in twenty places and his arms and body terribly bruised. He had been offered $125 for the mule a few days before.

WILCOX,

HE STARTED SOMETHING

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ATTACKED IN JOHNSON COUNTY, MISSOURI.

A PROSECUTOR IS AFTER HEALERS

Two Kansas City Women Treated Patient Who Died, Collected Fees, and Must Now Answer to State Board of Health.

Prosecuting Attorney Allen Cockrell, of Warrensburg, seems to have started something when he filed an information last fall against two Christian Science healers.

An aged lady named Wyrick, living south of Knob Noster, was sick unto death, says the Clinton Democrat. A medical practitioner treated her without result and then the two Christian Scientists, Mrs. Lena D. Jaccard and Mrs. Theresa Hayward, both of Kansas City, were sent for.

The former "treated" her six days and the latter four, when she died. The ladies filed their bills against the estate for $36.63 and $28.02, respectively, and both claims were allowed by the administrator, like any other doctor's bill.

Missouri's laws are framed to protect the public from unlicensed doctors or "healers." The state board of health refuses to recognize Christian Science as a healing method or to license the "healers" of that faith; so the collection of fees by the two Kansas City women constituted a breach of the letter of the law. State Attorney Cockrell thereupon filed his information and the case has been continued, while both sides are preparing for a big fight.

The state board of health is backing up Prosecutor Cockrell and has retained James A. Kemper and J. W. Suddath to assist him. For the defense the wealthy Christian Scientists of Kansas City and St. Louis have engaged able counsellors, including T. A. Witten, of Kansas City; Hon. F. W. Lehman and Judge Franklin Ferris, of St. Louis.

They proclaim that if defeated they will carry their case to the higher tribunal. This is said to be the first time in the history of the Christian Science church that their liberty and practices have been questioned. No test case of their rights to practice healing for money has ever been made in any state in the Union, hence the importance attaching to this case to the Christian Science church is easy to see.

It is announced that the state's attorneys will be dragged all over the United tates taking depositions. The church will take depositions in San Francisco, Boston, Chicago, New York and everywhere that they have prominent persons who will testify to the healing propensities of their faith.

AGED 101; SEEKS 15TH SPOUSE

Centenarian Who Recently Buried Fourteenth Wife.

Middletown, N. Y., April 27.—Nicholas Vann, the negro of the town of Mount Hope, Orange county, who was 101 years old Wednesday, is looking, he says, for his fifteenth wife. Mr. Vann is hale and hearty and declares he never felt better in his life.

He buried his fourteenth wife on December 19 last and now says that he is getting lonely and believes with the Good Book that it is not good to be alone. Although he has had fourteen wives and many children, all have passed away.

Mr. Vann was born in the town of Mount Hope on April 22, 1807. Slavery then existed in New York state and he took the name of his master.

He has had a varied career, acting at times as body servant to some of the most prominent men of Orange county. He has preached, doctored and practiced law.

Hallville Mayor Denies Report.

Hallsville, Mo., April 27.—G. H. Dysart, mayor of Hallsville, is indignant at the report published to the effect that negroes were ordered to depart from Hallsville. There are no negroes in Hallsville, and Mayor Dysart declares there is and was no occasion to fear any violence.

Circuit Court Entries.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Irvin G. Morgan was sentenced to six months in jail for petit larceny by Circuit Judge Hoffman today. Later the sentence was remitted on Morgan's promise to go to Colorado and remain away from Sedalia for five years.

Bond for George Owsley, charged with assault with intent to kill, was fixed at $300.

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

MACHINISTS STRIKE IN IOWA

Fifty Men Sent to Marshalltown to Replace Those Who Quit.

Marshalltown, Ia., April 25.—Fifty strike breakers were unloaded yesterday afternoon from a special car and hurried to the Iowa Central shops to take the place of the machinists and helpers who quit work several days ago on the final refusal of the company to continue the old scale of wages. The men came from Chicago over the Northwestern railroad and their coming is likely to extend the strike to the boilermakers blacksmiths and carmen, who are still at work.

ACTOR EXPIRES ON STAGE

Death Causes Postponement of Performance in Paris.

Paris, April 27.—M. Armand Marie, the popular actor, and whose specialty was comedy, died in harness Saturday night during a dress rehearsal at the Cluny theater.

The curtain had just risen for the first act of "Qui Qua's Vu Ninette," and M. Marie and a fellow actor were in possession of the stage. The former attempted to sing the opening lines of a song. His voice faltered, and he was seen to stagger.

A stage hand ran forward and saved him from falling. He was taken behind and placed on a sofa. In a few minutes he became unconscious and half an hour later died from apoplexy.

The management and the audience were very much distressed, and the performers, marked by so tragic an incident, was indifinitely postponed.

M. Marie, who was 45 years of age, was formerly at the Palais Royal, where he appeared in the leading role. His connection with the Cluny began but recently.

RHEUMATISM
BODY RACKED WITH PAIN

No other disease causes such wide-spread suffering as Rheumatism. It is a nerve racking torture, and so thoroughly does it dominate the system, when it becomes entrenched in the blood, that its victims are usually complete slaves to pain. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood brought on by stomach troubles, weak kidneys, indigestion, and a sluggish condition of the system. The natural refuse of the body, instead of passing off through the ordinary channels of waste, is left to sour and ferment in the system because of these irregularities, forming uric acid which is absorbed into the blood, and Rheumatism gets a foothold. As the blood circulates through the body it deposits the acrid, irritating substances with which it is saturated, into the different muscles, nerves, tissues and bones. Sharp, biting pains commence, the flesh becomes feverish, swollen and tender, the muscles and joints throb and jerk, and the body is literally racked with pain. Plasters, blisters, liniments, etc., can never cure the disease; they relieve the pain, perhaps, temporarily, but do not reach the trouble, which is in the blood. S. S. S. is the proper treatment for Rheumatism. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, and by driving out the poison and acrid fluids which are causing the pain, and strengthening and enriching the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

L. L. CARMIN DIED A DAY AFTER WIFE'S SLAYER GOT A LIFE TERM.

DEAD MAN WAS A FRISCO ENGINEER

His Wife Deserted Him Two Years Ago and Was Murdered in California—Body Found By Means of Dream.

Springfield, Mo., April 27.—Louis L. Carmin, a Frisco engineer, who went to Oakland to attend the trial of Mark Wilkins, charged with the murder of his (Carmin's) wife last July, died at the home of a friend in that city Saturday. Relatives here have been notified and the body will be brought here for burial.

Carmin's wife deserted him here about two years ago. Nothing was heard of her until last October, when a skeleton was found in a bed of lime on the premises occupied by Wilkins.

The finding of the skeleton and the arrest, conviction and life imprisonof Wilkins resulted from a dream of a woman who lived near the Wilkins home.

In a vision this woman saw the body of Mrs. Carmin, who had passed as Wilkins' wife, lying in a trench with the hands folded across the breast.

The dream so preyed upon her that she induced the sheriff to make an investigation. The body of Mrs. Carmin was found as her neighbor had seen it in her dreams.

Carmin brought his wife's body back from Oakland and buried it at Sheffield, Mo. Carmin was stricken and death ensued twenty-four hours after Wilkins' conviction.

Presented With a Lamp.

Rev. R. C. Miller, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, was given a pleasant surprise at his home Friday night by the officers of the church, it being his birthday anniversary. The popular divine was presented with a handsome lamp, and Mrs. Miller served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

A LETTER FROM GOTHAM

GLENN GUERNSEY DISCUSSES POLITICS IN ENTERTAINING MANNER.

ARE TO DEMOLISH AN OLD HOTEL

The Old "Sinclair House," Which Was Opened in 1840—Catholics to Begin a Week's Celebration Tomorrow.

By Clen Guernsey.

New York, April 25.—Real news is scarce in our midst this week. Therefore, I will write about politics. That subject is a source of never-failing interest to the New Yorker. The average citizen of the metropolis talks more and knows less about politics than any other man in this, our great country. Compared with him, the bucolic arguifier of the country store becomes a modest, unassuming and uncommunicative Sphinx.

This ignorance of the New Yorker is not due to lack of opportunity. No sooner does a prospective candidate feel the office-seeking afflatus than he hires a hall and proceeds to unloosen great gobs of wisdom. And we enjoy it. So long as New York remains on the map, the art of superheated oratory and fervent stump-speaking will not be forgotten.

It is during a presidential year that our enjoyment reaches its height. No candidate dares shirk his sacred duty of teaching the metropolis voter how to cast his ballot. Already Bryan, Taft, Knox and Hughes have volunteered to instruct us, and Secretary Taft will give another lesson next week. Fairbanks, Cannon, Johnson and Tom Watson are expected shortly, and our own Hearst will teach us the ways of independent political action at a banquet on Monday night. Even "Bill" Haywood, the lusty-voiced miner from Colorado, has taught us the way of salvation by voting for socialism.

Candidly, taking them by and large, up one side and down the other, I am not impressed with the available presidential timber. New York alone could produce a better lot. While it is a little late in the season to spring presidential booms, I venture to predict that our distinguished fellow-citizen, Mark Twain, could romp under the wire a dozen lengths ahead of any sprinter now in the presidential race. Finley Peter Dunne, I suspect, could give a good account of himself in a competition with the present contestants, on a "laugh and grow fat" platform. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, as the presidential candidate of the New Thought party standing firmly on a platform which guarantees health and happiness to every citizen, would, I predict, make any mere man who had the temerity to run against her look like a snail. And there are others.

But it is too much to expect the politician to jump into the river of oblivion, merely because such an action has been suggested as desirable. Therefore, I am inclined to look with favor upon the plan of a New York newspaper man, George E. McDonald, who has advanced the proposition that the citizen should be allowed to vote against all candidates for any office, if he desires. If a majority thus expressed their displeasure with the aspirants for any office, a new shuffle and another deal would become necessary. But that is only another method of inviting our professional statesmen to commit political suicide, and it is not likely to meet with a favorable reception.

Demolish Old Hotel.

Next week will probably mark the beginning of the destruction of another of New York's ancient hotels, the old Sinclair House, at Broadway and Eighth street. The old edifice, in which many of the great of past generations have dined and slept, will make way for a modern commercial structure. It was opened as a roadhouse in 1840, and was largely frequented by the gay young blades and beautiful dames of that time, who visited the hostelry in order to partake of the canvasbacks, terapin and turtle soup for which its chef was famous.

Among the distinguished men whose names were often to be found on the register of the Sinclair House in later years were Grover Cleveland, William Cullen Bryant, F. Marion Crawford and Horace Greeley. The latter was exceedingly fond of the appetizing dishes served at the hotel and the Sinclair House chef prepared the brain food which indirectly produced many of old Horace's vigorous editorials. Marion Crawford, before he became famous as a novelist, lived at the house, and the scene of one of his novels—"Katherine Lauderdale"—was laid in the vicinity. Sam Ward was a Sinclair House habitue, and the "Sam Ward" stake has always been a prominent feature of its menu.

Catholic Centennial.

New York Catholics will tomorrow begin a celebration to last through next week of the centennial anniversary of the founding of the New York diocese. The real anniversary falls on April 8, but the exercises were postponed on account of the Lenten season. Many famous prelates, including Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Logue, of Ireland, and Mgr. Diomode Falconio, apostolic delegate to the United States, will participate in the festivities, which will culminate next Saturday in a great parade in which 40,000 Catholics are expected to participate.

The growth of the church in this diocese has been commensurate with the growth of the city and surrounding country. The original diocese, with its one church, four or five priests and 15,000 members, has now been divided into nine dioceses, that of this city alone having 230 churches and 1,200,000 members.

The official papal bull which established the diocese of New York, together with the dioceses of Boston, Philadelphia and Bardstown, was issued on April 8, 1808, and was as follows:

"Accordingly, after mature and deliberate reflection, and with the advice of our venerable brethren, the cardinals of the holy Roman church, who belong to the Sacred Congregation of the Propagation of the Faith, in virture of our apostolic authority, we erect and constitute by these presents four new episcopal sees in the provinces mentioned below, to be occupied by four bishops, respectively, who are to beelected and appointed by us and this apostolic see, now and hereafter, whenever such sees become vacant. These sees are to be as follows:

"First, New York, which is to embrace as a diocese the entire state of the same name, and the eastern portion of the state of New Jersey, which borders on New York state.

"Second, the diocese of Phiadelphia, which is to comprise the two entire states of Pennsylvania and Delaware, together with the western and southern portion of the state of New Jersey.

"Third, Boston, which is to include the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Vermont.

"Fourth, Bardstown, that is, the city of that name, whose diocese is to comprise not only the states of Kentucky and Tennessee, but likewise until the holy see provide otherwise, the district which lies west of the Ohio river, including the territory west and north as far as the Great Lakes, lying between it and the Canadian diocese, and reaching down as far as the borders of Pennsylvania, according to reading of the maps."

The document is now in the possession of the See of Quebec.

HAD EIGHT GRADUATES

Closing Exercises of Salem School Friday Night.

Salem school, one mile south of Beaman, which has been in charge of Miss Hattie Elliott as teacher the past year, closed the term Friday with a most pleasing and interesting literary program.

The exercises were given at night, and the patrons of the school and their friends attended in large numbers, and were delighted with the dialogues, speeches, drills and music.

The school had eight graduates, which Prof. Luckett, who was present, said was the largest graduating class of any country school in the county.

Miss Elliott has given such general satisfaction that she was engaged for another year at an advance of $5 per month in salary.

HERE'S ANOTHER FAILURE

MARRIAGE OF MISS PATTERSON, OF CHICAGO, AND NOBLE COUNT.

HE IS NOW SUING FOR A DIVORCE

Says She Spent Her Entire Income of $20,000 on Her Own Self—She Says He Is Inveterate Gambler and Spendthrift.

Vienna, April 25.—The Polish aristocrat, Count Joseph Gizycki, who four years ago married Miss Eleanor Patterson, the daughter of Robert W. Patterson, of Chicago, has begun an action for a separation from his wife. The count and countess are staying at different hotels in Vienna. Great secrecy is being observed as to the suit.

The grounds for the count's petition are not announced, but it is rumored that he charges the countess with extravagance, alleging that she spends almost entirely upon dress her annual allowance of $20,000 from her father for her support.

Says the Count Gambles.

On the other hand the countess charges it is said, that her noble husband is an inveterate gambler, having frittered away two estates, with the same outlook as to two more which have recently descended to him from his uncle—one in Gallicia, the other in Southern Russia.

The countess complains, further, that the count spends all his time at the jockey club or at the races, living like a bachelor and abandoning their one child to the care of the count's father. Before the couple separated they maintained apartments in Vienna, but lived for the greater part of the year on their country estate.

The countess is awaiting now the arrival of her brother, Joseph Medill Patterson, widely known because of his socialistic views.

Not Believed in Chicago.

Chicago, April 25.—Mrs. Robert W. Patterson, mother of the Countess Gizicki, declined to be interviewed on the rumor respecting the estrangement of the count and countess. Mr. Patterson is not in the city. On behalf of Mrs. Patterson, however, a personal friend made public an emphatic denial of the report.

"The story is absurd," said this friend. "Only yesterday Mrs. Patterson received from her daughter, the countess, a cablegram announcing her arrival in Vienna. 'Am at Grand hotel,' said the telegram, 'in excellent spirits. Will see baby tomorrow.' The countess child is in the country.

"From this message it is impossible to infer that there has been the slightest ground for the rumor of an estrangement.

"Mrs. Patterson is in constant touch with her daughter and it is certain she would have had a note of different character had there been truth in the absurd statements printed."

DEATH OF PETER SCHUSTER

Funeral From German Evangelical Church This Afternoon.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Peter Schuster, employed at the M. M. Stevenson Packing company plant, died from a stroke of paralysis at his home, 810 West Henry street, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning, aged 48 years.

At 10 o'clock Friday night Mr. Schuster was stricken, and until his death he grew gradually worse, medical attention proving fruitless. Mr. Schuster carried $2,000 insurance in the Woodmen of the World and was well and favorably known throughout the city.

Four children, one married, survive. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Otto Press at the German Evangelical church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, and burial will be made in the city cemetery.

The following will serve as pallbearers: J. M. Brown, George R. Moore, C. M. Sheets, Jeff D. Thompson, G. C. McCabe and Charles Reams

WILD SCREAMS OF WOMEN

Greeted the Sentence of the Female Matrimonial Agent.

Chicago, April 27.—Mrs. Jennie Call, the matrimonial agent, was refused a new trial by Judge Bethea in the United States court Saturday and was sentenced to one year in the house of correction, where she probably will have an opportunity of making the acquaintance of Marian Gray, the Elgin affinity finder, who was sentenced to the same place for the same period a few days ago.

When Judge Bethea asked Mrs. Call if she had anything to say before he imposed sentence the woman made an impassioned plea for liberty. She declared she did not know she was doing wrong, and pointed to the disgrace which would attach to her daughter.

When the court announced that the sentence would be one year in the house of correction Mrs. Call's daughter, Miss Jennie Titian Scott, screamed and then both women clung to each other, weeping hysterically, until Attorneys Murphy and Shirer assisted them to seats.

SLIDE BURIES A VILLAGE

NOTRE DAME DE SALETTE IS ENGULFED IN A TWINKLING ON SUNDAY.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE REPORTED DEAD

The Mortality Would Have Been Much Greater Had the Town Been Compact—The Story of an Eyewitness.

Montreal, Quebec, April 27.— An enormous mass of earth and snow, forming a tremendous landslide, rushed down the mountain side upon the little hamlet of Notre Dame de Salette, about eighteen miles from the town of Buckingham, at an early hour Sunday morning. Twenty-five persons are believed to have lost their lives.

Notre Dame de Salette is located at the base of a high hill, and the occupants of the houses were all asleep when the landslide came with a roar about 5 o'clock. A number of houses, with their occupants, were engulfed in a twinkling.

Owing to the remote locality of the village and the fact that it has neither railway, telegraph or telephone communication, details of the catastrophe are hard to get. Requests have been sent to Buckingham for twenty-five coffins and thffise have aready been sent.

The news of the disaster was brought to Buckingham by Mr. Brosseau, of Poupore, a nearby village. He was an eye witness of the catastrophe from a distance and he states that a considerable portion of the mountain, which is on the opposite side of the river to Notre Dame de Salette suddenly became detached and was hurled down the steep side, crossing the river and completely burying houses and other buildings. But for the fact that the little village is scattered the mortality would undoubtedly have been much greater.

Immediately upon receipt of the news at Buckingham all the doctors in the place, with a large force of men, responded to the call for aid and drove to Notre Dame de Salette, while a procession of wagons took twenty five coffins to the scene.

Paul Desjardin's store was destroyed. He was absent from home, but his wife, two children and a man and maid servant are missing. They are probably under the ruins of the store. Desjardin kept the post oeffie and a general store.

Mrs. Camille Laponte, a widow, and seven of her children are supposed to be among the dead. The names of the other dead are as yet unobtainable.

It is understood that the work of removing the rocks and earth will consume much time, and it will be hours before the casualty list will be definitely known.

KILLED FIVE WOLVES

The Scalps Turned Over to County Clerk M. L. Imhoff.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Elmo Elliott, of Spring Fork, south of Sedalia, late Friday evening gave County Clerk Imhoff possession of the scalps of five cub wolves, which he and others killed in the vicinity of his farm last week.

Mr. Elliott and party ran onto three old wolves, which put up a ferocious fight, staying off three men, who were unarmed at the time.

From the fight made by the animals the men suspected that the wolves had a den in the vicinity. On the following night they again visited the locality and came across the den, killing five cub wolves, while the old wolves escaped.

Has Plowed His Corn Once.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Mr. J. O. DeHaven was in from his farm, five miles west of the city, today, and stated that he had 180 acres of corn planted and will finish this week. On the 20th of March Mr. DeHaven planted 20 acres, which is up and a good stand, and has been plowed over once. That is probably the earliest and most promising piece of corn in the county.

IT'S A JOKE ON LAWRENCE

Students' Edition of a Daily Paper Printed a "Joint" Directory.

Lawrence, Kan., April 27. — A month ago J. L. Brady, editor of the Lawrence Journal, offered to turn his paper over to the class in journalism of the University of Kansas, and the "Scoop" club, composed of students who have had some experience in newspaper work, for one day. Saturday was the day set for the experiment.

Lawrence was not greatly interested at the prospect of a students' edition of the paper. It was generally supposed that the paper would smack too much of the amateur to be anything other than amusing.

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon the paper came out with a list of about twelve "joints" in the "East Bottoms," where beer and whisky were sold, and also with a report of the March sales of whisky and wines in the drug stores of the town.

This "joint" directory was in the first column of the first page under a large head, and from the Kaw bridge to the Indian school the students' paper has been the principal topic of conversation ever since.

WILL MITCHELL RETURN?

HE'S THE MAN WHO WAS TO BUILD NEVADA-SPRINGFIELD ELECTRIC LINE.

ONE ENGAGEMENT WAS NOT KEPT

Went to Try on a $15 Suit of Clothes to See if They Fit, But Failed to Return and Pay For Them, as Promised.

Nevada, Mo., April 25.—W. T. Mitchell, the man who stated that he had the contract to build the Nevada-Springfield electric line, left the city for Fort Scott Thursday afternoon, but did not return on No. 4 as he had told a friend he would.

He failed to meet Bob Davis this morning, as he promised, and he has failed so far to pay Will Grace $15 for the suit of clothes he purchased. Mitchell took the clothes, saying he would go down to the Graves boarding house and try them on and if they suited him he would return and pay for the suit.

He talked of making extensive contracts, etc., but so far nothing tangible has developed and the old Nevada electric line dream is still a dream. Mr. Mitchell may return and build the road, and if he should citizens would give him a unanimous vote of thanks.

Mitchell made much headway on preliminary arrangements, he having employed a foreman, visited a bank to make arrangements to receive a draft which he said would come from Kansas City and engaged headquarters for his offices, but these were only preliminary.

The question is, Mr. Mitchell, will you ever come back?

GOV. FOLK AT ST. JOSEPH

FIRST GUN IN CAMPAIGN FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP.

RECORD AS GOVERNOR REVIEWED

His Purpose Was to Build Up, Not to Tear Down—Ovation Given to Him When He Finished His Address.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 25.—Governor Joseph W. Folk last night fired the first oratorical gun of his campaign for a seat in the United States senate before an audience that taxed the Tootle opera house here to its capacity.

The standing room only sign had been displayed when the governor was presented by J. C. Wyatt, of this city, who in turn had been introduced by John Connett, chairman of the arrangements committee. The stage was occupied by 200 democrats from counties of Northwest Missouri.

The throng was enthusiastic and cheered the speaker. On the slightest provocation it waved the small flags with which all were provided. Many women were among the governor's auditors.

It was from this same stage that Mr. Folk announced his candidacy for governor four years ago. His supporters here maintain that last night's crowd exceeded the previous one.

Governor Folk announced at the outset that it was his intention to give an account of his stewardship of the state's affairs. He reviwed his record at length and declared that he had tried only to do right, and that the welfare of Missouri was his thought and his effort.

"I'm here as a democrat to tell democrats," he said, "to tender my account to the people, with charity for all and with malice toward none."

He said his purpose was to build up, not to tear down, and he asked support of his hearers and his party on the work he had accomplished. The governor received an ovation when he closed his speech.

Among other things, Governor Folk said:

"With a public service monopoly the people must either pay the rates fixed or do without the utility. In such instances the law should step in and supply the regulation that ordinarily is done by competition.

The legislator's first step toward corruption is usually the accepting of a railroad pass.

A lobbyist of questionable character will no more operate in the glare of publicity than bats will fly in the blaze of day.

All thuggery and slugging of citizens at the polls has been absolutely ended. The "Indian business," about which so much used to be seen and heard, has been stamped out, until even the word "Indian" in the sense in which it was commonly used a few years ago, has now almost been forgotten.

The police have been put upon a basis of public service alone, and every form of graft that could be detected has been eradicated from these departments.

The general assembly of 1905 repealed the alum law of the baking powder trust, which has been the cause of so much scandal in the state legislature, resulting in appalling exposures of graft and corruption.

The state primary law is a triumph of popular sovereignty over machine rule and bossism.

DUKE A MORPHINE USER

THE DRUG HAD WEAKENED HIS CONSTITUTION TO CONSIDERABLE EXTENT.

BODY IS AT ST. PHILLIP CHURCH

He Had Long Been in Dread of Death in the Form in Which it Finally Came—The Duchess Was With Him.

Paris, April 25.—The body of Duke De Chaulnes was conveyed at daylight today from the hotel to St. Phillip's church. It was escorted to the crypt, and, after a simple blessing, it was then deposited. The body will remain in St. Phillip's pending the completion of the arrangements for the funeral.

False reports that the duke died in his sister's apartments arose from a desire of the management of the hotel to make it appear that the death had not occurred in their establishment.

Friends say that the duke felt that sudden death was a probability. Leading a life of pleasure before his engagement to Miss Theodore Shonts, he drank heavily, and, it is said, was addicted to the use of morphine. One of his companions in the morphine practice was a son of Colonel de Renac, an army officer.

Several months ago De Chaulnes and De Renac took a vow to give up the morphine habit. For three months De Renac kept his promise, then he could stand the strain no longer and killed himself.

He left an explanatory letter to the duke. De Chaulnes did not violate his vow and physicians say that probably the abstinence weakened him to such an extent that his death resulted. There is no doubt that the duke was enjoying the happiest period of his life and was deeply in love with his American wife.

The duke and duchess had spent the day together motoring in the Bois du Boulogne. Then they dined in their apartments. About 11 o'clock the attack, described by the doctors as an embolism, came without warning. The duke suddenly groaned and then became unconscious. Before aid, summoned by the cries of the countess, arrived he was dead. He died in the arms of the duchess.

All Thursday night and all day Friday the duchess sat by the body, refusing to allow it to be removed. She was so affected that she could make no response to the friends who offered condolence and aid.

Mrs. Millington Drake, her nearest friend, remained at the hotel with her. Unfortunately, through the stupidity of the hotel employes, several false reports about the manner of the duke's death were circulated in Paris. One was that he died somewhere else and that his body had been brought to the hotel.

At the Avenue Van Dyck mansion, where the duke and duchess were to go, the housekeeper was in attendance last night.

"It's an ill fated race, that of De Chaulnes," she said.

The woman, for years a family retainer, recalled the tragic death of the duke's mother, who eloped with the Count de Dion, now a marquis, and was deserted. She died of starvation in a garret.

"Our only hope is that there will be an heir born to the title."

Deeply Shocked By the Sad News.

New York, April 25.—The news of the death of his young son-in-law came as a great shock to Theodore P. Shonts. The financier had a great affection for the boyish nobleman, and declared him "a splendid, manly, capable chap." Mr. and Mrs. Shonts and their younger daughter started for Paris today on the steamship St. Louis.

"This morning," said Shonts last night, "we received three letters from my daughter and the duke. They had been in the habit of writing us on every mail, and each of us, Mrs. Shonts, my daughter, Marguerite, and myself had our letters as usual this morning. We read them over to one another as we breakfasted. If ever any letters breathed of domestic love and happiness, those letters did. When we had finished them and I had put mine down I said to my wife: 'Mother, they're all right, aren't they? If a man can make our girl as happy as that, why, I'll stick to him, for he's a good fellow.'

"Somehow, I keep recalling those words now. We were made so glad by the letters; our girl was in such fine spirits. We had barely finished when a ring came at the door and my secretary brought me the cablegram telling us the terrible news.

"My poor girl: It was an awful blow for her. We cabled to her, of course, at once and told her we were coming to her. All day we have been waiting, hoping to hear from her. She must be overwhelmed by the terrible shock. What it can have been that caused the duke's death so suddenly, I cannot conceive. I suppose it must have been heart disease. He was a fine fellow. I had grown to love him. He was a grand fellow, a real man. I got to like more and more all the time.

"If my daughter wishes I shall, of course, bring her back. I shall let it be as she wishes. Nothing can be decided until we meet. Of her health I know only that she was in good health, but we are greatly distressed as to the effect this shock may have upon her."

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

MYSTERY IN DARK "LOOKOUTS" IN NUMEROUS FEDERAL BUILDINGS.

WHERE INSPECTORS HOLD FORTH

Suspended Gallery That Gives a View of All Rooms Where Men Work —Secret Entrances and Trap Doors.

Employes in the postoffice work always with the consciousness that perhaps they are being secretly watched from the "inspectors' lookout," a system of dark alleyways with peepholes that honeycomb the lower part of the federal building, says the Kansas City Star. The narrow galleries are suspended above the main work rooms and branches extend to the money order, stamp and registry divisions and to the furnace rooms in the basement, where rifled mail may be burned.

Every precaution is taken to prevent the clerks from knowing when the inspectors are on watch. The men have no way of being certain whether the lookout is empty, whether one inspector is watching or whether a dozen are on duty. Always there is the possibility that someone is looking. This produces a valuable moral effect.

None of the half dozen entrances to the winding galleries is in view of the workmen. One entrance is from the lobby on the first floor and another is through a closet in a room on the second floor. The lookout may be entered from the basement and several trapdoor entrances are provided. The galleries have a double floor that deadens the sound so that the inspectors are not heard as they walk.

All of the portholes are latticed. Circular panes of glass in the floor of the galleries give a view directly underneath. Every part of the building where postoffice employes work is "covered" by a lookout. The gallery is four feet wide inside and seven feet high. No one is permitted to enter the passage ways except postoffice inspectors.

The lookout is most in use immediately after a complaint has been received that mail has been stolen in the office. The work of the inspectors requires great patience. Sometimes the vigil is maintained several days or even weeks before the thief is singled out among 500 workmen, but the guilty ones are sure of detection sooner or later.

Inspectors proceed on the well founded theory that a thief who once has purloined a letter will repeat the offense and continue to steal until at length he has been caught in the act. New boldness comes with each performance until the thief becomes less prudent and is caught. The watch tower with its dozens of port holes and with the possibility of inspectors watching is not enough to deter some men from stealing.

Experienced inspectors in watching from the lookout are able to detect many tell-tale signs that direct suspicions toward a dishonest employe. The movements of a thief, who has not yet been discovered, are often enough to put the inspectors on the right track at once.

All of the newer federal buildings in the United States have the inspectors' lookout. The suspended gallery effect is not used in the postoffice in Washington. Instead there are two towers, fifteen to twenty feet high, with numerous portholes. The entrances are from the basement.

WAS ANOTHER TRIUMPH

ANNUAL CONCERT OF SEDALIA'S GREAT ORGANIZATION, LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB.

MR. MILES WAS GIVEN A RECEPTION

Former Sedalian Added Much to the Success of the Splendid Concert —Large Audience Evinced Much Appreciation.

(From Friday's Daily.)

The annual concert of the Ladies' Musical club, which is invariably looked forward to with the keenest anticipation by all in Sedalia and always listened to with delight by every one fortunate enough to be present, was given at the Sedalia theater last night.

As is always the case when this organization favors the public with one of its artistic entertainments, a large and cultured audience greeted it, not one of whom but was again, as in former years, enraptured with the beautiful voices that so charmingly rendered each number of the carefully selected program.

No fairer scene was ever presented to any audience than was disclosed when the stage curtain was raised, revealing the members of the club all gowned in shimmering white, grouped in three semi-circles, one above the other, ready for the word that would cause them to fill the house with the rare harmonies that they alone can produce. The club was greeted with applause, which grew in volume as Mrs. W. D. Steele, founder and director, entered from the side and took her place, ready to lead it into new realms of ever-increasing triumph.

Then, and throughout the entire evening, Sedalia's pride in this great organization was evinced at every opportunity, the applause becoming rapturous when some particularly charming number was given.

It would be impossible to describe each number rendered without repetition, as the blending of voices, the perfect conception as to theme, made each selection a gem. The soloists, all in good voice, were a credit to themselves, the club and their able director.

"The Garden of Flowers," introducing all the favorites in solos quartettes and duets, with the club accompanying in chorus, was a beautiful and fitting finale to this altogether entertaining and classical concert.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the popular leader, Mrs. W. D Steele, and her untiring efforts which have resulted in the making of this wonderful organization and which promise to keep it together to further add to the delight of all those who love the best and sweetest as rendered by voices trained and directed to perfect accord and harmony.

Mr. Gwilym Miles was the soloist of the evening, and the musical club is to be congratulated on bringing to Sedalia this talented artist. Mr Miles' first number, the famous prologue from I. Pagliacci, brought out all the possibilities of his wonderful voice and musical nature. His great compass, dramatic ability and beautiful shading were all in evidence. As an encore he sang, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

The second number was a group of choice songs by Strauss, Wolf, Kuhn and Schumann. The first two were sung in the original. The famous "Two Grenadiers" was sung with all the dramatic and patriotic spirit the song demands. As an encore, Hammond's "Recompense" was given.

The third group was indeed a rare treat, Handel's "Where'er You Walk," sung in that broad style which the author demands. "Mother o' Mine," by Tours, followed, full of deep, tender feeling. Then came "Molly Malone," the charming old Irish ballad, and last and greatest of all his singing was that of "Danny Deever," Kipling's poem set to music by Walter Damrasch. In this song Mr. Miles completely carried away his audience, and he told the tragic story in a way never to be forgotten. As encores to this he sang Tosti's "Goodbye," and Rabyn's "You."

Mr. Miles was delighted with the brilliant reception accorded him. He was accompanied in all of his songs by Miss Ruby Pratt, of St. Louis, whose work was most artistic.

Mr. Miles was enthusiastic in his praise of the singing of the Ladies' Musical club and its beautiful work and voices.

The following is the program in detail, with the exception of those encores that were so gracefully given:

MAIL POUCHES MISSING

A SACK SHIPPED ON MAJESTIC FROM LONDON DESTINED FOR ST. LOUIS.

CONTENTS VALUED AT $500,000

Postoffice Authorities in Washington Say They Have No Knowledge of Alleged Theft as Reported.

London, April 27.—The London postal authorities have learned that two bags of mail from this city, containing securities and other valuables worth $500,000, were stolen in New York the latter part of last month.

Acording to the reports received here, one of the bags was destined for St. Louis, and was shipped by the Majestic, which arrived in New York March 26. The other, destined for Brooklyn, was shipped by the steamer Philadelphia, which arrived at New York March 29.

Both bags disappeared in transit between the steamers and the postoffice. It is stated that they were handed over to the mail boats and receipted for. Efforts have been made to keep the theft a secret while the investigation is going on.

A dispatch from Washington says the postoffice authorities there have no knowledge of the theft.

VIEWS OF CHAMP CLARK

PREDICTS BRILLIANT, ALSO A DRY, FUTURE FOR THE UNITED STATES.

A BROOKLAND BROTHERHOOD TALK

Says That the Time Will Come When It Will Be Impossible to Get a Drink of Whisky South of the Potomac River.

Washington, April 27.—"The day of controversial religion in this country has passed, and the day of practical religion is at hand. I am glad of it."

This sentiment was uttered by Champ Clark, of Missouri, in an address before the Brookland Brotherhood at their monthly meeting in the Baptist church. Mr. Clark's topic was "The United States of America in the Twentieth Century."

"The dawn of the year 2000 will see us the first power on earth and there will be a scramble among the other nations for second place," said the speaker.

"When our republic was established there was but one other; now there are twenty-six. Not one of the South American republics could have existed had it not been for the United States. Ours is the only nation on the face of the earth that has stood for an ideal, not by the mailed hand, not by force of arms, but by the wholesomeness of our example."

Mr. Clark pointed out the great strides that have been made in the prohibition movement, and predicted that the time would come when it would be legally impossible to get a drink south of the Potomac river.

SNOW IN SOUTH DAKOTA

VIPER'S VENOM IS TAKEN

ONE-THIRD OF A TEASPOONFUL TO SUPPLY WORLD FOR HALF A CENTURY.

IT IS INVALUABLE FOR INSANITY

Deadly Reptile Sinks Fangs Into Gauze and Glass Receptacle Retains Poison in New York City.

New York, April 27.—For the first time in eighty years and the second time in the history of the science of medicine, an operation for the extraction of venom from the deadly lancehead viper, said to be the most poisonous of all known reptiles, was performed at the Brox Zoological park Sunday.

As a result science once more has a plentiful supply of serum which has been found almost invaluable in the treatment of extreme cases of insanity and also of many of the malignant diseases. The precious fluid obtained is less than a third of an ordinary teaspoonful in quantity. The supply is ample to meet the demands of the world for at least half a century.

Those who participated in the operation Sunday were Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the park; Dr. St. Clair Smith, one of the leading homeopaths of the country; Charles E. Snyder and Dr. E. W. Runyon.

Holding the reptile close to his body with the head pointing outward, Dr. Ditmars gave the signal and Keeper Snyder thrust into the snake's mouth a glass receptacle of unusual strength and the wide aperture at the top had been covered with a piece of medicated gauze. When the receptacle was at a point less than half an inch from the viper's nose there was a lunge forward and with a snap the fangs tore through the cloth and the poison spurted into the glass.

The snake will be kept in captivity, and, if he survives, other operations will be performed and the future supply of the serum made secure.

AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

James W. Piper, of Marshall, Mo., Cuts Throat on Train.

Marshall, Mo., April 27.—James W. Piper, aged 42 years, a prominent stock raiser of this city, attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat on a Chicago & Alton train near Odessa Saturday. He is lying in a hotel in Odessa in a critical condition.

He slashed himself on both sides of the throat making ugly wounds. Passengers in the smoker and the conductor disarmed him and he then tore the wounds open with his hands.

Piper, it is said, recently had some domestic trouble, and two weeks ago left for Omaha. Later his wife received a message stating he was broke and requesting money, which was sent. Nothing more was heard of him until his wife was notified of his attempted self-destruction.

Helie and Madame Play Tennis.

Naples, April 27.—Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould and her children Sunday went by motor car to the southern declivity of Mount Vesuvius. They walked through the lava streams of the last eruption to the ruin of Ottaiano, and later played tennis in the hotel garden.

It is said they soon will go to Rome and Paris, stopping for a day or two in Florence.

POEM WON CONVICT JOB

THE NEW YORK HERALD OFFERS CARL ARNOLD A FINE STAFF POSITION.

QUITE LIKELY HE WILL ACCEPT IT

Poem Secured the Commutation of His Sentence by Gov. Hoch—Sent to Prison for Murdering Mayor of Town.

Leavenworth, Kas. April 25.—Carl Arnold, a convict at the Kansas state penitentiary, whose sentence was recently commuted by Governor Hoch, and whose case attracted wide attention because of a poem written by the convict having been the cause of the executive clemency, will profit greatly by the prominence into which he sprang so suddenly. He has been offered a position as staff writer on the New York Herald and has about decided to accept the offer as soon as his term expires, which will be in less than a year.

He is still working in the twine factory, where he was placed after the prison officials learned that he had secretly written and published a book called "The Kansas Inferno." The book was widely read and commented upon throughout the state.

Previous to that time he had a snap as librarian. In fact, it was this job that gave him the opportunity to write the book and several good poems he has written. His partner in crime was William Harvey. They murdered the mayor of Kingsley, Kas., eighteen years ago.

The sentences of both were commuted and the history of the cases together with Arnold's poems were printed all over the state and in eastern papers. As a result both of the convicts received hundreds of letters from all over the country, mostly from sentimental women.

Some of the writers wanted to send the convicts something; others offered them jobs at the expiration of their sentences and still others wanted to marry the convicts. A grass widow in Kansas City was most insistent among the latter. The "deal" was bidding fair to come to a consummation, and Arnold's mother was so favorably impressed with the widow's letters that she went to Kansas City to see her, and give her Arnold's latest message.

The widow took offense at what she termed maternal interference and called the deal off. Others have promised to be waiting at the gates when the prisoners are released (probably some of them will be left waiting at the church). The offer from the New York paper is genuine and Arnold has a splendid opening. Harvey has not yet decided what he will do when again a free man, but will have no difficulty in getting into some honorable business.

HAYWOOD LOSES HIS JOB

Miners Oust Acquitted Secretary Who Taught Socialism.

Denver Colo., April 25.—Because of his advocacy of socialistic ideas, advanced while he was paid to lecture for the organization, William D. Haywood has been deposed by the Western Federation of Miners.

Official announcement of this was made Friday in the regular issue of the Miners' Magazine, the union's official organ.

A CURE FOR SCIATICA.

"Some years ago, while stooping over, I was taken with sciatica in my left hip, from which I was laid up, helpless, for over six weeks," writes Mrs. Julius Scott, of 10825 Columbia avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. "I could not lie on my left side, and my left leg was swollen and became so much shorter that I had to have five lifts put on my left shoe.

"Every winter for a number of years I was laid up in this way and suffered excruciating pain. I tried everything and all the consolation I got from people was that sciatica could not be cured.

"After trying everything else, as a last resort I got a dollar bottle of Sloan's Liniment and was amazed when I found that it gave me relief. I used a second bottle and the swelling went out of my leg and it was only necessary for me to use a part of the third bottle.

"Sloan's Liniment has certainly done wonders for me, and if you wish to refer to me you can do so."

A BIG APPLE CROP IS DUE

MISSOURI GROWER SAYS CODDLING WAS DESTROYED LAST YEAR.

MR. BUTTERFIELD OF FARMINGTON

Has Given Subject Careful Consideration, and in Consequence His Utterances Are Worthy of Credence.

Chicago, April 27.—Missouri is preparing for a bumper fruit crop and any danger of a frost that would hurt ended practically with Easter Sunday, according to Mr. Butterfield, of Farmington, Mo., one of the largest fruit growers in the state, who is in Chicago on business.

"We are practically sure of having one of the largest apple crops ever known in the state," said Mr. Butterfield. "Last year there were a few apples on the northern edge and a few at the southern border and none in between. The killing frost on April 23 fixed the buds. It was considered a calamity at first. Now we realize that it was a blessing.

"We believe that the coddling moth, the apple foe, was exterminated by the crop failure of last year. The coddling moth lays its eggs at the heart of the blossom, just at the point where the apple stem will be. When the apple begins to mature the resulting worm bores its way into the fruit and destroys it.

"There were no apples last year, hence no worms. For the same reason that the chinch bug passed away with the failure of the farmers to grow wheat after the chinch bug visitation, we believe that there will not be an apple worm in Missouri this year, and we anticipate a remarkable crop, which is a good thing for the apple grower and a good thing for the apple consumer."

HAMLIN LAUDS MISSOURI

Says the State Could Exist With a Wall Around It.

Washington, April 27.—Missouri, her statesmen and her resources were lauded by Representative C. W. Hamlin, of that state, at a meeting of the Missouri Society of Washington in Fythian temple Saturday night.

Senators Benton, Vest and Cockrell were characterized by the speaker as men of the highest type of American citizenship, whose names are enrolled with those of Calhoun, Clay and Webster in the history of America.

Referring to the resources of the state, Mr. Hamlin said that if a wall were built around Missouri there would still be found within the boundary everything necessary for the comfort or necessities of its people.

Have Subscribed About $4,300.

Harry E. Agee, of the Lamonte Record, informs the Democrat-Sentinel that the people of that section have subscribed about $4,300 to a fund to be used in prospecting for gas and oil in that section of the county.

BAD STORMS DUE IN MAY

KEEP YOUR EYE ON BAROMETER AND READY TO DODGE TORNADOES.

REV. IRL HICKS PREDICTS TROUBLE

Month to Open With a Series of Thunderstorms—The 27th is the 12th Anniversary of St. Louis Cyclone.

May is to be a continuous performance of tornadoes, thunderstorms, hail and frost, according to Rev. Irl Hicks, who has hung out the danger signals in his long distance forecasts for those who have faith in his prognostications.

The merry month is to open with a series of violent thunderstorms, approaching tornado violence in the west, especially on the 3rd and 4th.

Low barometer, sultriness, fitful winds and restless clouds indicate an almost positive danger at this time, says Mr. Hicks.

The country at large is to be visited with heavy rains and hail, followed by late snow squalls and sleet. Frosts will be natural, and much probability of seismic disturbances.

Careful watching is advised by the St. Louis prognosticator from the 7th to the 9th, and frost is due from the 7th to the 11th generally.

High temperature, daily rains and thunderstorms, with probable tornadoes, is on the menu for the 13th to the 16th, and floods over wide sections follow immediately.

Much cooler weather is due from the 16th to the 19th. From the 19th to the 22nd is not seriously threatening, but look out for tornadoes, says Mr. Hicks.

Quiet and calm and much warmer until the 24th will usher in the most dangerous period of the month, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 25th, 26th and 27th, storms may be expected to become very threatening, if not tornadic.

The 27th is the twelfth anniversary of the St. Louis cyclone. The danger area extends over the central and western parts to the country.

The month is to end in comparative peace, although seismic disturbance is possible from the 27th to the 31st

THE LAST TRIBUTE PAID

Burial of Harry W. Knight, Senior, This Afternoon.

The last tribute of respect to the memory of Harry W. Knight, sr., whose sudden death last Monday night was chronicled in the columns of the Democrat-Sentinel Tuesday, was paid at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Rev. D. M. Claggett, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Douglass Atwill, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, conducted funeral services at the family residence, 709 West Fifth street.

Hundreds of friends of Mr. Knight and family assembled at the Knight home to pay a last homage of respect, while the many beautiful floral offerings that rested on the casket further attested in a small degree to the esteem in which the beloved dead was held.

Worthy of especial mention among the floral offerings was a beautiful remembrance from Sedalia lodge No. 125, B. P. O. E., made of carnations and emblematic of the Elks' order, with the clock hand pointing to the eleventh hour.

Another token of remembrance was a beautiful wreath of white carnations and pink roses, presented by the employes of the Knight-Marshall Hardware company.

A quartette composed of Mrs. C. H. Pard, Mrs. W. D. Steele, C. C. Lawson and O. W. Wood sang "Rock of Ages."

After the services at the home the remains were conveyed to their final resting place in Crown Hill cemetery, where interment was made, the following gentlemen serving as pallbearers:

Active—R. D. Marshall, W. A. Latimer, James T. Montgomery, C. C. Evans, W. H. Powell and H. W. Harris.

Honorary—J. West Goodwin, Harry H. Hawkins, D. H. Smith, John Montgomery, jr., H. H. Fleming, W. J. Crouch, W. E. Bard and W. D Steele.

Hope to Bring It to Sedalia.

F. L. Ludemann, M. V. Carroll and Charles D. Brown leave next week for Carthage to attend the state convention of the Modern Woodmen of America to be held at Carthage on May 6, and with a view of landing the 1909 state convention for Sedalia. The local delegates will also attend the convention.

Insurance Officials Depart.

F. O. Ayres, fourth vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, with headquarters at New York city, and W. H. Stewart, superintendent of agencies from the same place, were here today, met with the Sedalia and Moberly staff and went east on No. 2 at noon.

ATTORNEY GENERAL AT LAST AGREES TO TAKE GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION.

HIS HEALTH IS A CONSIDERATION

Has Written a Letter to State Chairman Saying He Will Make the Race Providing He Is Well Enough to Do So.

Jefferson City, April 30.—Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri, today authorized the publication of a letter which he mailed last night to Walter S. Dickey, chairman of the republican state central committee, announcing that he would accept the republican nomination for governor if his health will permit him to make the race.

CELEBRATE CLEAN-UP DAY

Exercises at Court House and Ride Over the City.

The recent clean-up of Sedalia, under the auspices of the civic department of four of the women's clubs of the city, will be appropriately celebrated at the court house at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the program heretofore printed in these columns will be carried out.

At 3 o'clock, after the exercises at the court house are concluded, the ladies and others will be taken on a carriage and automobile ride over the city. All of the liverymen will contribute vehicles, and the mayor and city officials will ride in William Rector's tally-ho. The ladies will ride in the automobiles and will be assigned as before the postponement to some one of the following autos that will be in line:

No. 1—Major Coleman.
No. 2—W. J. Crouch.
No. 3—W. H. Cloney.
No. 4—M. T. Slane.
No. 5—J. H. Rodes.
No. 6—George Wells.
No. 7—G. L. Coleman.
No. 8—Frank Fischer.
No. 9—W. H. Highleyman.
No. 10—George Conser.
No. 11—H. H. Kroencke.
No. 12—Dr. W. S. Shirk.
No. 14—W. H. Ramsey.
No. 16—G. F. Olendorf.

The Sedalia Military band will furnish the music for the celebration.

THE CASE OF MRS. U. F. SHORT

It Was Taken Up for Trial in Criminal Court Today.

Mrs. Emma Short, charged with cruelly mistreating Willie Bruce, a minor, was placed on trial in the Pettis county criminal court today, being defended by her husband, U. F. Short, and Attorneys Barnett & Barnett. H. D. Dow is conducting the prosecution.

Up to the time the Democrat-Sentinel went to press only three witnesses had been examined.

The following jury is hearing the case: T. L. Scott, James Marsh, Charles Knox, C. M. Davis, J. T. Colaflower, L. T. Beck, A. P. Bradley, M. K. Swope, J. H. Hope, C. S. Williams, Farmenas Cole and E. B. Gibson.

The court room was filled with auditors, among the number being several lady friends of the defendant.

"DINING" WITH NEGROES

MISS MARY WHITE OVINGTON SAYS THAT SHE SEES NO WRONG IN IT.

BUT DRAWS THE LINE AT MARRIAGE

Settlement Worker Objects to Reports of the New York Dinner—Favors "Friendly Relations," That's All.

New York, April 30.—Justifying the dinner given by the Cosmopolitan club Monday night, at which negro men and women dined with well-known white men and women on terms of absolute equality, Miss Mary White Ovington, well known as a settlement worker among the negroes of New York, declared that if she had her way she would throw open every prominent restaurant along Broadway and Fifth avenue to the cultured black man and woman.

"New York is provincial," said Miss Ovington. "It is too silly to talk about our dining with negroes.

"New York ought to be big enough and broad enough to look at this matter in the right way."

Miss Ovington denied the report that Hamilton Holt at the banquet had advocated intermarriages of whites and blacks. What he did say was that there was no amalgamation without marriage; that the white remained white and the black black, and that the bleaching out was too slow."

"Well, where do you draw the line, Miss Ovington?"

"I do not think is would be right for a group of young black and white persons to get together for a good time. That would be wrong. But there is nothing absolutely wrong in the meeting with negroes of refined and mature years to discuss the negro problem."

"Do you believe in intermarriage of the white and the black?"

"No, I do not believe in the marriage of blacks and whites. I do not go that far. But I do advocate the freest mingling of the races. There is no reason why white persons should not meet cultured negro men and women on terms of absolute equality. How can you better arrive at a solution of the negro problem than by consultation and co-operation with the intelligent blacks?"

"But I would not hesitate to accept an invitation to dine with a negro just as I would not hesitate to meet with Japanese, although I might think marriage with a Japanese as physically bad as with a negro."

"So that if a young negro met and fell in love with a white girl of the tenements you would not advocate their marriage?"

"No, it would be injudicious.

"Far too much has been done for the negro," said Miss Ovington, "without our knowing what the best persons of the negro race want done. So, from the very beginning of my work for the negro I have consulted with negroes and negresses who know the needs of their people and have been on friendly terms with them."

"What is your idea of friendly relations?"

"To meet with the negro in whatever social way becomes necessary and appropriate at the time.

"I cannot place too much emphasis on the constant cry that goes up about the presence of black persons in prominent restaurants and their dining together with whites. The restaurant is not the hearth and home; it is a public meeting place, and the black has the same right to go there as the white."

CELEBRATES WET VICTORY

"Personal Liberty" Organizer Gives Banquet of 200 Covers.

Glasgow, Mo., April 30.—John Morrison Fuller, who organized a personal liberty bureau here during the recent local option campaign, gave a banquet last night in honor of the wet victory achieved in Glasgow. Two hundred covers were laid.

AGAINST MAIL ORDER BANK

Court Decision Upholds People's United States Bank Fraud.

St. Louis, April 30.—A decision was handed down in the United States court of appeals yesterday affirming the judgment of Judge McPherson in refusing to grant an injunction to prevent enforcement of a fraud order, issued by the postoffice department against the People's United States bank, of which E. G. Lewis is president.

Judge Sanborn, who delivered the opinion, declared that the complainant had not proved any of his contentions against the fraud order; that the record failed to disclose wherein the bank was damaged, or to offer any proof that the government had treated Lewis unfairly.

A marriage license was issued today to Joseph V. Sterlin, of Lamonte, and Mary Ellen Fisher, of the same place.

JAPANESE CRUSIER SUNK

EXPLOSION ON BOARD THE MATSUSHIMA SENT HER BENEATH THE OCEAN WAVES.

HUNDREDS OF THE CREW DROWNED

Many Were Rescued by Other Craft, but a Vast Majority Lost Their Lives—Sons of Prominent Officials Among Lost.

Tokio, April 30.—The Japanese training cruiser Matsushima was sunk off Pescadores early this morning by the explosion of a projectile. The cruisers Itsukshima and Hashidati, which were near, rescued some of the crew, but it is feared that over 200 others, including the captain of the cruiser, are lost.

Immediately after the explosion the Matsushima sank until only the bridge was visible above the water. Efforts at rescue by boats from the cruisers Hashidati and Itsukshima were continued until 9 o'clock this morning, and they succeeded in saving the lives of 151 men, including some officers. A majority of the officers were lost, however, and at the time of the admiral's report the cadets saved numbered only fifty-eight out of a total of 300 that were aboard.

The sons of Baron Chinda, vice minister of the foreign office, and of Prince Oyama, field marshal of the army, are among the cadets who it is feared are lost. Also Captains Yeshomri and Yashire. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The Matsushima was of 5,000 tons displacement, and a peculiarity was her armament, which consisted of one 12-inch gun mounted on the top deck. In addition, she carried twelve 4-inch guns and a battery of smaller caliber. She was built in 1890 in France. Her principal historic record is that she was the flagship of Admiral Ito in the battle of Yalu river, participating also in the battle of the Sea of Japan during the Chinese war.

Those saved include three officers, twenty-four cadets, seven non-commissioned officers and 141 of the crew.

JOINT K. & L. OF S. MEETING

It Was Held Last Night in the R. T. of J. Building.

The joint meeting of Fidelity council No. 53 and Queen City council No. 564, Knights and Ladies of Security, held in honor of the delegates to the convention, in the hall in the Royal Tribe of Joseph building last night, was one of the most enthusiastic meetings held in the annals of the fraternal organizations of this city.

During the initiatory work both halls were practically filled, and the work conferred met with applause time and again, and received special praise in the speeches made by the delegates.

At the close of the lodge meeting the doors were thrown open and the friends invited were admitted for the program and refreshments, and at a very late hour the festivities were brought to a close, every one present having nothing but praise for the grand affair. Nearly 400 people enjoyed the entertainment.

The following interesting program was rendered:

Selection—Kroencke's orchestra.
Vocal solo—Miss Lena Maors.
Reading—Miss Helen Goodyear.
Vocal solo—Miss Mae Goodwin.
Selection—Orchestra.
Vocal solo—Miss Wayne Clutts.

"TEDDY" IS REAL ANGRY

HE HAS BIG STICK OUT FOR SENATE FOLLOWING THE MESSAGE DISCOURTESY.

NOW REGRETS THIRD TERM PLAY

Never Would Have Made Pledge Could He Have Seen the Future—Taking Advantage Because Term Is Near End.

Washington, April 30.—Roosevelt has the big stick out for the senate. His wrath reached the boiling point when the contemptuous manner in which his latest message had been received in both the house and the senate was reported to him.

In a burst of rage in a conversation with a senator friendly to his policies, he declared that congress is taking advantage of the fact that he is about to retire from office, and that he is sincerely sorry that he ever made his famous pledge not to seek a third term in the presidency.

There is no doubt the president is about as angry as he ever has been in the course of his administration. The attitude of congress toward the executive and his legislative program has made the president bitter.

There has never been a president's message so discourteously received as was the one sent to congress Monday. The president gave utterance to his regret over the third term pledge in talking with a senator who was one of the administration leaders in the four battleships fight.

This senator commented upon the extreme indifference of the senate toward the president's wishes, and expressed the opinion that this indifference, which has almost assumed the attitude of a studied affront, is due to the fact that the president has eliminated himself from the race for the presidential nomination, and that congress is trying to get even for past times when he has held it up to its duties.

"Yes," snapped the president, "and if I could have foreseen how things were going to frame up, I would never have made the election night pledge. Still," he added, "it is made, and it stands, even if advantage is taken of it."

THE MISSOURI INTERURBAN

Meeting of Stockholders Held at Bunceton Yesterday.

The stockholders of the Missouri Interurban railroad, to extend from Sedalia to Jefferson City, held their annual meeting at Bunceton yesterday afternoon and re-elected all of the old directors, who in turn re-elected the old officers, as follows:

President—J. D. Starke, of Sedalia.
Vice president—J. W. Mellor, of Sedalia.
Secretary—O. A. Cramer, of Bunceton.
Treasurer—E. W. Moore, of Bunceton.

An executive committee was appointed, as follows: O. W. Nelson and E. W. Moore, of Bunceton, and J. W. Mellor, of Sedalia. This committee will hold a meeting in Sedalia within the next few days.

The next meeting of the directors will be held some time in May. The intention is to begin work as soon as money matters loosen up a little.

A "STEEPLE JACK" KILLED

In Cleveland an 80-Foot Fall From a Smokestack Was Fatal.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 30.—"Steeplejack" Gallagher, of this city, fell eighty feet from a smokestack yesterday and was killed.

Gallagher had won fame for daring feats of climbing in various parts of the country.

DEATH OF MRS. THOMAS HAYS

Funeral Services at Sacred Heart Church Friday Morning

Mrs. Anna Hays, wife of Thomas Hays, proprietor of the Hays Bottling Works, died of a complication of diseases at her home, 506 North Prospect avenue, at 8:30 o'clock last night, aged 34 years, death ensuing after a two weeks' illness.

Mrs. Hays, before her marriage, was Miss Anna Reinwald, of Brunswick, Mo., and besides her husband, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Airhart Reinwald, of Brunswick; a brother, J. Reinwald, of the same place, and the following sisters: Mrs. C. Heneberg, of Brunswick; Mrs. Frances Schmelling, St. Louis; Mrs. Edward Hile, St. Louis.

Mrs. Hays was born at Brunswick on July 4, 1873. Fifteen years ago she came to Sedalia from that place, where she has since resided, commanding the esteem and respect of every acquaintance.

She was a member of Sacred Heart church, and Rev. Fr. Neiberg, the pastor, will conduct funeral services there at 10 o'clock Friday morning, after which burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

SHERIFF MAY RUN AGAIN

EVEN IF HE IS NOW SERVING A SECOND TERM HE'S NOT INELIGIBLE.

RULING BY STATE SUPREME COURT

Chief Justice Gantt Reads Opinion, All Except Lamm Concurring, on Test Proceedings From Cole County.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 30.—In the supreme court in banc yesterday an opinion delivered by Chief Justice James B. Gantt settles the question of whether, under the constitutional amendment adopted in 1906, sheriffs who are holding office now are eligible to election this year.

The 1906 amendment extended the tenure of the sheriff's office from two to four years, and provides that the holder thereof shall be ineligible for re-election.

John W. Scott, sheriff of Cole county, acting for the Missouri Sheriffs' association, prepared a test case of a friendly nature by filing with County Clerk C. A. Dierck a declaration of his intention to run for the office. The county clerk declined to file the declaration, and mandamus proceedings were brought to get a construction of the law by the supreme court.

Judge Gantt holds that the ineligibility clause of the constitutional amendment adopted in 1906 applies only to the sheriffs elected in 1908, and those to be elected every four years thereafter. In other words, the incumbents in the office of sheriff at the present time in the 114 counties of the state are eligible to election this time if they care to run for the office again, but those who are elected this year will be ineligible four years hence.

Judge Henry Lamm filed a dissenting opinion in which he holds that this is not the intent of the amendment, as under this construction it will be possible for a sheriff, who is now serving his second term of two years, to hold eight years continuously in the office if he should be re-elected this year.

Judges Fox, Burgess, Valliant, Graves and Woodson concur in the opinion of Chief Justice Gantt.

A similar case, in which is involved the tenure of office of the county treasurer, will be heard by the court on May 4, on a mandamus proceeding brought from Lawrence county. The court in banc yesterday began the call of the docket for the regular April term.

ANOTHER TRIAL MAY 11

Frederick W. Priesmeyer, Who Is Charged With Bribery.

St. Louis, April 30.—Judge Muench, of the criminal court, has set May 11 as the date for the retrial of the bribery case of Frederick W. Priesmeyer, member of the house of delegates.

The jury in Priesmeyer's case disagreed and was dismissed. Priesmeyer was indicted on the charge of having accepted $500 for his influence in the passage of an ordinance.

BUILDING OF CREAMERY

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE ESTIMATES COST.

WILL RANGE FROM $300 TO $1400

After the Structure Is Equipped the Total Expense Will Be Between $2,000 and $4,250—How It Is Distributed.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—During the past few years there have been built in the United States several thousand creameries, many of which have been successful from the start, while others failed after a few months' operation, and some were never even started.

An investigation of the creamery business in several states by the United States department of agriculture has shown that the cause of many of the failures was due to lack of a sufficient number of cows, which should be not less than 400, and others failed because of improper organization, in the case of co-operative creameries and excessive cost of building and equipment. Many of the creameries have cost about twice their actual worth, and were not of the type suited to the locality in which they were built.

The cost of a building about 28 by 48 feet will vary from $800 to $1,400, dependent upon the locality, the construction, the cost of material and labor. Such a building usually consists of a main work room, engine and boiler room (including space for refrigerator machine), coal room, refrigerator, store room and office.

Machinery for a hand separator plant, consisting of a 15-horsepower boiler, 10-horsepower engine, combination churn, with a capacty of 600 pounds of butter, and other necessary apparatus, will cost approximately $1,200. Machinery for a whole milk plant will cost about $1,850. This equipment will handle from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds of butter per day. If a refrigerating machine is included the cost will be from $600 to $1,000 more.

The total cost of a creamery would therefore vary from $2,000 for a simple hand separator plant without artificial refrigeration, where labor and material are cheap, to $4,250 for a whole-milk plant, including artificial refrigeration and a higher cost of material and labor.

The department of agriculture is prepared to furnish information for the proper organization of creameries and cheese factories, and upon request will supply plan of organization, list of machinery, and plan for creamery. Correspondence should be addressed to the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Generally fair tonight and Friday. Probably frost tonight.

CLEAN UP FOR THE DAY.

Tomorrow being the clean-up celebration it is to be hoped that, in appreciation of the unselfish and devoted work performed by the women who have had charge of the movement, the paved streets will be put in spink and span condition for the occasion.

There is no manner of doubt but what the energy and interest displayed during the past few weeks by those at the head of the cleaner Sedalia project has resulted in a tremendous amount of practical good, as demonstrated by cleaner alleys and yards in all parts of the city, as well as in the growth of a sentiment for better things, that as time passes will continue to increase, and the city ought to do its part also on those thoroughfares which are capable of a good appearance.

It is a splendid time to start the ball to rolling.

DOING RIGHT.

It costs a country newspaper money every time it takes a stand on any question, says an exchange.

Almost any other citizen besides a newspaper man can do so without injuring his business, because he is not put on record. When a newspaper publishes anything it's there in black and white and no way to get around it.

If the editor advocates improvements, the mossbacks go after him, and sometimes stop their paper. If he opposes improvements, the progressive sort get on his frame and call him a back number. If he boosts the churches the liberal element calls him crazy, and if he doesn't the church people say he's going to the devil. If he publishes local news, some say it is all nonsense, and if he doesn't he gets it in the neck from those who look for the short items. If he publishes politics the opposition gets into his hairs, and if he doesn't he is charged with being afraid to stand out for his opinion. If he condemns mail order houses, there are some people who ask him to attend to his own business, as they have a right to trade where they please. If he publishes mail order ads., the home merchants go after his gore. No country paper can come squarely out without making enemies and losing some money, and in the run or a year or so will incur criticism from nearly everybody.

But this should not be discouraging. The newspaper that undertakes to please everybody will please nobody, and if it is honest and sincere and thoughtful, the public will respect it.

MISDIRECTED ZEAL.

It may be that the managers of the already notorious Cosmopolitan society dinner had and have in mind some large movement for the advancement of the race, but most of the country will regard the New York affair of Monday night as a bad "break."

The white man who wants to marry a negress is not a sound representative of his race, and the white woman who will consider marriage with a black man is inconceivably vicious. Blacks who have been advanced by education ought to have no interest in intermarriage, and it is doubtful if they have.

The Monday dinner in New York seems to amount to this: Unbalanced men and women, chiefly white, have made possible such a situation as that which has developed. The young white girls who sat in the meeting ought to be locked up; their parents and guardians, if living, should be relieved of their trust. Happily, there is not in this country the slightest normal support for the idea expressed at the New York dinner.

All over the land there will be an expressel feeling of resentment toward the participants and organizers of the new movement, any connection with which is a disgrace.—St. Louis Times.

NO SPECIAL GIFTS.

The president cast a bombshell in to the camp of his partisan friends in congress by vetoing the Rainy river bill, and in so doing announcing a policy wholly adverse with everything which in the past has stood for republicanism. Mr. Roosevelt has announced that he will approve no bill which gives away valuable special privileges to private concerns and demands no return to the people and places no limitations on the recipients. Heretofore the party in power has distributed such special privileges as the right to construct dams, capable of and producing thousands of horsepower to their political friends, with never a thought of asking any public compensation therefor.

Mr. Roosevelt points to the immense value of these privileges and the thousands of dollars which it is necessary to tax the people for in order to improve the waterways of the country, and pertinently asks why the private beneficiaries should not pay an adequate return for their privileges, such returns to be expended on the waterways, and he clearly intimates that there must be some such provision in every measure of this character which is to receive his approval. Moreover, he insists that every such grant shall be limited so that it shall revert, in time, to the government, that future generations may dispose of it as they see fit, and for the best interests of the community. Had this policy been pursued from the foundation of the government the return would now be sufficient to meet all the expenses of the national government.

Representative Tawney, chairman of the committee on appropriations, predicts that there will be a deficit of $150,000,000 next year, but that has not prevented the passage by the republicans of a widow's pension bill, which increases the annual cost of pensions by $12,000,000. Last year the pension list cost the country $140,000,000, and now with $12,000,000 added, the cost will be brought up to approximately $150,000,000. It has been pertinently remarked by democratic statesmen that if the republican administration is sincere in its appeal for a more liberal policy with regard to the army and navy it should demonstrate at least a slight degree of conscientiousness in distributing the people's money in the form of pensions, and not spread it broadcast for the sole purpose of insuring republican votes at elections.

Congress is preparing to adjourn on May 16, with scarcely a third of the legislation recommended by the president enacted, and the president declares he is too good a party man to precipitate a fight in the republican ranks by interposing obstacles to the program of the majority in congress.

FALLS INTO JAR; IS DROWNED

Degognia, Ill., Boy's Mother Thinks Him at Play.

Degognia, Ill., April 30.—The 4-year-old son of Henry Dilday, a merchant here, tripped while playing on the porch at his home yesterday and fell head-first into a five-gallon jar of water. He was drowned. The little fellow was found by his mother who, seeing him standing on his head in the jar, laughingly told him to right himself.

The boy did not answer. After Mrs. Dilday had stood by laughing for several minutes she feared the boy was not playing. When she went closer to him she saw the water-filled jar. The truth came over her and she went into hysterics.

NOW, WHEN IS A BRIDE?

UNUSUAL INCIDENT AT A WEDDING CEREMONY IN CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

MAN MADE WAGER REGARDING KISS

Amazes Priest When He Interrupts Ceremony, Because He Bet He Would Be First to Salute Fair Principal.

Chicago, April 30.—When is a bride?

On a wager that he would be the first to kiss the bride, James Carroll, No. 5607 Sangamon street, almost broke up the wedding of Edward Carey, No. 588 West Thirteenth street,, and Miss Jennie Bolan, No. 11 De Kalb street.

While Mr. Carey and Miss Bolan stood before the altar at St. Jarlath's church, and Father Kenney, the pastor, was in the midst of the wedding ceremony, Carroll leaped from a front pew, threw his arms around the young woman's neck, and kissed her before the eyes of the astonished crowd that filled the church.

The bet was with the bridegroom, and was for a month's flat rent. But Carey refused to pay the wager. He declared that Carroll's wild escapade and kiss came at lest thirty seconds before Miss Bolan became a bride.

The affair was as exciting as the question it has raised. The priest had reached that portion of the wedding service where he had ordered the bridegroom to place the ring upon his affianced's finger.

Miss Bolan had removed her white glove, and Carey was fitting the circle of gold upon her hand, when Carroll threw the wedding party into confusion by his daring act.

The priest was dumbfounded. The bridegroom was petrified. The bri— or, that is, Miss Bolan—wrenched herself free and turned a frightened face upon Carroll.

"Oh, Jim," she cried.

"I win," cried Carroll.

Then, in the midst of the confusion, he explained to the priest.

"It was a bet, father," he said. "I bet Carey I would kiss the bride first, and I win."

"No, you don't," said Carey, "she's not a bride yet."

Father Kenney finished the ceremony amid great good humor and laughter. When he had pronounced Carey and Miss Bolan man and wife Carey took the girl's face in his hands and kissed her.

"I win," he said.

But did he?

Who did win?

When is a bride, anyway?

BLAKE, THE MATRICIDE

He Swears That His Chum, Reynolds, Knew All About the Crime

Anderson, Ind., April 30.—At 10 o'clock last night, after deliberating five hours, a circuit court jury had not reached a verdict in the case of Ozro Reynolds, aged 26 years, of this city, charged with having received stolen goods when he accepted part of the money from Grover Blake, which the latter confessed he stole from his mother, Mrs. William M. Blake, after he murdered her in this city March 21.

Reynolds testified that not until after he and Blake were arrested in Fort Wayne, a day after the murder, did he know how Grover Blake got the money or that he had killed his mother . Blake, who recently began a life sentence in prison, was returned yesterday and testified against Reynolds. He said Reynolds knew all about the crime.

KISSES FOR LENIENT JUDGE

Fifty Girls Show Appreciation of One's Acquittal.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 30.—Fifty young women employed in the hotel accompanied the defendant in court yesterday and kissed the judge at the trial of Miss Dora Stark, a waitress in the Marlborough-Blenheim, who was accused by Mrs. Julia Cohn, of New York, a visitor, of purloining $3 and a small gold watch.

Justice J. S. Jagmetty discharged Miss Stark, who was in tears, as there was no evidence.

When the decision was announced there was a shout from the young women, and the magistrate found himself in the arms of one of the girls and being kissed, while others held him a prisoner in his chair.

Court attendants were also hugged, and there was a general kissing bee.

CHARIVARIED, THEN SHOOTS

Springfield Man Fails to Enjoy Wedding Music.

Springfield, Mo., April 30.—John Peacock, a young farmer living in Stafford, this county, was arrested yesterday on a capias from the April grand jury, charging felonious assault.

Peacock was married two weeks ago, and a party of his friends surrounded his house at night and joined in a charivari. Peacock could not see any fun in the revelry and he fired into the crowd. Grover Swanson was peppered with shot. Peacock furnished bond for his appearance at trial.

THE MONTREAL MEETING

ENTRIES ARE TO CLOSE TODAY FOR THE SEVEN STAKES OF SPRING MEET.

BEGIN JUNE 6 AND RUN TO JUNE 20

The Feature of the List Is the Mount Royal Handicap, Which Has Guaranteed Value of $2,000 for Three-Year-Olds.

Montreal, Quebec, April 30.— The entries close today for the seven stakes of the spring meeting of the Montreal Jockey club, to begin on June 6 and run to June 20.

The feature of the stake list is the Mount Royal handicap. It has a guaranteed value of $2,000, is for 3-year-olds and upward, and the distance is a mile and a quarter. This should prove an attractive event to those who race over the second circuit, and there is little doubt that the entry list will be large.

A race which lacks the value of the Mount Royal, but which is fully of as much interest is the king's plate, a race for 5-year-olds and upward, at a mile and a quarter.

There is a purse of fifty guineas given by King Edward, which goes to the owner of the winner, to which the Montreal Jocky club adds $750.

A feature of this race is that it is for horses owned, raised and trained in the province of Quebec, and there is much rivalry among the Canadians to see who will have the honor of winning the race.

Other races for 3-year-olds and upward are the Jockey club stakes, at a mile and a furlong, and Jacques Cartier stakes at a mile. Each has a guaranteed value of $1,000.

The 3-year-olds are taken care in the blue bonnets stakes at a mile, which has $1,000 guaranteed. The kindergarten is a very appropriately named stake for the youngsters. It is a sprint of five furlongs and has $1,000 guaranteed.

MAY SUSPEND PAPER DUTY

Western Congressmen Hope to Pass Bill This Session.

Washington, April 30.—It is the expectation of congressmen from the west that the special committee investigating the woodpulp and paper question will complete its labors in time to pass a bill which will suspend the paper and pulp duty for a year.

This will be done to determine whether the removal of the tariff would reduce the cost of paper.

—asy.

In the grocery division of a big department store in Cleveland not long ago a young woman was conducting an exhibit demonstrating the value of a new preparation of wheat. On the counter in front of her were many little plates. These she filled from time to time with freshly cooked samples that were passed out free to customers who desired to test them.

One such, a lean, dyspeptic looking woman, consumed her dish with evident relish, and the young woman, confident of making a sale, addressed her with a most engaging smile.

"How do you like our new breakfast food?" she asked. "It's only ten cents a package."

"It's all right," replied the lean woman, setting down the dish, "but the fact is that I never eat any breakfast."—Harper's Weekly.

Natural Proofs.

"It is impossible for animals to reason. For one thing, you never heard of any of the lower creation having even the rudiments of mathematics."

"I don't know about that. Everybody knows that rabbits, for instance, multiply rapidly; that there are snakes which are natural adders, and that some animals, like the giraffe and the boa constrictors, are in nature's long division class."

Russian Hebrews Particular to the Letter of Their Faith.

"Charity work among the Russian and Polish Hebrews has some very peculiar features," says a lady prominently identified with one of the leading Jewish charitable associations of St. Louis.

"The Russian Jews are all of the orthodox faith, and have many usages that to other Jewish people seem strange, sometimes unreasonable. For instance, the law of Moses says: 'Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk,' and from this command, which was probably intended to emphasize the sentiment of mercy, the orthodox rabbis drew a long string of conclusions, which, in substance, amounted to this, that milk or anything made with milk, ought not to be eaten at the same time with meat or anything made of meat, and also that cooking utensils, plates, dishes, even knives, forks and spoons used for meat, should not be used for anything made with milk.

"So we are compelled in the charity missions where the children of these orthodox Hebrews are fed as well as taught, to have two sets of cooking utensils, of dishes, plates, cup and saucers, even of spoons, in order to conciliate the foreigners and induce them to permit their children to attend. So firmly fixed are they in this idea about the milk and meat, that not a Russian Hebrew would allow his children to come near the mission unless he was assured that the law would not be violated."

DR. MUND & COMPANY Specialists

Treat and Cure Diseases of Both Sex

Diseases incident to maternity, falling of the womb, nervous prostration, unnatural discharges and all diseases which tend to undermine the health of women successfully treated. We guarantee results and consultation is free.

Diseases of Men

Permit us to say that most men suffer from vital drains upon their nervous system through physicological defects or impairments of their genital organs, which defects can only be determined from an examination and diagnosis by competent specialists. These examinations are free and every individual owes it to himself to grasp this opportunity.

In case a patient cannot afford to pay the entire fee of a cure at one time we cheerfully arrange for convenient weekly or monthly installments. The man of ordinary means can avail himself of our expert treatment and we give him the same care, attention and courteous consideration as we do those who are more fortunate and able to pay all at the beginning.

HAWKSHAWS ON GUARD

O'er Guests Who Dined in New York on Plates of Gold.

New York, April 30.—Imagine, if you can, a score of Tammany henchmen and a score of the leading members of the Philadelphia political ring dining from gold plates, with gold knives and forks, gold goblets, gold salt cellars and pepper boxes, gold spoons and gold cups and saucers.

Carry your imagination further, even to superhuman lengths, and try to convince yourself that when the gold plate and other gold trimmings were checked up after the feast nothing was missing, not even a spoon.

It was even so at the Knickerbocker Tuesday night, when Max D. Steuer, the Tammany lawyer, officiated as host to such a dinner party. The guests were Philadelphia politicians who were kind to the members of the board of aldermen of New York on the occasion of their baseball invasion of the Pennsylvania metropolis a year ago.

True, there was a detective on duty for every guest, but it was not found necessary at the close of the festivities to "frisk" a single man. It is denied most positively that the guests were hypnotized before the banquet and went through the feed under the impression that they were dining from china.

The dinner cost $125 a plate and was served on the Knickerbocker $50,000 gold service. At frequent intervals during the spread the Philadelphia guests got up and sang their anthem:

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here;
What the yell do we care,
What the yell do we care!"

At such times the detectives became alert.

AFTER WILDCAT OUTFITS

Faker Found Ready Patronage From a Cullible Public.

Chicago, April 30.—As a result of the failure and flight of Wallace H. Hopkins, a broker, charged with embezzling thousands of dollars from poor investors, the United States district Attorney's office began yesterday an investigation of 100 or more "wildcat" companies.

At least a dozen bogus corporations will receive a thorough overhauling before the next federal grand jury, which meets the middle of May. Sufficient evidence has been secured it is declared, to cause the indictment of the officials of most of the corporations suspected of using the mails to defraud.

The Hopkins company, which was being investigated by Postoffice Inspector Ketcham at the time of the failure, is said to have been a mail order "bucket shop." The alleged fraudulent operations of Hopkins will be the first brought to the attention of the grand jury.

The other companies under investigation have been flooding the mails with mining and other stock jobbing literature. The concerns made glowing promises to prospective investors, and more than $1,000,000 is declared to have been received through the mails by the "fake" promoters.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Lion and the Mouse."

"The Lion and the Mouse," which Henry B. Harris will offer at the Sedalia theater Saturday and Sunday night, is a play that pleases all classes of theatergoers. Although the chief interest in its story deals with the upper class of Americans, Charles Klein has handled the subject in such an unusually clever manner the social and financial episodes in the lives of the moneyed element is made vitally interesting to the common people. The play is very simple in construction, but it is intensely human, thoroughly American and has appealed to the popular taste as the very best example of the long looked for "great American drama." Mr. Harris' company is rapidly nearing this city and the engagement here already gives assurance of record-breaking attendance.

Mrs. Leslie-Carter in "Du Barry."

What will prove the dramatic treat of the season is the appearance here of Mrs. Leslie-Carter in David Belasco's play, "Du Barry," on Monday night, May 4, at the Sedalia theater. Mrs. Carter's triumph in this play was one of the most interesting events of the modern stage. There is no other play which has, in recent times, approached it for bigness of story, for a wonderfully deviced succession of thrilling and surprising climaxes. Only an actress of tremendous dramatic powers could have succeeded in this extraordinary role. It required an actress who could impersonate Zaza to play Du Barry. Mrs. Carter has temperament joined to the finest histrionic talent that the modern stage has known. These roles, and more especially Du Barry, are great in her hands, for the reason that she is a great dramatic artist. Indeed, the appearance of this most famous emotional actress is an event of the first magnitude.

"FREAK" LAWS IN TEXAS

STATE VICTIM OF FOUL LEGISLATION, SAYS PULLMAN TRAVELER.

MEASURES THAT ARE REAL CRANKY

Drink of Whisky on Train Violation of Statute, but Man Takes a Chance for Consumptive by Offering Bottle.

Baltimore, April 30.—"Texas is a great state, and numbers many good people among its 4,000,000 inhabitants, but, judging from some of my experiences in a late visit, I should say the big Lone Star commonwealth was a victim of a good deal of fool legislation," said Mr. W. M. Darnett, of San Francisco.

"Coming out of El Paso, the conductor came through the train and warned the passengers that it was a violation of the Texas law for anyone to take a drink of wine or other liquor from a private bottle, and that whoever did so was liable to a fine of $200 and three months in jail.

"On the same Pullman I occupied was a consumptive invalid that was going back to his old home in the east to die. The sick man had an attack which caused him to collapse, and his nurse rushed terrified through the car, begging someone for a stimulant. I told the conductor that I'd take a chance on breaking the law, and handed my bottle to the nurse, who bestowed a hearty blessing, while the conductor, a humane man, turned his back on the scene.

"Another ridiculous statute requires the stoppage of any passenger train that is an hour late. It is then detained for the next twenty-four hours and a new train is ordered out from the next station ahead. By reason of this brilliant piece of legislation the fast train I was on was held two and one-half hours in one town because the company, to avoid being late, had lengthened its schedules.

"Such laws would seem to indicate an excess of granger representation in a state that is in most respects thoroughly modern and progressive."

REAL TRUTH ABOUT LAZINESS.

Mistake to Consider It a Sign of Mental Inferiority.

Laziness is no sign of mental inferiority, according to Rev. Dr. Merle St. Croix Wright. He talked about the so-called inferior races before the League for Political Education at New York, and endeavored to show that their inferiority was not yet proved.

"It is true they do not wish to work," he admitted, "but who does? Do you? If you could lie under a banana tree all day, and eat part of the leaf and fan yourself with the other, do you think you would choose to do anything else? That is the religious paradise, as many have described it."

It is only recently, Dr. Wright further remarked, that the white man has been any different from the lower races in the matter of work. Not so long ago work was considered disgraceful rather than meritorious, and Europeans who attempted to found colonies in the new world actually died rather than scratch the ground or do any of the fundamentally necessary things of life.

"We have been in the habit of thinking that the lower races are not even candidates for humanity," said Dr. Wright, "but the last word of science on that subject has not been spoken."

LION AFRAID OF BOARHOUND.

Tamers Use Big Dogs to Keep Unruly Charges in Subjection.

The boarhound growled, and the great yellow lion leaped back in fear.

"The lion could kill the hound," the trainer said, "but he doesn't think so. He thinks the hound could easily kill him."

"Why?"

"When the lion was a cub, this boarhound, full-grown, lived in the cage with him. The big dog could, of course, lick the little cub, and the cub therefore feared and respected him. Now the cub is grown up, but he still thinks the hound is the better man.

"We rear a cub with a full-grown hound in this way for a reason. The hound is a protection to us trainers afterward, when the cub is grown; for then, should he become rambunctious, one look from the dog will send him, subdued and ashamed, slinking off to the cage's farthest corner."

Senator Stone of Missouri, once made himself unpopular with a certain photographer. The latter individual appeared at the senator's room at the capitol, and announced that he was there to take a picture. Stone expostulated, but in vain. A few days later the photographer again appeared and presented the pictures and also a bill for $10.

Remembering how hopeless was his argument against having the pictures taken, Senator Stone decided it would be still more useless for him to decline to pay for them. So he wrote a check. After the man's name was on the check he wrote the word "Photografter."

When the man presented the check at the senate disbursing office for payment he was required to indorse the check and write after his name, just as it was written on the face of the check the word "Photo-grafter."—St. Louis Republic.

SENT A PINK MESSAGE

Report That Young Fish Has Eloped With Miss Harriman.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 30.—A pink message out of New York from the father of Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., has been received by railroad officials here asking the whereabouts of his son, who has suddenly disappeared and is supposed to be in Texas.

Rumors are circulated in this section to the effect that the multimillionaire's son has eloped with the daughter of E. H. Harriman.

Stuyvesant Fish, jr., who is just 23, came into national prominence six months ago by deciding to learn the railroad business. He began on the bottom rung of the ladder in the offices of a railroad in Oklahoma.

Reports from his new field of labor showed that he was proving a success in his new field. But now there is a vacant desk in the Frisco railroad office at Muskogee, Okla., and a missing young man, whose fond father is anxious to locate him.

A later message from New York reports Stuyvesant Fish, sr., as saying over the long distance telephone that his son was "neither missing nor married."

Last of Famous Corps.

A pathetic, almost historic, little function was held in Paris recently, when, probably for the last time, the few survivors of the famous old "Cent Gardes" met at luncheon. The "Hundred Guards," whose number was much larger than their name implies, formed the personal bodyguard of Emperor Napoleon III. Every man among them had to be over five feet 11 inches in height and broad in proportion. Most of the survivors are well over six feet. To-day there are but 80 still alive, and of the 80 not more than 28 are free from the infirmities of old age. The youngest is M. Boutin, inspector general of the principality of Monaco, who is 58.

"No," answered Mr. Dustin Stax "it's the measure of the community's value to him."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum "it is mighty interesting. But between you and me it isn't near as much of an investment as it used to be."—Washington Star.

QUITS GIRLS WHO BAR PANTS

Pupils Won't Wear Boys' Clothes: Teacher Resigns.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 30.—Miss Lillie Condra has resigned from the public school of this city, culminating an interesting series of sensations in school circles

Miss Condra was coaching her pupils for a play to be given at commencement and found she needed two boys for parts. She could only find two young ladies that were eligible. She requested them to don masculine attire, but the two objected strenuously.

The matter was discussed before the class. All the girls objected, but the boys were willing. Miss Condra pressed the point and as a result revolted.

The teacher had been an instructor in the local schools for more than ten years, and this is her first trouble. General regret is expressed, but the anti-pantaloons rebellion will probably result in her permanent retirement.

ST. LOUIS FAIR GROUNDS SOLD

Abolition of Race Track Gambling Eliminates Course.

St. Louis, April 30.—The old St. Louis fair grounds, at Grand avenue and Natural Bridge road, which have been practically abandoned since the abolition of race track gambling in Missouri, will be divided into building lots as the result of a real estate deal.

The fair grounds, comprising 160 acres, were traded by a syndicate, composed of Louis A. Cella, the horseman, and others, as part payment for the fifteen-story Missouri-Lincoln Trust building at Seventh and Olive streets.

The price of the building was $1,650,000, and the fair grounds represented $1,000,000 in the deal.

"HUMOR" TRAPS A THIEF

AN ATTEMPT TO "SHOW OFF" RESULTS IN ARREST IN SHORT ORDER.

AN INCIDENT AT CINCINNATI, OHIO

After Stealing Rig, Man Drives to Workhouse With Story of Wealthy Relative, Etc., But is Arrested at Once.

Cincinnati, O., April 30.—James Howard has a well-developed sense of humor, but a lack of judgment in keeping out of trouble, as it would appear from his escapades of Tuesday afternoon. Howard has been out of the workhouse only a few days, after serving a sentence for petty theft.

Wednesday afternoon he drove up to the front of the workhouse in a stylish rig and prancing horses. He was dressed in a new suit and hat, and when he had tied his horses and stepped into the reception hall of "the works" Howard was in a merry mood.

"Pretty fine rig out there?" he queried. "Nothing like having well-to-do relatives. Belongs to my brother, and I'm just giving the pony some steps out the road. I am having the time of my life now, and I thought I would just drop in and see how the old place looks."

Howard prattled along glibly, but the talk didn't go with Superintendent Bader. Detective Lieutenant Poppe said quickly enough the police had been looking for a rig that was stolen from Sixth and Central avenues. A description of Howard's buggy tallied exactly with the missing rig.

Lieutenant Copelan, of the Tenth district police station, sent an officer over to the workhouse, and Howard was still discoursing on the merits of his "brother's" horse when the officer walked in on him and placed him under arrest.

DOG MAY SAVE HER REASON

Recovery of Poodle Sought for Crippled Girl.

Chicago, April 30.—On the recovery of a lost French poodle may depend the sanity of Elizabeth Loeper, 6 years old, crippled daughter of Fred Loeper, No. 245 La Salle avenue.

Doctors believe the little girl who lost her mind as the result of an operation for congenital hip disease, may regain her reason if Shoe Button, the little dog that has been her companion since babyhood, is restored to her.

The child's mother believes she has found the dog. But its ownership is disputed by Mrs. Thomas Meagher, a restaurant keeper. The legal battle for possession of the canine is being contested in Municipal Judge Fake's court.

When the little cripple was carried into court yesterday she called, "Shoe Button, my Shoe Button," gleefully, as she spied the animated bundle of white hair on the judge's desk.

The dog sprang to the floor. Wagging its tail and barking with every demonstration of delight, it scampered about the little girl.

Despite this apparent mutual recognition, Judge Fake decided the evidence was not conclusive.

TRIES TO TELL SECRET; DIES

Waukegan Man Expires With Place of Wealth a Mystery.

Waukegan, Ill., April 30.—After trying several days to tell his wife the name of the coffee plantation company in which he had invested considerable money, and also where he had hidden what savings he had not invested, P. S. Williams died yesterday.

Williams never told his wife what he did with his savings, hence, when he was stricken a few days ago, every effort was made by Williams to divulge his secret. A clairvoyant was tried, but failed to bring out the facts.

Had 175 Guests at Social.

One hundred and seventy-five people attended the "sunbonnet" social given by the Woodmen of the World at the Odd Fellows' hall last night. Brandt's orchestra furnished the music and a select program, heretofore printed in the Democrat-Sentinel, was carried out. Dancing assisted in entertaining the guests, and ice cream and cake were served.

More Marriages in England.

Many interesting details as to the marriages which took place in England and Wales during 1906 are given in the registrar-general's detailed report for that year. There were more of them than in the previous year, but the increase was not conspicuous in the case of widowers, while there was no increase at all in that of widows. As already recorded, the birth rate was abnormally low, while the death rate was higher for the year.

The marriage rate shows an increase of 0.3 over 1905, but was 0.2 below the average for the ten years, 1896-1905.

The birth rate was the lowest ever recorded, being 0.1 less than in 1905, and 1.6 lower than the decennial average.

Squaring Himself.

The distiller who had made his fortune in the inland town had just moved to the big city.

A Half Truth.

"The heroine let her beautiful hair fall about her shoulders," wrote the novelist. Being an idealist he neglected to state that the fastenings came loose and that the hair fell in a heap on the floor.

CHURCH TO BE FOR CHILDREN

Grown-Ups Will Have No Choice in Administration of Institution.

Chicago, April 30.—The First Children's church, a church to be devoted entirely to children, will be dedicated in Chicago tonight, when 150 children will attend the first services.

Grown-ups will have nothing to say about the church, and the whole aim is to make it attractive to little ones. There will be no sermons—just little stories about the people the Bible tells about. William Filline, a printer, and a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, and Bernard Bronseth will have charge of the church.

NEHEMGAR CLUB TONIGHT

President McAfee, of Park College, Is to Read a Paper.

At tonight's meeting of the Nehemgar club, President Lowell McAfee, of Park college, will present a paper on the important subject "The Various Characteristics of the Schools of Medicine."

President McAfee has been at the head of Park college for a number of years, where he is doing a work in education which is unique and great. Park is one of the strong colleges of the west educationally, and carries the industrial or self-help feature farther than any other institution in this part of the country.

Dr. McAfee is a strong writer, a good thinker and is clear and forceful in delivery, and a treat is in store for the members of the club.

At tonight's meeting a vote will be taken on the manner of meeting suggested by the executive committee for the closing of the year, May 14.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Several changes will take place in the operating and traffic departments of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain on May 1.

H. G. Clark is appointed superintendent of the Colorado division, with headquarters at Pueblo.

J. E. Snedeker is appointed superintendent of the Central Kansas division, with headquarters at Osawotomie, in place of H. G. Clark, transferred to Colorado.

P. A. Buck is appointed superintendent of the Southern Kansas division, with headquarters at Coffeyville, in place of J. E. Snedeker, transferred.

W. E. Merrifield is appointed superintendent of the Illinois division, with headquarters at Chester, in place of P. A. Buck, transferred.

D. H. Robinson is appointed trainmaster of the Northern Kansas division in place of W. E. Merrifield, promoted.

In the traffic department the following appointments are announced:

L. D. Knowles, general agent, with headquarters at Denver, vice M. C. Post, resigned.

R. P. Isitt, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Kansas City.

R. Meyer, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Cincinnati.

C. H. Jackson, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Memphis.

A. R. Malcolm, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Milwaukee.

J. J. Kavanaugh, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Monroe, La., vice J. W. Hadley, resigned.

H. J. Owens, commercial freight agent, with headquarters at Dallas, Tex.

A Sedalian in Denison.

C. E. Whitney, general chairman of the O. R. C., on the M., K. & T., is in the city today after a trip to Greenville, Dallas and other points in Texas, says Wednesday's Denison Herald.

Mr. Whitney will be here for a day or two, after which he will return to Lallas for a conference with T. S. McDowell, general superintendent of the Katy in Texas, and A. D. Bethard, assistant general manager of the Katy system.

Katy Shops Reopen Tomorrow.

Master Carbuilder W. A. Mitchell, of the M., K. & T., returned last evening from a business visit at St. Louis and Mattoon, Ill.

The shops will reopen tomorrow, after having been closed for a week.

William O'Herin, superintendent of motive power and equipment for the company, who visited the local shops yesterday, returned to Parsons, Kas., his headquarters, last night on train No. 1.

No Shop News in Sight.

Lou Kahrs, a Missouri Pacific boilermaker, left this morning for Parsons, Kas., to accept employment with the M., K. & T.

There is no information as to when the Missouri Pacific shops, which have been closed since February 20, will reopen, but the belief is growing that it will not be until after the close of the present fiscal year, which is June 30.

Came in on the "Dot."

Missouri Pacific engine No. 5510, which brought No. 2 here yesterday, after breaking an injecter pipe, was sent out on No. 11 this morning and brought No. 2 here today exactly on the "dot."

Engine No. 7516, which "went dead" on No. 22 yesterday, was sent out on No. 21 today, the engine's regular run.

Called to St. Louis.

H. L. Turton, foreman of the Missouri Pacific roundhouse, was called to St. Louis today to confer with company officials. What's up?

Hospital Arrivals.

Following are new arrivals at the Katy hospital:

John Hawkins, bridgeman, LaGrange, Texas.

J. T. Gaines, coal heaver, Franklin Junction, Mo.

Automatic Couplers.

E. M. Dennis, Missouri Pacific trainmaster, and J. M. Chandler roadmaster, are attending to company business on the west end of the road today.

The Missouri Pacific pay car was taken to St. Louis on No. 4 last night.

A. Frakes, Katy roadmaster, went to Paola, Kan., today on company business.

Will Martin, a Missouri Pacific relief operator, returned this morning from Pleasant Hill.

George Young, a Missouri Pacific fireman, is acting as day hostler for the Missouri Pacific.

Joe Frick, a Missouri Pacific engineer, returned today from visiting his family at Kansas City.

Frank Robinson, a Missouri Pacific engine hostler helper, is contemplating an extended visit in the south.

J. C. Brown, a railway mail clerk, went to Kansas City this afternoon, after visiting his family in this city.

So far during the month of April, only eighteen Missouri Pacific employes have been treated at the Katy hospital.

Col. A. C. Miner, traveling passenger agent for the Katy, and D. Stoffel, claim agent, went north on train No. 2 today.

John M. Scott, representing the American Railway association, returned today from a business trip to Parsons, Kan.

Virgil Conner, a Katy train auditor, who has been visiting at points in the Lone Star state, arrived home this morning.

J. H. Holland, a Katy fireman, has "bumped" Fireman Tom Wilson from trains Nos. 3 and 4, between Sedalia and Parsons, Kan.

Superintendent N. J. Finney, of the Katy, went to Parsons last afternoon, in company with Messrs. Alvord and Bethard, who are making a special trip from St. Louis to Houston, Texas.

J. M. Patterson, a Missouri Pacific conductor, who is sojourning at Hot Springs, Ark., continues to improve each day, but he will likely remain at that resort during the summer months.

H. L. White, route agent for the Pacific Express Co., and H. E. Wasson, traveling accountant for the Missouri Pacific, went to Windsor on business today.

Rate Clerk Odell, of the M., K. & T., who has been laid up at his home with rheumatism, resumed work today, relieving Weiler Fleming, who has been filling the place.

Ollie McBride, a Missouri Pacific engineer out of Jefferson City; W. J. Whiprecht, a baggageman out of the same place; L. C. Marshall, assistant engineer in this city, and M. C. Burns, foreman of the water service of the company in this city, came on No. 1 this afternoon.

FOR FEAR THE DOCTOR KNEW

Cincinnati Man Kills Physician and Pleads Guilty to Crime.

Cincinnati, April 30.—Robert W. Gott pleaded guilty yesterday to the murder of Dr. Leo Danziger, a prominent physician, and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. Gott shot and killed Dr. Danziger three months ago during the doctor's visit to Anna Spangler, the 16-year-old niece of Gott.

It was the announced opinion of alienists that Gott killed the physician during an attack of temporary insanity caused by fears of what may have been told Dr. Danziger by the girl.

SOLD FARM FOR $144,000

Thomas B. Clement, of Sedalia, Paid That for Mastin Place.

Thomas B. Clement, of 1002 West Broadway, is written of as follows in today's Kansas City Times:

The largest farm property sale ever made in Jackson county was recorded yesterday. Captain R. F. Mastin sold his 1,440-acre farm two miles southeast of Grandview for $144,000. The purchaser was Thomas B. Clement, of Sedalia, Mo.

The sale was made through J. H. Lipscomb.

The Mastin farm is one of the largest in Jackson county. It is about seventeen miles south of Kansas City on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad. A station on the farm was built several years ago and a shipping point established to market the cattle and produce.

Mr. Mastin has lived on this farm for more than thirty-five years. His son, Herschel F. Mastin, has been reared here. They were partners in cattle raising and cattle feeding and much of the farm is in pasture and hay land. The residence on the farm, which was built in 1900, is the finest farmhouse in Jackson county. It is known as Mastin hall.

In 1902, while prospecting for gas, a very good quality of oil was struck on the farm at a depth of 500 feet. The yield for a time was about ten barrels a day. The new owner, however, says that he intends to use the land for fine stock raising.

GOOD MISSOURI FRUIT CROP

Favorable Reports to the State Board of Horticulture.

Springfield, Mo., April 30.— The fruit prospect in Missouri was good before last night's frost, according to reports received by George T. Tippin, secretary of the state board of agriculture, who has compiled the following report:

Northwest Missouri, apples, Ben Davis, 80 per cent of full crop; other varieties 90, peaches 90, pears 75, plums 50, pears 50, cherries 30.

Central section, Ben Davis 75, other varieties apples 95, peaches 75, plums 40, cherries 50, pears 50.

Southwest section, Ben Davis 50, other varieties 75, peaches 40, pears 25, plums 25, cherries 20, strawberries 90.

Southeast section, Ben Davis 70, other varieties apples 80, peaches 25, pears 10, plums 10, cherries 15.

The greatest damage from the freeze April 2 and 3 was from St. Louis southwest to Springfield and southeast from Springfield to West Plains. While the reports show only 25 per cent of peach buds in the large orchard sections of Koshkonong, yet if no further injury occurs there will be a very good crop. But little damage to apples from the freeze is reported.

The principal reason for Ben Davis making a lower showing than other varieties of apples is the light bloom on the younger orchards, especially in the Ozard region, but as many of the young orchards have never figured in the crop supply before, and the fact that most of the older orchards have a good set of fruit, the reports indicate a good average crop, even in those sections where the young trees have not set fruit. On the whole, prospects at present are for a good fruit crop in Missouri.

ATHLETIC SIOUX CHIEF

IS TO BECOME THE HUSBAND OF MISS HAZEL MORAN, OF ST. LOUIS.

SHE IS A "FOOTLIGHT FAVORITE"

The Red Man Is Known as "Standing Bear," and Made the Acquaintance of Bride-to-Be at the Worlds' Fair.

St. Louis, Mo., April 30.—Miss Hazel Moran, a St. Louis actress, who took part in the spectacular production, "Louisiana," at the Odeon during the world's fair, has been wooed and won by Henry Standing Bear, a Sioux chief and United States interpreter for the Ogalala Indians.

Press dispatches yesterday told of the approaching wedding. Standing Bear, it is reported, is now hastening to New York to claim his bride.

Standing Bear, an athletic Carlisle graduate, was in charge of a band of Sioux Indians at the world's fair, and met Miss Moran at that time. She is an expert horsewoman, and, on a dare, said she would ride one of the Indian ponies.

Standng Bear feared she would be hurt, and attempted to dissuade her, but could not. Miss Moran swung into the saddle and displayed ease and grace in managing the pony.

Standing Bear stood in astonishment and admiration. When Miss Moran dismounted he declared that no Indian girl of his tribe, although most of them spent half their lives in the saddle, could ride so well as she.

The acquaintance thus begun was broken off after the fair and Miss Moran had almost forgotten her Indian admirer, when he met her accidentally last winter at the Hippodrome in New York, where she was dancing.

Standing Bear hadn't forgotten and proposed marriage as soon as the acquaintance was renewed. Miss Moran accepted him.

DEACON IS INDICTED

As a Result of John E. Madden's Marital Troubles.

Lexington, Ky., April 30.—Enoch R. Megrue, of 167 West Ninety-second street, New York, brother of Mrs. L. V. Bell, formerly Mrs. John E. Madden, was indicted yesterday by the Fayette county grand jury on the charge of unlawfully converting to his use property not his own.

The indictment was secured at the behest of John E. Madden, who some two weeks ago voluntarily went before the grand jury and made the charge that Megrue, while in his employ as betting commissioner and paymaster at Hamburg place in 1904 had taken from him approximately $7,000 in money, jewelry, household goods vases and bric-a-brac. Just after the marriage of Mrs. Madden to L. V. Bell, in July, 1906, Madden brought suit against Megrue in the supreme court of New York, scheduling $6,751 in money he claims Megrue defrauded him of while acting as his betting commissioner, and $510 in jewelry and table linen.

A copy of the petition in this suit was put before the jury. Madden claims that Megrue, in the fall of 1904, sent Watchman Donnelly away from Hamburg place, and during his absence gutted the house, shipping the goods to Mrs. Madden.

Megrue is a deacon in the Reform church in New York.

THAW TRIP COST HIS LIFE

The Guard Who Took the Slayer to Matteawan Caught Cold.

New York, April 30.—Deputy Sheriff Joseph Bell, captain of the squad that takes prisoners to Sing Sing, is dead.

In eleven years he took 15,000 prisoners from the Tombs and delivered them in safety to the various penal institutions to which they had been sentenced. He had the reputation of never having lost a man.

It was Bell who took Harry K. Thaw to the asylum at Matteawan. Daniel O'Reilly, one of Thaw's council, said yesterday that Bell caught a severe cold while conducting Harry Thaw from Fishkill Landing to Matteawan and that he never recovered. The trip cost him his life.

Judge R. G. Leaming, whose opinions regarding the fruit crop are always considered among the best, says that last night's frost killed potatoes, tomatoes and grapes, and slightly damaged the strawberry crop. Late peaches were also damaged.

TRINITY'S RECTOR DEAD

End of the Rev. Morgan Dix at the Age of 81.

New York, April 30.—The Rev. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity Protestant Episcopal parish since 1862, died last night at Trinity rectory in West Twenty-fifth street. Death was due to heart disease, and followed a brief illness, which took a serious turn three days ago.

Dr. Dix was 81 years of age and was born in this city. He was ordained a priest by Bishop Potter at Philadelphia in 1852.

No Assessment for May.

There will be no assessment for the members of the Modern Woodmen of America for May.

Why Local Option Wins

In 1907 there were eighty-two dry cities in seventeen states, having a population of from 5,000 to 150,000 each. Today there are more than two hundred dry cities in twenty-seven states. Five of these cities have a population of 15 658.

The reason for these great gains is that taxpayers are getting their eyes open to the fact that the saloon takes too large a share in collecting taxes. Sedalia pays 40c more taxes on every $100 than dry Fulton.

Why not keep the $400,00 in Sedalia that goes to St. Louis and Milwaukee for beer, and pay off the $200,000 the taxpayer is paying interest on?

TO FIGHT 6 1-4 CENT FINE

Pittsburg Women Will Spend Thousands in Litigation.

Pittsburg, April 30.—Rather than acknowledge defeat by paying the 6¼ cents fine imposed upon them by a jury, three members of the Friday Afternoon club appeared in the superior court and gave notice of appeal. They will pay out thousands, if necessary, they say.

Mrs. Anna G. Kiefer, Mrs. Marie B. Kramer and Mrs. Anna E. Rafferty recently were convicted of conspiracy. Mrs. C. A. Green, who was also a member of the club, asserted they had conspired to hurt her social standing.

RIVAL CITIES COMPETE

SANTA CRUZ AND MONTEREY ARE TO ENTERTAIN THE PACIFIC FLEET.

EACH WILL SEEK TO OUTDO OTHER

A Glorious Windup at Santa Barbara Today, and Tomorrow Will Find the Mighty Ships Again Headed Northward.

San Francisco, April 30.—Officers and men of the Pacific fleet entered today upon the glorious windup of their entertainment by the people of Santa Barbara and tomorrow will find the mighty battleships again headed northward with the ports of Santa Cruz and Monterey as their objective points.

These are rival towns, and, as the ships of the fleet will be divided between them, each will seek to outdo the other in the lavishness of its celebration.

It was originally planned to have the entire fleet rendezvous at Santa Cruz, but the people of Monterey sent up such a cry and clamor that the navy department succumbed and ordered a division of the fleet.

This did not please the citizens of Santa Cruz, who desired to have the the whole show to themselves, but Monterey is jubilant and its business men are intent upon showing the rival city just how a battleship fleet should be entertained.

To a misinterpretation of some orders sent out from the navy department to Rear Admiral Evans seems to be due the controversy between Santa Cruz and Monterey.

On account of this misunderstanding it was originally decided that Santa Cruz should have the whole fleet, leaving Monterey in the cold. Thereupon Monterey citizens got busy.

They set forth that their town was entitled to as much consideration as Santa Cruz; that it was the first capital of the state and had many historical attractions for the men of the fleet; that with its own population and that immediately adjacent more residents would find it convenient to go to Monterey than to Santa Cruz, and that in any event Santa Cruz had not the necessary facilities to entertain all the fleet, either in its harbor or in its hotels.

Messages flew back and forth between Washington and the rival towns. Monterey put up a strong fight and gained its point. Hence each town will receive half the ships for the full period of the scheduled stay.

"STYLES" IN PARASOLS

MILADY OF FASHION IS GIVEN POINTERS BY ONE WHO IS AN AUTHORITY.

CATHERINE MANN-PAYZANT'S VIEWS

As in the Past, Every Lady Who Desires to Be Up-to-Date Will Have a Parasol to Match Each of Her Dresses.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, April 30.—In "the good old summertime," which is now rapidly approaching, milady of fashion will need a new stock of parasols to protect her delicate complexion from the torrid rays of Old Sol.

The New York shop keeper has had this idea in mind for some time, and the result is one of the most elaborate displays of sunshades that has ever been shown in this city. As in the past, the woman who desires to be "in style" will have a parasol to match every dress.

The distinctively new feature in parasols is the use of pongee, and very handsome they are as well as practical. In the natural colored material they can be used with a great number of costumes, and it is in the natural color that they are most often seen. Border effects, too, are singularly satisfactory in combination, and there are both lined and unlined sorts offered, so that there is ample opportunity for choice and a great many things are provided for in the one material.

There are a great many contrasting border effects and many of them are exceedingly beautiful, but there are also tucked borders and the plain coaching parasol is always in order for general use. For the carriage the simple sunshade of lace over white silk with the hinged handle will be exceedingly used, and no doubt its very general revival is in part due to the needs of the motor car, for it shades the eyes without becoming a toy for the wind, and it really provides all the protection that is needed, while its form is such that it is easily adjusted. But no one style of parasol can be said to prevail for the carriage any more than for the street. For lingerie costumes and those to which lingeries are suited, there are a whole host of exquisite things in linen that are embroidered and lace trimmed and that are just as dainty and fascinating as well can be.

White silk parasols will be seen both in the plain varieties and those that are painted or printed in lovely floral designs. There are those that have Dresden designs upon them, and lace insets that perfectly fit the sections as though they were made for them. Many of the new parasols are of light colored silks with tucked and bordered edges, which will be used at the seaside and summer resorts.

Among the host of sunshades were a number of dark greens, some of brown and ecru and even navy blue with printed borders, and some that looked as though they were cut from very wide ribbon with fancy borders. A favorite style seems to be a group of three tucks with a border above on the darker colored parasols.

Painting is always a favorite mode of decoration, but to be satisfactory it must be done very well. Great trailing branches of roses, Wisteria, a loose buch of violets or a number of lilacs, as though strewn across the sections, are much liked as designs.

Embroidery is another feature of decoration that is as much liked for parasols and sunshades as it is for gowns and dress accessories. There are beautifully embroidered Japanese styles, and all sorts of embroideries are used as well as the introduction of laces and woven insets.

Of course, there is the lace and chiffon parasols, which are used for very dressy functions and for carriage use. In contrast with these are those of cretonne, and it is said in Paris that they are quite the fad, while a few have been shown on this side of the water, but a whole parasol of cretonne is not to many minds an artistic effect.

Handles are of many kinds. For the plain coaching parasol, handsome wood is preferred to everything else, but there are to be noticed some extreme effects in the carvings, such as birds' heads, swans' necks and the heads of animals; but, after all, the simple, plain finished knob handle is liked best by women of good taste. For the more elaborate parasols of lace, embroidered borders, painted or printed effects, long handles of delicately tinted wood that resembles enamel, topped with a gold or gold inset, with a jewel at the end, are much favored. Some handles are shown of bone, with fine carvings upon them, especially those of ivory.

LADIES DELIGHTED

With the interesting and instructive heart-to-heart talks on the "Universal" Bread Maker. Let everybody come and get a booklet of recipes and one of the delicious little loaves as a souvenir.

You will never believe how easily the "Universal" operates or how nicely it cleans up until you see it demonstrated, either at the store or in your own kitchen.

No. 2—Smallest Family Size—$1.35.

The hands do not touch the dough. Think what that means from every point of view. No pans, bread boards, crocks and fingers to wash up—only the pail itself. Everything tidy and the bread as good as can be.

The peculiar shape of the "Universal" kneading rod enables air to be worked into the dough making it lighter than would be the case by hand. Besides no flour has to be used as by hand, for the dough does not stick to the sides of the machine any way.

After a trial or two you can get the dough just stiff enough to turn easily and yet come out nicely when ready for the bread pans, it should lift right out as seen in the illustration. Family size, $2.00.

WATER COLOR EXHIBITION

Exhibits Such as New York Has Never Known Before.

New York, April 30.—A season of art exhibits such as New York has never before known will be brought to a close with the annual showing of the American Water Color society, opened today.

The most important show of the season—that of the works of the late Augustus St. Gaudens, at the Metropolitan Museum—will close tomorrow.

CO-HEIR OUTLIVES PET DOG

Residence Awarded to Man After Canine's Death.

Helena, Mont., April 30.—Through a decision rendered by District Judge J. C. Clements, G. D. Beattie, a city alderman, named as co-heir with a pet dog, in the will of Mrs. Mary A. Pryse, who died last February, becomes the sole heir of the pet dog, and thereby inherits a valuable residence in this city.

The dog died on February 9, shortly after the death of Mrs. Pryse.

Congressman Calls Prohibition a Devilish Device.

Washington April 30.—Congressman Bartholdt, who appeared before the District of Columbia committee in the house yesterday at a hearing on the Sims bill for absolute prohibition in the District, declared "prohibition is a devilish device to nail the human family more securely to the cross of King Alcohol."

His talk to the committee was on "Professional Prohibitionists," and he said in plain words what he thought of them. He said that some of them "throve by their agitations," they were all trying to destroy the constitutional liberties and rights of the people of the United States.

While Mr. Bartholdt was addressing the District committee, he received word that the judiciary committee was ready for another installment of his speech against the Littlefield bill to give states control of shipments of intoxicating liquors after they enter the state. He was unable to comply, but will appear next week.

TRIANGULAR DUEL; ONE DYING

Memphis Crowd Sees Shooting in Front of Theater.

Memphis, Tenn., April 30.—William Harwood lies at the point of death at St. Joseph's hospital with three pistol wounds in his body as the result of a three-handed duel in the heart of the business district of this city at 6 o'clock last evening. J. E. Palmer, his friend, is lodged in the police station. John Maregrum, Harwood's assailant, is sought by the police.

Harwood and Margerum were proprietors of a 10-cent theater. They met in the vestibule of the theater and after a few words pulled their revolvers. Palmer and Harwood emptied their firearms at Margerum, but without effect.

The shooting occurred while the street in front of the theater was thronged with people. During the shooting Patrolman Chamberland fired his revolver at Palmer to stop him.

TO PLAN HUGHES' CAMPAIGN

Began a Conference at Manhattan Hotel This Morning.

New York, April 30.—For the purpose of outlining a plan of campaign to secure the nomination of Hughes for president, New York delegates began a conference this morning at the Manhattan hotel. The conference will probably last through tomorrow and a well-defined program will be mapped out.

The conference was called by General Stewart L. Woodford, president of the National Hughes League. It is reported that many of the New York delegates are only half-hearted in their support of Hughes and the friends of the governor hope to stimulate the wavering allegience and arouse activity and enthusiasm in the ranks of New York republicans.

THE OLDEST PAPER QUITS

Issued Today What Will Likely Be the Last Number.

Pekin, China, April 30.—The Pekin Gazette, the oldest newspaper in the world, issued today what will probably be its last number.

It will be succeeded by the Government Gazette, which will be larger and more modern in appearance and will be the official organ of the Chinese government.

The Pekin Gazette was established in 911 A. D. and had a large circulation at a time when Anglo-Saxons were little more than barbarians and America was inhabited only by savages.

GOOD BLOOD

NATURE'S PROTECTION AGAINST DISEASE

The preservation of health and prevention against disease is almost entirely dependent upon pure, healthy blood; every organ, tissue, nerve and sinew of the body draws on this vital fluid for nourishment and strength. Poisons, humors and germs from various sources often get into the blood, and then this great life-stream becomes a source of infection and disease, instead of a nourishing, health-sustaining fluid. Heredity is likewise an important factor, regulating the quality of the blood. Some persons are born with tainted blood from diseased ancestry, and Scrofula in one of its numerous forms is sure to crop out some time in life. Not only poisons in the blood are responsible for disease, but when the circulation is run down and becomes poor and weak in quality, then we see the effect in a general bad condition of health, such as weakness, sallow complexions, boils, and various skin eruptions. All blood troubles require a tonic and blood purifier, and none other equals S. S. S. It goes down to the very foundation of the trouble, and removes every particle of the poison or impurity from the blood. And not only does S. S. S. antidote the poisons, humors and germs, but it possesses health-giving, tonic properties, which build up and strengthen weak, impoverished blood, and fortifies the system against disease. S. S. S. permanently cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers. Scrofula, Eczema, Tetter, and all other skin diseases and disorders. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

PROBLEMS THAT PUZZLE

SOME QUESTIONS THAT WILL CERTAINLY CATCH THE "UNWARY."

ONE FOR THE BIGHSEL BROTHERS

Jake Brandt Will Read the List With Much Interest, but Will Be Glad That the Answer Is Given in Each Instance.

Suppose that a horse and a cow are both reclining on the ground in different parts of a field twice as long as it is broad. What would be the difference in their manner of rising? Try this on some of your farmer friends and observe whether the smartest among them—the man who, so to speak, could tell with his eyes shut how many beans make five—will reply without hesitation that even if the field be fifty times as long as it is broad, the horse will invariably use its front legs first and the cow its hind legs when they determine to get up. Neither the horse nor the cow cares a dump what the shape of the field is, says Gateway Magazine.

There will be less excuse, however, for the farmer succumbing to the foregoing trick question than there will be if the village watchmaker falls into the following trap: Tell him that recently you ordered a watch chain, but owing to some misunderstanding, the jeweler furnished not a complete chain, but six small pieces containing four links in each. It is your desire to have the pieces made into a complete chain, and if he will undertake to do this you are ready to pay him for his trouble at the rate of a dollar for each link he closes. If he agrees to these terms, ask him what his total charge will be.

The chances are that he will promptly reply, "Ten dollars," pointing out to you that to join the sections together he will have to open and close five links. "Not at all," you answer him. "If I pay you at the proposed rate I shall only have to give you $3."

Should he dispute this, you may then proceed to show him that if he takes one of the sections and opens up the four links of which it is formed these will suffice to join up the remaining five sections into one chain. He will, of course, have to admit that you are right, but may try to shuffle out of the situation by saying that he did not quite understand the question. Should he do so offer to put his ability to the test in another way. Say that you were once acquainted with a tramp who had a brother, a member of the same honorable corporation. The latter died in a hospital, and on his deathbed he stoutly maintained that he had never had a brother—an assertion which it was proved was quite true. How was the dying man's statement to be reconciled with the fact, for which you can yourself vouch, that the tramp you knew really had a brother? This is pretty certain to puzzle him, at any rate at first, but a little reflection would probably put him on the right track, so you had better, if you wish to deprive him of the satisfaction of answering correctly, not allow too long an interval to elapse without telling him that your tramp was a woman.

Many of such questions must similarly be promptly replied to, if they are to draw from your victim, as, of course, you hope, the wrong answer. Among such is the catch question: "Who killed Cain?" To which the unwary listener is very apt to reply "Abel." Here is another of the same family: "Noah had three sons, Shem, Ham and Japhet. Who was their father?" It is astonishing how many clever people will fail to give an immediate answer to the last simple question, if it be enunciated quickly and seriously enough.

Almost equally well known is the doggerel supposed to be uttered by a man looking at a family portrait:

"Sisters and brothers have I none,
But this man's father was my father's son."

Though this catch, in one form or another, is probably coeval with the birth of language, every successive generation finds it a hard nut to crack. Hardly anybody to whom the question is addressed for the first time immediately perceives that the original of the portrait can be no other than the speaker's son.

Here is a question that will tax the arithmetical powers of a youth: Suppose that for some reason or another a shop keeper who sold goods by pounds and by half pounds, but never in quantities exceeding twenty pounds at a time, was told that he must transact all his business with four weights only, what must these four weights be? The answer is, half pound, one and a half pound, four and a half pound and thirteen and a half pound. With these it will be readily seen that any weight from one half pound to twenty pounds may be determined in pounds and half pounds.

Tell the unfortunate boy that you will now ask him a very simple arithmetical question as a little relief. It concerns apples—at any rate, you may make it concern apples, as most youngsters of predatory proclivities have a great affection for this particular fruit. Let him imagine that he and a friend have successfully raided an orchard and got away with a certain amount of spoil. He has secured four apples, his friend seven. A third boy then joins them and suggests that they then and there devour the apples, sharing them equally between the three, he agreeing to pay for his part. The bargain is soon struck and the indigestible feast begun and ended within a few minutes. The stranger is as good as his word and hands over 11 cents as his contribution, leaving the purveyors of the apples to divide the money as they think best. How ought the division to be made in justice? Your victim will be much astonished if you tell him that only 1 cent should go to him, while his friend pockets 10 cents. Yet this is the fair division, strange as it may seem at first sight. The explanation is simple: That is to say, the boy who has four apples eats them all himself, with the exception of one-third of an apple, which is his whole contribution toward the stranger's share, the rest of which comes from the boy who had seven apples.

If you wish to discover how much the youth knows about natural science, as it is termed, you can hardly do better than put to him some such question as the following: Three soldiers have a heated argument as to which of them may rightly claim to have had first intimation of the discharge of a canon in one of the enemy's batteries.

The first soldier bases his claim to priority on the fact that he actually saw the shell strike the ground a comparatively short distance from the spot on which he was standing; the second soldier admits that he did not see the shell, but claims he saw the flash when the gun was discharged; the third soldier saw neither the flash of the discharge nor the shell itself, but was almost deafened by the report. Which of the three men may be said to have been first aware of the occurrence?

In this question there is no "catch" whatever in the ordinary sense of the word. The correct answer depends exclusively on a correct knowledge of the relative speed of light, sound, and, since light travels infinitely faster than sound, or than the rate at which the shell traverses the air, there can be no manner of doubt that the man who saw the flash had the first intimation of the discharge.

A dispute might possibly arise among the other two men for the honor of second place. This would have to be decided by their proximity to the gun. The report is described as having almost deafened one of them. The gun, therefore, must have been at no very great distance, and as the velocity of a shell in the first part of its flight is far in excess of the rate at which sound travels, the man who saw the projectile strike the ground may rightly claim to have known of the discharge before his comrade, who heard the loud report.

Here is a question to provoke a smile: If five greyhounds can run down and catch five hares in five minutes, how many greyhounds would be necessary to run down and catch twenty hares in twenty minutes? "Twenty greyhounds," you say. No! The same five greyhounds that ran down the first five hares!

Now to finish: Which would the reader prefer to have, or is it a matter of indifference to him? Six dozen dozen dollars or half a dozen dozen? You don't care, you say. And yet, if you had not been so quick to answer you would have seen that in one case you would get $988 and in the other $72 only.

EDUCATORS IN SESSION

THE 23D ANNUAL CONVENTION OF MISSISSIPPI TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

NEARLY 2,000 IN JACKSON TODAY

Georgia Educational Association to Open Its Annual Meeting in Augusta Tonight—Attendance Quite Large.

Jackson, Miss., April 30.—It is estimated that nearly 2,000 teachers are in Jackson this afternoon for the twenty-third annual convention of the Mississippi Teachers' association, which will open this evening at the Century theater, and more are expected before the real work of the meeting is commenced.

Department meetings will be held tomorrow morning, and additional general sessions will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening and Saturday. The program provides for addresses and papers by the leading educators of the state.

Much critical comment is indulged in by the teachers because of the failure of the state legislature to make an appropriation for the establishment of a normal and training school for teachers.

Augusta, Ga. April 30.—Pedagogues from every city and county of Georgia are the guests of the teachers and citizens of Augusta today and will take part in the annual meeting of the Georgia Educational association, opening this evening.

All phases of educational endeavor, including physical culture, manual training, discipline, teachers' salaries and kindergarten work, will be considered during the sessions this evening, tomorrow and Saturday.

Prof. Lawton B. Evans, of this city, is president of the association and will preside at the sessions.

MAINE G. O. P. CONVENTION

Fifth District Delegates in Session at Portland.

Portland, Me., April 30.—Four state delegates at large and two delegates from the First district will be selected by the republican convention which was called to order here early this afternoon.

The only important controversy is between those desiring to pledge the delegates to Taft, and those who demand an uninstructed delegation to represent Maine at Chicago.

A Common Mistake.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The Great Restorative

Non-Alcoholic Tonic

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition.

There are no secrets---all its ingredients being printed on the bottle-wrappers.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only builds up the strength of the feeble, debilitated, languid, nervous and easily fatigued, whether young or aged, but it enriches and purifies the blood, thus making the improvement lasting.

It corrects and overcomes indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, torpid liver, chronic diarrhea and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bronchial, throat and laryngeal affections, attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, and all manner of catarrhal affections are cured by the "Golden Medical Discovery."

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. The Salve can be had of druggists, or will be sent by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to cover cost of mailing) for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

The "W. F. M. S." to Meet.

The W. F. M. S. of the Fifth Street M. E. church, South, will hold a meeting at the church at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon instead of 3 o'clock, as originally announced. Important reports will be presented and a full attendance is desired.

USURPS PLACE OF THE STORK.

Buzzard Is Revered by Inhabitants of Pennsylvania Town.

Rather than bring about an epidemic of race suicide in East Nottingham township by keeping imprisoned the famous belled buzzard which acts in the capacity of the legendary stork for that community, Samuel Winchester, who captured the bird a few days ago, has decided to set it free, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Record.

Great numbers of persons have flocked to see the big bird, and its capture aroused great interest throughout the entire township. The buzzard is an unusually large one and is somewhat differently colored from others of its species. It has for years been recognized by a sleigh bell wired to its leg.

For nearly a quarter of a century its hovering over a farmhouse has been regarded as an infallible sign that there was to be an addition to the family. Mothers instead of telling their children of the stork's visit informed them that the belled buzzard was the bearer of the little one. People have been trying to capture it for years, but no one ever succeeded until it fell into Mr. Winchester's hands.

MUSIC LOVERS AT CORNELL

Fifth Annual Musical Festival Opens Tonight.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 30.—Many music lovers have been attracted to Ithaca today by the fifth annual musical festial under the direction of the Cornell university department of music, opening this evening and lasting through tomorrow and Saturday.

The introductory lecture on "Musical Appreciation," with special reference to the music of this festival, will be given by Thomas Topper of the Institute of Musical Art New York.

The program proper includes a rendering of Saint-Saen's "Samson and Delilah" by noted soloists and a chorus of nearly two hundred voices trained by Professor Dann; and three concerts by the Boston Festival orchestra; the two evening concerts including also Coloridge Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and Horation W. Parker's "Hora Novissima."

Had Exasperating Habit.

A New York business man obtained a position for his son in a large commercial concern at a nominal salary. He wanted the boy to become acquainted with routine office work and to learn self-reliance. A few days ago, after three weeks of work, which the boy said he liked "first rate," he was told that he was discharged, the reason given to the father in a note which was carried home was: "He has a well-developed case of 'What?' When he has been cured send him back, for we like him." In further explanation to the father the merchant said that the boy had the exasperating habit of asking "What?" whenever anything was asked of him.

Statesmen and Politicians.

"It's remarkable what a difference there is between the politicians of today and the statesmen of yesterday," said Representative Wesley Gaines of Tennessee, in Washington, the other day.

"That is very true," said Representative Kimball of Kentucky. "There is a young self-made fellow in my town, Lexington, who is a real power in the legislature. I once heard him say: 'I don't know nothin' about statesmanship and don't know nothin' about law, but if Henry Clay was down here mixin' in politics I would leave him at the post.'"

Convert to New Creed.

At a dinner given in honor of Augustus Thomas, the playwright, Mr. Thomas discussed his recent efforts at writing plays about telepathy, the occult, etc., and said:

"I am compelled to admit that the occult is becoming popular. Only the other day a chorus girl was entering the lobby of a theater when she met the manager.

"'Well, I declare, Mr. Brown,' she exclaimed, 'if this isn't odd. Here I was just thinking of you this minute, and now you turn up. I always did believe in osteopathy.'"

Tomb of Queen Elizabeth.

The tomb of Queen Elizabeth, in Westminster abbey, was erected at a cost of $4,725, which represented a far larger sum in those days than it does now. The actual material was priced at $535, and Patrick, the ironworker, and John de Critz, the painter, were paid $500.

Mirrors Delay Business.

The proprietor of a large New York department store says that he contemplates removing mirrors from all of the store elevators because they are the cause of women lingering to make sure that their hats are on straight, thereby delaying the handling of passengers.

LEAGUE INVADES DIXIE

THAT KNOWN AS THE INDEPENDENCE, WITH MR. HEARST AT THE HEAD.

FREE LANCE POLITICIANS MEET

Takes a Slap at Both of the Old Parties and Declares That the Time Is Now Ripe for Independent Action.

Birmingham, Ala., April 30.—Free lance politicians of Alabama and representatives of various labor and reform bodies met here today in what is called a state convention of the Independence Party of Alabama.

The convention will name an electoral ticket, select delegates to a national convention and perfect a permanent organization. The party is affiliated with William Randolph Hearst's Independence league and will act with that body in national elections. Its objects and purposes are set forth in the following language:

"We believe that the time has come for independent political action, and that a great national party is imperatively demanded, that will unite in one solid phalanx the farmer, the wage earner and the non-privilege seeking business man. These three elements represent the worth producers of this country and are its backbone and sinew, but, remarkable as it may seem, they have no voice in making laws.

"Both old parties are controlled by the same power, and no genuine reform can come through either. Witness the futile efforts of President Roosevelt in the republican party, the failure to effect reform under Grover Cleveland, when the democratic party was in power, and the failure of Mr. Bryan to prevent the nomination of Judge Parker three years ago, and subsequently his weak surrender to the politicians on the question of government ownership of railroads.

"Genuine reformers are helpless so long as they remain in the ranks of either of the old parties, and it has been the policy of predatory wealth and its political henchmen to keep the people divided into two parties, both being under the same control. And so long as this can be done all this hue and cry against trusts and monopolies and special privileges is but as sounding brass and tinkling cymbal unless accompanied by independent political action.

"The farmers, wage earners and non-privilege seeking business men have heretofore been divided between the two parties of plutocracy, and it is the purpose of the Independent party to unite these three elements and gain control of our government, which has long been in the hands of the representatives of predatory wealth. In no other way can we have the government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Smallest Visible Things.

Few persons would guess that the smallest things visible to the eye are the stars. Yet, according to a high authority, such is the case. Great as many of the stars are in actual magnitude, their distance is so immense that their angular diameter becomes insensible and they approach to the condition of geometrical points. The minute disks that they appear to have are spurious, an effect of radiation.

Takes Snapshots of Guests.

A woman well known for her love of amateur photography as well as hospitality, has, ever since her marriage, carried out the plan of "speeding the parting guest" by taking a snapshot of them. The result is in the guestroom, where a frieze of photographs shows the gallery, making an interesting collection, and one that entertains every new visitor that the room shelters.

Fastidious Cabman.

An old lady about to hire a cab in London asked the cabman if he could take her to Trafalgar square. The cabman replied: "No, mum. I can't and I wouldn't if I could, and the next time you want to eat onions bile 'em!"

Changed His Mind.

Once there was a bachelor man who said that talk was cheap, but one day he got married, and then he learned a heap. For when his so-called better-half doth speak of gowns and such he finds her talk is different—it costs him mighty much.—Chicago Daily News.

SIMPLIFYING the SEARCH for "SOMEBODY!"

THE MERCHANT knows that every article in his store is a bargain for SOMEBODY—for somebody who lives in his store-territory.

The real estate operator and agent know that every piece of property on their list is a "bargain" for SOMEONE—for someone who lives here, or hereabouts.

The landlord knows that his tenantless store, or office, or house, or apartment is exactly what SOMEBODY is looking for—somebody who MAY live actually in the neighborhood.

The householder, with a furnished room to rent, knows that to SOMEONE in town it would appeal as the prettiest "one-room home" possible to find.

The owner of a "used but useful" article of value, no longer personally needed, knows that, to SOMEBODY in town the chance to buy it at a reasonable cash price would be welcome.

For all these people, advertising in this newspaper affords the only practical way to find their especial "somebodies"—to go into the crowd and pick out, unerringly the "right people." : : :

"SONS OF REVOLUTION"

THE NINETEENTH ANNUAL CONGRESS CONVENED AT BUFFALO TODAY.

TO BE IN SESSION THREE DAYS

Meeting of National Trustees This Morning, Followed by Address of Welcome and a Business Meeting.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 30.—Men whose ancestors fought and bled and died during the "times that tried men's souls" gathered in Buffalo today by the hundreds for the nineteenth annual congress of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Among the delegates are many men of great prominence, who have attained to even greater fame than did their forefathers in the stirring days of 1776.

From every state and territory, from Hawaii and even from Europe the Sons of the Revolution have come, and every hour of their three days' stay in Buffalo will be taken up with important business meetings, banquets, receptions and addresses.

A meeting of the trustees of the national society was held this morning in the Iroquois hotel, followed by a reception to the visitors by the members of the local chapter.

Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor J. N. Adam, on behalf of the city of Buffalo, and by officers of the Buffalo chapter. A business session, devoted principally to reports from the national officers, followed the reception.

An automobile excursion was the feature of this afternoon's program. The election of national officers will be held tomorrow. A banquet will be held tomorrow evening and an excursion to Niagara Falls on Saturday.

The National association now numbers about 20,000 members. Every state has its society and in addition to the chapters in Paris and Hawaii, another is being formed in Manila.

The present officers of the national association are Nelson A. McClary, of Chicago, president general; Trueman G. Avery first vice president general; A. Howard Clark, of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, secretary general, and Willard Secor, of Forest City, Ia., treasurer general.

LONDON PRINTERS COMING

To Confer With the International Typographical Union Here.

London, April 30.—At a meeting today of the executive committee of the London Society of Compositors, which has a membership of over 12,000, it was decided to send a delegation of English printers to confer with the International Typographical Union of America at the convention of the latter in Boston next August.

The society will invite the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who was formerly a union printer and who still retains his card, to head the British delegation to America.

World's Need for Love.

The world delights in sunny people. The old are hungering for love more than for bread. The air of joy is very cheap; and if you can help the poor on with a garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.—Henry Drummond.

A Well Known Fact.

Notice.

I have removed my office from 301 Ohio street to rooms 3 and 5, Cassidy building, 510 Ohio street.—Dr. A. J. Campbell.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

COW BREAKS THE RECORD

Furnishes 792 Pounds of Butter in Ten Months' Time.

Denver, Col., April 30.—Financial Countess, a Jersey cow, owned by C. E. Parfel, of Golden, Col., is making a new record. She already has surpassed the present world's record, held by Olive Dunn, owned by A. F. Pierce, Winchester, N. H., for 729 pounds of butter in a year, having produced 792 pounds in ten months.

The world's record for all breeds of cows is held by Pauline, a Holstein, with 34.32 pounds of butter and 2,945 pounds of milk in thirty days.

Parfel hopes to beat this with Financial Countess in another year's test, but she has not equaled it this year.

An Insidious Danger.

FOR DEFENSE OF COAST

AN EXTENSIVE SYSTEM OF MANEUVERS TO BE HELD THE COMING MONTH.

TO PROTECT ATLANTIC SEABOARD

Between Forty and Fifty Fighting Craft Will Participate—The Gunboat Castine to Be "Mother Ship."

Washington, April 30.—An extensive system of maneuvers, in which destroyers, torpedo boats, submarines and other craft will take part, will be held during the coming month by the navy department. The object is to perfect a system of mobile defense for the Atlantic seaboard.

There will be between forty and fifty fighting craft in command of Commander Marsh. Practically all of the thirty-three torpedo boats available will be included, with six or seven submarines and two destroyers. Three submarines of the Viper class will be available, besides two of the Adder class, without counting the Octopus and the Holland.

The feature of the mobilization will be the demonstration of the value of the submarine for coast defense purposes. The navy department contemplates materially increasing the utility of the submarine by providing each flotilla with what is termed a "mother ship."

The gunboat Castine, of 1,117 tons, will be used as "mother ship." The great advantage of the mother ship will be the movable base which it will provide the submarines, thereby increasing their radius of action in a very large degree.

Aside from the practical demonstration, the submarines will go through experiments in diving, in avoiding sea-going craft and in approaching and fleeing from the enemy.

The mobilization of the destroyers and the torpedo boats will be as complete as that of the submarines and will take place at the same time.

HERE'S THE PROOF

But Besides Catarrh, Hyomei Cures Grip, Coughs and Colds, Croup and Asthma.

Read; if You Are a Sufferer From Catarrh, Reason and Reflect.

"My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night, and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm, and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured solely through the use of Hyomei."

Dr. Philip Z. Hart, Laconia, N. H. Reader, this is one of thousands of testimonials praising the marvelous curative power of Hyomei. If you are a sufferer, why not try it? W. E. Bard Drug Co. guarantees it, and will refund your money if it fails to cure. Hyomei is not a stomach nostrum; it is dry antiseptic and medicated air, and all you have to do to cure any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, is to breathe it in through the Hyomei inhaler. A Hyomei outfit, including a scientific inhaler, only costs $1.00. Get one today. Subsequent treatment is only 50 cents a bottle. Get one now. W. E. Bard Drug Co. takes all the risk. Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

WALLACE ON BLUE LAWS

Candidate Discusses Planks in His Platform.

Fayette, Mo., April 30.—Judge William H. Wallace, of Kansas City, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, addressed a large audience here last night. Judge Wallace was introduced by Senator Sam C. Major, and spoke for about two hours.

The speech dealt largely with his enforcement of the Sunday laws in Kansas City and a justification for their existence. He declared that places of amusement had been closed in that city, and that 40,000 persons were now "permitted to rest at least one day in the week."

Concerning his race for governor, Judge Wallace declared that the main planks of his platform were the enforcement of the Sunday observance laws throughout the state, the suppression and obliteration of the saloons, and the aggressive enforcement of every law upon the statute book.

First Meeting in 23 Years.

Harry Nation, traveling representative of a Rochester shoe company who in boyhood days played at the home of Peter Lane, the Ohio street shoe dealer, who was then living at Elwood, Ind., arrived in Sedalia yesterday to call on his trade.

Mr. Nation visited Mr. Lane's store but was not aware of the fact that Mr. Lane was the individual he had known in youth, and his surprise was great when he recognized the friend whom he had not seen in twenty-three years. Mr. Nation spent last night with Mr. Lane and went to Higginsville this morning.
